the TOWN

Although the lawmakers and the ice have both departed for the season the weather still keeps very cool and farming operations are likely to be rather backward. The farmers, however, are not inclined to take a gloomy view of the situation, but are going about predicting a good growing season. They say that there is plenty of moisture in the ground and once Old Sol does loosen up and shed his rays upon it vegetation will be very rapid. Whether this happens or not it is gratifying to see the farmers in an optimistic mood.

Some amateur gardeners are showing impatience at the backward spring but after all there is no occasion for them to do that. While the frost is about all out of the ground the temperature is too low yet to permit of the germination of seeds except it be in hot beds. After all it is questionable whether or not seeds planted while the weather is cool are much farther ahead by the middle of July than seeds planted say the last week in May. A West End gardener, who is undoubtedly one of the most efficient in the city, makes it a rule never to put in his garden until the 24th of May and he always has an abundance of early vegetables, of the very best quality. He claims that by planting his potatoes late he is able to dodge a large percentage of the potato bugs, cut worms and other garden pests and growth is more rapid.

Jack Miner, the Ontario naturalist and conservationist, has one admirer in this city who is in hearty sympathy with his campaign against the crow. The said admirer is none other than Uncle Henry Braithwaite retired trapper and guide, who is now in his 87th year and going strong. Uncle Henry told The Mail recently that he had been so much interested in a recent article from the pen of Mr. Miner describing the crow as a robber and nuisance that he read it over the second time. During his seventy odd years of woodcraft Uncle Henry has seen some crows and has closely observed their methods of making a living, and he is inclined to agree with all that Mr. Miner says. He gives the crow credit for possessing more intelligence than some birds, but claims that they are lacking in redeeming features. Uncle Henry thinks that the farmers would be justified in rigging up a crow trap of the pattern designed by Mr. Miner and waging war on this black nuisance.

Premier Baxter, during the course of a speech on the address in the Legislature, expressed the opinion that temperance societies in New Brunswick were non-existent. He was discussing prohibition at the time and was pointing out that temperance reformers in their zeal for the enforcement of the Intoxicating Liquor Act were inclined to overlook the beneficial results which might accrue from moral suasion. Were the Premier to stroll up Queen Street and make a close scrutiny of the front of the stone barracks, which is now the headquarters of the N. B. Liquor Commission, he would find evidence to show that at least one temperance organization which flourished here in the old days is now as dead as most of those who were identified with it. We have reference to the old Temperance Reform Club of this city. All that is left of this old time dry organization today is its name in large black letters spread half way across the front of the barracks. The Reform Club it seems occupied quarters in the barracks in the old days following the withdrawal of Imperial troops from this city, and when it went out of business it neglected to take down its sign. It seems that at one time the ladies of the W. C. T. U. occupied the down town end of the barracks, where the Liquor Commission now functions, and the sign of this organization is still to be seen across the lower half of the building. As it is the only sign discernible on the barracks front in addition to the one already mentioned it is liable to convey the impression that the Liquor Commission is sailing under false colors. The N. B. Temperance Alliance might do well to give this matter attention and see if some effort cannot be made to have these rather misleading signs obliterated.

The late Col. George Ham of the C. P. R. frequently visited Fredericton in his palmy days and had many warm friends here who were very sorry to learn of his death. An incident connected with one of Col. Ham's visits to this city some years ago furnished the basis for a story which he was fond of relating to his friends throughout Canada. It seems that while hastening to alight from a train at the C. P. R. station he met with a bad fall which was rather destructive to the seat of his trousers. On boarding a coach he asked the driver to let him out at the nearest tailor shop, and the driver obeying orders, soon ushered him into an establishment on Queen Street, kept by our esteemed townsman, Mr. W. E. Seery. As it was an emergency case Mr. Seery dropped his other work and gave his attention to the C. P. R. visitor. He assigned the colonel to a seat in his private office, and intimated that he would have to go trouserless until such time as repairs could be made. Mr. Seery had not more than got started on the job when he recalled that a friend had dropped in that morning and had presented him with two bottles of Guinness stout, which he had carefully laid away for future use. Thinking perhaps that his visitor might be in need of a mild stimulant he turned the trousers over to an assistant to mend, dug out the stout from its hiding place, and joined the trouserless patient in the private office. Now Col. Ham excelled as a story teller and Mr. Seery at that time also was a pretty good hand at drawing the long bow, so it was only natural that while the stout lasted little was thought about the trousers. Finally Col. Ham intimated to his host that he had friends waiting for him at the hotel and as he had to leave by an early train it was essential that he should be properly clothed. Mr. Seery at this hint withdrew and returned a moment later with the trousers, which had been repaired, neatly pressed and were almost as good as new. Col. Ham lost no time in getting into them and on asking for his bill was politely told that there was no charge. "You are very kind; I'll not forget this," were his parting words as he gave William a cordial handshake. A year or so later Mr. Seery noticed a group of strangers halted in front of his shop, one of whom was pointing to the interior, and was relating a story which seemed to greatly amuse his companions. The man who was doing the talking proved to be the genial Col. Ham and it was quite evident that he had not forgotten his previous visit to Mr. Seery's establishment. The others in the party were prominent officials of the C. P. R. on a tour of inspection.

