AMERICAN FOOTBALL GIVEN HARD NAME

University Professors' Association Calls for Drastic Changes — Curtailment of Schedule is Strongly Urged.

Drastic changes in the present system of U. S. intercollegiate football are urged in the current bulletin of the American Association of University Professors, according to The Associated Press. The game as it is now conducted is condemned as conducive to drinking, gambling and dishonesty, and tending to distort values and obscure the real purposes of a college education. This condemnation is contained in a report of a committee headed by Professor Ernest W. Wilkins of the University of Chicago. The committee recommends that representatives from colleges in various parts of the country form a committee to consider remedies for the situation, with a view to adopting a general plan which may be put in operation before the opening of the football season next fall. Adoption of either the Wesleyan parley or the Fauver plan provides that each college schedule only four games a season with opponents in its own class and vicinity, while the Fauver plan, suggested by Dr. Edgar Fauver of Wesleyan, would limit participation of students in intercollegiate football to one year. In support of the latter plan, the committee says that many disadvantages spring primarily from the focusing of under-graduate and public attention on the game and on individual players, particularly in their second and third years of performance, and that restriction of the period of performance would tend to counteract present fare of our college students," the report declares, "lies primarily with our

PACIFIC COAST HOCKEY SAID TO BE ALIVE

Seattle Franchise Not Disposed of — Owner Says a Six-Team League is in Sight.

Seattle, May 7—Wee Coyle of Seattle, holder of an idle Seattle franchise in the Western Hockey League, declared here that the league will not be dissolved, and that Seattle will soon enter a team.

Sale of the Victoria team to Detroit interests and rumors that other clubs of the league were to be abandoned or sold led to reports that hockey in the Pacific Northwest would soon be a thing of the past.

"The date of Seattle's re-entry into hockey," Coyle said, "depends on when a new civic auditorium project is completed. If the structure is available in time for the coming winter's campaign we'll be in with a team, and with us will be Vancouver, Victoria and Portland. San Francisco and Oakland will be ready in another year."

facilities, which have, therefore, the right and the duty to determine under what conditions any college activity should be carried on. Faculty action should, therefore, be taken in the matter.

ENGLISH SPORT GREAT CONTRAST WITH AMERICAN

Sport for Sport's Sake Comes as a Shock to United States — Can't Get Idea.

Members of the Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team, which recently toured the Eastern States, are termed, "casual athletes" by The Princetonian, the daily paper of that university, which highly praises the spirit exhibited by the British visitors. A real shock was dealt to Princeton spectators at the recent Princeton-Oxford-Cambridge match when, between the halves, the Britishers donned their light and dark blue blazers and settled down on the field to chat with their opponents.

"The contrast presented by the visit of the Englishmen to this country is striking," reads the editorial. "They come from a great Empire, where tea-time stops everything from an end run to the King's Privy Council, and they find themselves in a strenuous land which stops for nothing except a 90-yard run through a broken field with one minute to play. Americans have much to learn from these casual athletes who sip tea at the crisis of the game and prefer 'chatting' between halves to drinking in lessons in modified murder at the feet of a storming coach; who apparently play solely for the joy of the game. The Princetonian blames this trait of American collegiate athletics on the lack of money. It maintains that collegiate nationalism has developed until the defense of the honor of the institution smotheres the real pleasure of the game. Sports have become a grim business. The student paper criticizes the spirit of do-or-die determination in athletics. The editorial lays the blame on the lack of informal sports in the colleges.

PORT ARTHUR CLAIMS AMATEUR CHANGES TO STICK

Players of Allan Cup Holding Club All Present But Two — Funds Not Needed.

Port Arthur, May 4—"I can say without qualification that the Port Arthur hockey team will remain intact for another season. I made a very close canvass of the situation before I agreed to accept the nomination for the Presidency again and, from assurances I received, it has become impossible for me to decline, since I have been asked to serve another year," said A. G. Pounsford, President of the Port Arthur Hockey Club at the annual meeting this evening. The executive, with Grenville Walsh as Vice-President and J. J. Hickey as Secretary, was re-elected en bloc at a largely attended meeting.

Mr. Pounsford took occasion to deny the accuracy of a statement which, he said, had gone from Fort William to a Toronto paper to the effect that a fund of $5,000 was being raised to keep the team in Port Arthur for another year. "The team is going to stay, but it is the players' sense of loyalty that will keep them as it did in the past, for in the face of offers that have been received a $5,000 fund would look ridiculous.

Unfair to Champions.

"The statement as published in the East is not correct. We had great hockey in our league with Kenora and Fort William last year, although we had feared the circuit was not large enough, but prospects are for one or two additional teams next season and a definite announcement will probably be forthcoming very shortly, and we will not be in doubt about the composition of our league up to the final weeks as we were last year. I was told by the executive of the Fort William Club today that they will have as good, and perhaps a better, team than they had last season, and after the race they gave us that will be plenty good enough to suit us."

Proceedings of the meeting were brief and informal. The usual reports were submitted and showed affairs in a satisfactory conditions. The announcement of the President about the team's attitude in the face of many offers that have been received since the Allan Cup finals was the big item of interest and was received with enthusiasm by the large attendance.

Stick Together.

President Pounsford had been in conference with the players previously and his statement confirmed the announcements made that they had decided to act in a unit in the matter of their hockey future. All the players were present with the exception of Brydget, who is visiting in the East, and Albert Pudas, who was detained at home.

A Pimply Face Is Unsightly

Miss C. C. M. Smart, South Battleford, Sask., writes:—"A while ago I was troubled with facial blemishes, especially pimples, and was really ashamed to go out with such a bad looking face.

I tried 2 or 3 different remedies, but they didn't help me any, so one day a friend, who had been troubled the same as I was, advised me to use
