REINDEER RODEO IS A GREAT JOY TO THE ESKIMOS; NO HORSES, STEERS, SADDLES OR GUNS

Nome, Alaska, Dec. 6—Weeks after the State fairs are history the annual Arctic rodeos or great reindeer expositions become the big events at Kotuk, White Mountain, Noorvik, Akiak and Shaktoolik, within a day's drive of Nome and St. Michael. The reindeer rodeos, which for picturesqueness, skill of exhibition and popularity equal the roundups of the Western cowboy country, often draw 1,000 natives with many white miners and trappers.

Not a horse, steer, saddle nor gun enters in the program, yet races, contests and prize winning entries encourage much spirited competition.

These arctic fairs are staged under the auspices of the United States Bureau of Education for the natives of northwestern Alaska to advance primarily the reindeer industry. The rodeos, usually held in January, February and March, add unlimited stimulus to the reindeer business and develop keen interest among the Eskimo herders and owners.

The Prize Contests.

Prizes are awarded in contests, as racing, roping, herding, driving, creation and perfection of equipment. All affairs pertaining to reindeer are discussed and Government representatives advise on marketing and improving the breed of stock.

In the sports division of these shows interest is encouraged in racing. Awards are made for short and long distance races, speed and efficiency in slaughtering, handling of tandem teams and sleds, breaking to harness wild deer, snowshoe running while driving reindeer, building of sleds and harness. New ideas are examined with a view to passing the good thing on to neighbors.

A huge circus tent pitched on the level frozen surface of a river serves as sleeping quarters for visiting reindeer herders and exhibitors. The spread of canvas is in itself a big attraction to the Eskimos, who liken it to a mammoth igloo of the happy hunting land. They come every year and are each time just as much awed by the swinging spread of cloth and its glittering electric lights.

Ten Mile Race.

Last winter the first prize in sled construction was one with no bolts in joints or mortices, each being wrapped with whalebone instead of rawhide or sinew. The sled weighed fifty pounds with a capacity strength of half a ton.

The long distance contest is a ten mile round trip. The deer start away like bullets, last season's record being thirty-seven minutes in a field of twenty-four entries.

One sled reindeer made a pulling test by drawing on level snow a sledge laden with 2,300 pounds of sacked sand.

In voting for prize winners of harness, sleds or reindeer products the ten judges stand with their backs on the exhibits. They turn slowly around one by one, each pointing at their particular choice while a government official records it.

A peculiar rule in racing requires that the driver must bring his reindeer in to the starting point. If the animal balks at pulling the load and driver, then the driver in turn hauls in the manacled animal. Contestants striving against such odds cause an immense amount of comedy, that adds as much fame to the luckless one as is accorded great American movie stars.

Some Tricks Tried.

Other stunts of great interest to the industrious Eskimo is tying cargo to sleds, new ways of attaching harness to the animals and trick ways of hitching tandem.

The principal products of the industry are reindeer robes, leather goods, calf skins for coat linings, moccasins,

Of Interest to the Women

FASHION JOTTINGS.

The brim of the small is gaining in width, the newest models showing brims from two to three inches wide.

The three most fashionable daytime colors are pre-eminently black, then the rich wines and garnets, followed by the greens.

White is the outstanding color at fashionable evening gatherings, but there is a strong trend toward black and white effects.

Dyed rhinestones are new. Evening slippers in black and gold with heels and straps or buckles in gold colored rhinestones are effective.

Just now the black satin hat with a metallic touch is registering high in fashions. This "touch" may be in ribbon bands, insets or in the ornament.

Among the new blouse colors is Mother Goose, which is a soft tan; a grayblue is known as Sistine and Athenia is a shade between tan and rose.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

Powdered starch applied instantly to fruit stains on linen will remove the stain.

After using gasoline for cleaning purposes, strain it through a filter and it will be clean.

If you spill any iodine on fabric or on your own skin remove the stains by washing in borated ammonia.

Leather traveling bags may be cleaned by rubbing them well with the inside of a banana skin, then polishing with a soft, dry cloth.

When the glass stopper of a perfume bottle refuses to come out, pour a little glycerine around neck and let stand for awhile. Then you can remove it with ease.

After you have washed gold or silver jewelry with precious stones dry by brushing with a soft brush and dipping in a mixture of boxwood sawdust and jeweler's rouge.

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled.

Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like a "vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action of ten checks the worst cold overnight.

reindeer meat, milk and cheese, tallow and sausage, hot dogs and pemmican and various articles carved from the antlers and fresh bones.

Since the herding of deer has been popularized the Alaskan natives of the tundra are wealthy and surrounded with comforts. Many are gradually assuming civilized methods of living, using wooden and stone houses with electric lights, eating much the same food as the white population at the coast towns.

Of great interest at this winter's fairs will be the showing for the first time in the far north of such epochal films as "Covered Wagon," "North of 26," "The Iron Horse," "The Vanishing American" and others.