Comfort Depends On Good Digestion

Weak Stomachs Can be Made Strong Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The sufferer from indigestion is greatly to be pitied. This trouble assumes various forms such as pain after eating, gas on the stomach, sour stomach and often vomiting after meals. The sufferer cannot get relief by cutting down his food to a starvation basis. That only still further weakens. What is needed is better digestion, not a poorer diet. And the way to get a better digestion is to so enrich the blood that the stomach will do the work nature intended. As a tonic for building up the blood nothing else can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As this new blood courses through the veins strength and tone is given the stomach and the pangs of indigestion disappear. Not only this, the whole system is strengthened and new life and vim comes to the former sufferer. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is proved by the experience of Mr. E. G. Malcolm, Port Malcolm, N. S., who says:—"For several years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and often could not retain the food I did eat. Only those who have been afflicted with this trouble can realize the suffering I endured. I took a lot of doctors' medicine, but it did not give me more than temporary relief. I also took other remedies recommended, with no better results. Then I read in a newspaper the case of a woman whose symptoms were like my own, who found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I at once got a supply of these pills and had not taken them very long when I began to find relief. Thus encouraged I continued the use of the pills, and I can but sum up what they did for me by saying that they made me feel like a new man. Every trace of the trouble has disappeared and I can now eat and enjoy my meals as well as any one." You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEITHER SIDE IN THE BIG STRIKE WANTS TO YIELD

Second Line of Defence Has Not Been Called Out—Little Change in Situation.

London, May 7—Electrical workers have not been authorized to go on strike it was stated tonight by representatives of the Trades Union Congress. Strikes of electrical workers which have occurred in several factories are unauthorized and have only partly impeded service because volunteers immediately were engaged.

Although the electrical workers have not yet been called out it is only by the grace of the Trades Union Congress that they, the gas, water and textile trades have been allowed to proceed, it was explained by E. L. Poulton, spokesman for the Congress.

These unions, he said, which number another 2,000,000 are known as the Trades Union Congress' second line of defense and will be called out unless there are indications of a speedy settlement of the strike. If it should become apparent that the strikers are getting the worst of the deal it was explained that the entire reserve force would be ordered to join the front line.

At the present time the reeling in union circles is that there is no likelihood of Premier Baldwin receding from his present position and the unionists declare that there is not the slightest chance of any steps toward peace during the week-end.

Intercession services are being held in Westminster Abbey three times each day now and they are attended reverently by large numbers of people.

The leaders of the striking miners will return to the coalfields for week-end speeches unless there are unexpected developments in the general strike in the meantime.

The government has intimated that it has no intention of interfering with orderly meetings but the district commissioners will not permit processions of strikers or their sympathizers.

The Ministry of Health has instructed the Poor Law Guardians to give relief only within the prescribed limits of their powers and not to be affected by any industrial dispute. The scale for cases of destitution is 18 shillings for a man five shillings, five shillings for his wife and two shillings for each child. The health ministry recommends a substantial proposition of relief in kind, especially through communal eating places, as was done in a previous strike.

The moving picture theatres are doing little business at nights, but those in the centre of the metropolis draw big crowds in the afternoon as many suburbanites wish to observe the effect of the strike in the heart of London and they appear willing to risk transportation difficulties when homeward bound, to do this.

Neither side to the strike dispute shows the slightest disposition of yielding to the other. On the con-rary, there is a tendency to use stronger forces on both sides. The government is enrolling thousands of additional volunteers to substitute the strikers and announces that it will reinforce the police by recruiting, if possible 50,000 special constables.

On its side the Trades Union Congress is talking of bringing in its second line of defense, which it is claimed, would add another 2,000,000 to the strikers.
