Beaverbrook Teachers' Tour Described to the Teachers' Institute

J. E. Page, A. S. McFarlane and Miss Sadie L. Thompson Described It — Excellent Lesson Taught by Miss Pearle Ross.

The York and Sunbury Teachers' Institute Thursday afternoon heard a number of members speak upon the tour of Great Britain given a party of teachers last summer through the courtesy and generosity of Lord Beaverbrook.

Institute resumed at 1.30. Audit Committee reported accounts. Nominating Committee reported several names for each office and balloting took place.

Beaverbrook Trip.

John E. Page reported the Beaverbrook trip for twenty-five N. B. Teachers and the wives of six of them. Mr. Page sketched the life of Lord Beaverbrook and said that Beaverbrook had given the tour in order that the teachers might get acquainted with the Old Country and that such public men as the late Bonar Law should not be forgotten. The travelling arrangements were perfect, the accommodations the best, the trip to Quebec with observation car, a splendid ship with perfect arrangements therein, all sorts of games on deck, opportunities for dancing. Evening concerts, lectures and moving pictures. Stepped off Queenstown, sailed up the Clyde, seeing many historical points, met at Greenock by Lady Beaverbrook's party, landed at Glasgow. Then by motor car to "Burns" home; crossing on return the famous Bridge of Tyne. Visited The Trossachs and other places mentioned in The Lady of the Lake, Stirling and other cities palaces connected with Mary Queen of Scots, the haunts of Scott, and the "Lake District" of England. The banquet at Edinburgh had cost $10 a plate. Well known educators had accompanied the party and explained and described everything. The weather had been perfect, and the whole most interesting and enlightening.

Principal A. S. MacFarlane took up the trip in the Lake Country and described that through England, Chester City was remarkably terraced. They travelled the old Roman roads, on high land, with wonderful views. They were shown the terrible dungeons of Warwick Castle, where scarcely a prisoner returned alive or sane. The land of Shakespeare and Thomas Gray, was not neglected.

The party were given facilities not open to the ordinary tourist. Private dining rooms in famous old castles were seen. Famous old schools, such as Eton were inspected, the furniture and rooms of which were not as convenient and commodious as ours. Windsor Castle and other places along the Thames were seen. Transportation was by train or motor car or boat as convenient at the time. Vast estates enclosed by stone walls showed the reason of Lloyd George's land campaign. The banquet in the City of London cost $20 a plate, 300 guests. The London colleges were inspected. He had seen a moving picture of the circulation of the blood—a wonderful picture. The reception at Windsor Castle was a grand affair. There was a great scramble before the garden party to secure the necessary clothing in which to be presented to their Majesties, who were very kind. The party was in a six-acre lawn, 13,000 people but nobody crowded. Besides Royalty a number of distinguished statesmen were met. The trip had been a wonderful one.

Miss Pearl Ross gave a most valuable lesson on "Stocks and Shares" to a class of 199 boys and girls. She first developed the idea of the lesson, and then had a number of questions done by the pupils. Class acquitted themselves to the credit of themselves and their teacher.

More Beaverbrook.

Miss Sadie L. Thompson continued the description of the Beaverbrook trip, telling about the Teachers' visit to Ireland. Landing in Ireland the teachers were guests of the Vice-roy of the Irish Free State. His Excellency Hon. Timothy Healy. Ireland was a land of wonderful scenery, surpassing both Scotland and England in religious relics. All places of interest in Dublin, Glendalough, Killarney, Bantry and vicinity were visited, the Vice-roy giving the party a splendid time.

HOUDINI IN HIS CAREER

MADE MANY WONDERFUL ESCAPES; SOME EXPLOITS

Some notable escapes by Houdini were:

Broke out of the Siberian prison van in Moscow, Russia, in May, 1903.

Leaped, heaving handcuffed, from the Belle Isle Bridge into the Detroit River, December 2, 1906, and released himself under the icy waters.

Leaped into San Francisco Bay, August 26, 1907, handcuffed with hands behind his back, with more than 75 pounds of ball and chain locked to his body.

Freed himself from shackles especially constructed by workers at the Krupp factories in Essen, Germany, in 1901.

In one of his favorite tricks he permitted himself to be bound hand and foot in a box wrapped with ropes and chains and placed under water.

Probably one of his most spectacular feats was when he was confined in a coffin under water for 90 minutes. This performance resulted from his long standing challenge that he could duplicate or expose any seemingly magic trick. Short breaths and conservation of oxygen did it, was Houdini's explanation.

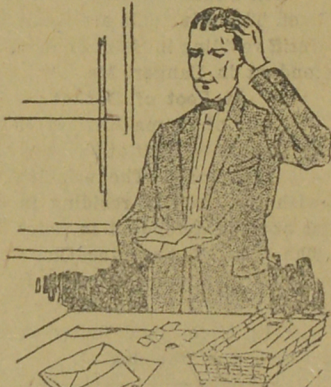

Houdini's mysterious feats of escape today were locked in the mystery of death. The magician died taking with him the secrets of how he escaped from manacles, chains, coffins, straight jackets and other contrivances, performances which no other man ever had duplicated under his challenge.

Although Houdini wrote copiously on magic, his managers announced that his own methods were never revealed. "His stunts were his own, and not adapted from something some one else had done," said B. M. L. Ernst, Vice-President of the Society of American Magicians, offering an explanation of his unrevealed mysteries. He first turned his attention to business of opening locks without keys, when he was apprenticed to a locksmith in Appleton, Wis., his birthplace.

The trick of opening handcuffs was discovered when a handcuffed prisoner was brought into Appleton by a sheriff, who had lost his keys. Houdini said the trick was known only to him, his wife and the prisoner.

BLUNDERS

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

It is unwise to guess the weight of a letter to determine the amount of postage required. Such guessing often results in "Postage Due," which may cause delay in delivery and, in the case of business letters often results in a dissatisfied customer.

THE HALL-MILLS CASE PRESENTED TO THE JURY

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 3—Mrs. Frances Noel Hall sat in the county court house today and heard Special Prosecutor Simpson tell 12 "good men and true" that "this strong, proud woman" became involved in the murder four years ago of her husband, Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Prosecutor Simpson sprang his first surprise as the trial of Mrs. Hall and her relatives opened, by producing John L. Dixon, who swore that on the night of the double murder "Willie" Stevens, eccentric brother of Mrs. Hall was at North Plainfield, N. J., nine miles from the scene of the tragedy. In statements made during previous investigations "Willie" Stevens said that he spent the evening at Mrs. Hall's home where he lived.

Dixon deposed that Stevens appeared excited and that he explained that he had just been set down from his sister's automobile and asked directions. Stevens thought, Dixon said, that he was near the Parker House, which is about 500 yards from the scene of the murder.

Dixon's testimony was corroborated by his wife, who remembered shaking hands with "Willie," finding his hand soft and cold and clammy.

Charlotte Mills, daughter of the murdered chorister, testified that she was taken to the home of Ellis Parker, detective, where Parker tried to get her to say her father, James Mills, had been out on the night of the murders. When defense counsel objected, Prosecutor Simpson shouted that he would prove that Henry Stevens a brother of Mrs. Hall one of the accused, had worked with Parker in an attempt to fasten the crime on Mills. Charlotte, dressed in short skirts, buried her bobbed head in her hands and sobbed during her testimony. She is under contract to write newspaper articles on the trial.
