HON. MR. KING

PAID VISIT TO RICHIBUCTO

Richibucto, Sept. 2.—"You will not find in the history of Canada a Conservative prime minister who would do the things Mr. Meighen has done," said Hon. W. L. M. King here tonight in charging the premier with usurpation of power. "Would you have a monument in Kent county today to Andrew Bonar Law who was born here if he had done such things as Mr. Meighen has done in the name of the Conservatives?" asked Mr. King. Mr. King arrived here tonight from Prince Edward Island to speak in Kent constituency which returned A. J. Doucet, Conservative, to the commons a year ago.

The record of the last government, said Mr. King, gave assurance to the people of faithful administration, if the Liberal party was returned, as well as a continuance of the prosperity which had been brought to Canada within recent years.

Premier Meighen had by Governor-General's warrants taken $54,000,000 from the treasury and it was apparently being spent for election advantages throughout the country, declared the former premier.

Leaves Doucet Alone.

Mr. King declined to take up arms against A. J. Doucet of Kent county who made the "Margaret" charges by saying that he had never made a personal attack upon a member of parliament yet and did not intend to start now. He would leave it to the people or the constituency to judge.

All along the line the cost of the implements of production had been lowered by the Liberal government. It consequence the cost of living had been reduced to everyone.

ARMIES OF THE FUTURE WILL FACE NEW ENEMY SAYS ARMY SURGEON

Sees in the Development of Chemical Warfare a Problem for the Medical World — Surgeons Today Have Far Greater Knowledge of Antiseptics Than Prevailed in the Old Days.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Wars of the future may bring about the development of an entirely new medical science, is the opinion of a veteran Army surgeon.

Former Major Louis Livingston Seaman, who has served in every American campaign since the Spanish-American war and in the armies of Japan and Belgium, sees in the development of chemical warfare a new enemy for the medical world to tackle. Soldiers' wounds in future wars, said the 76-year-old veteran, probably will be of a nature little known today.

Major Seaman, who recently returned to his home in New York after a tour of Europe as president of the American Surgeons' Travel Club, traced the development of Army medical science as he observed it.

Make Strides Forward

The greater knowledge of antiseptics today was cited as medical science's greatest stride in saving the lives of those brought down in battle. "Where raw carbolic acid, available on rare occasions, formerly was the best that medical science could use in mortifying gunshot and sword wounds," he said, "today a whole gamut of antiseptics can be brought to the aid of nature in keeping a wound clean."

"Though wounds are worse now than formerly, they are in many ways more merciful. Unless a man is torn to pieces by the cruel new inventions of war and killed instantly, the newer knowledge of medical treatment may hope to save him."

WALES SETS PACE ON A PLEASURE TRIP TO FRANCE

Paris, Sept. 3.—The British are said to take their pleasures sadly, but the heir apparent to the British throne certainly takes them strenuously.

Toledo, Sept. 3.—The problem of deciding what to do when a man buys a wife, on the installment plan and then fails to make the payments, today had two Gypsy tribes near here angry and town officials baffled.

Sam Evans, 18-year-old sheik of one tribe, was satisfied to purchase Emma Mitchell, 17-year-old daughter of Waso Mitchell, former champion Gypsy heavyweight boxer of another tribe, for $2,500. The bride's relatives immediately demanded the wife as forfeit.

ACTRESS WINS OUT IN ROW OVER A WORD

London, Sept. 3.—May Moore Duprez, an English actress has won the right to refrain from uttering a naughty old word representing a warm place where bad people go when they die in a new revue which was put on the stage Monday night. Her victory was at the expense of a scene which has been entirely changed to omit the odious word. For the original text the substitute sentence, "You may go wherever you like," which the actress said on the opening night, has been interpolated. "I have given in to Miss Duprez on account of the public," says the producer of the revue, who previously insisted on the word being spoken.

JAPANESE TAKE WHACK AT CO-EDUCATION

Tokio, Sept. 3.—Japan readily has too many "reckless love affairs" and co-education is a danger, Shigetare Tsutsumi, secretary of Nihon Women's college, insists.

"The movement for co-education is premature, Tsutsumi believes, because Japanese youths and maidens fall in love too easily."

For generations there has been rigid segregation of the sexes in Japan and until the inhibitions thus evolved are broken down by the gradual changes which the nation is now undergoing, Tsutsumi believes co-education is not desirable.

"Social conditions have changed enormously in the last 20 or 30 years and young men and women are enjoying a vastly greater freedom of association but the danger in adopting the co-educational system is that the Japanese youth is not yet fully trained to participate in social intercourse. We have too many love affairs which end in tragedy."
