CAMPAIGN IN WEST MIDDLESEX IS WARMING UP; THE WESTERN LAND DEAL MADE AN ISSUE

Strathroy, March 22—Nominations for the West Middlesex by-election on March 29th opened with local sharp-shooting and closed with the thunder of long range artillery. The joint meeting which followed the official nomination proceedings developed an unexpected issue concerning a transaction in land in Saskatchewan in 1922 in which Hon. J. C. Elliott, of London, Ont., Minister of Labor in the Dominion government and re-nominated candidate for West Middlesex, frankly admitted he took part.

The matter was brought up towards the close of the proceedings by Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative member for Fort William, who spoke on behalf of the Conservative nominee, Thomas Elliott.

Reads a Telegram.

After delivering a vigorous criticism of the government of Premier King, Mr. Manion rather dramatically produced a long telegram just received from W. A. Boys, M. P., South Simcoe, Conservative whip in the House of Commons. The telegram stated that in 1922, one J. C. Elliott, barrister, of Glencoe, Ont., had brought land near Regina, Sask., making a payment down of $9,000 and that within three months and five days had transferred the said lands to the Saskatchewan Liberal government to be used as a jail site, receiving $47,700 cash, including the $9,000. Mr. Boys asked if this was the same J. C. Elliott, now Minister of Labor.

Demonstration Arises.

Immediately there was a demonstration among the men and women in the hall which was packed to suffocation. The chairman, Mayor George Lewis, had just previously appealed for a fair hearing of all the speakers. The crowd quieted and there was a tenseness in the air when the Minister of Labor rose to speak. He said he was the J. C. Elliott referred to in the telegram. Political capital had been made of the matter at the time, he declared. There was an investigation by Chief Justice Haultain, who was chairman and the transaction was found to be "regular, correct, honest and square," said Mr. Elliott, and he (Mr. Elliott) was not called upon to testify.

Dealing with various issues of the campaign before Dr. Manion brought out the Boys' telegram, Hon. J. C. Elliott reviewed his work in the Ontario legislature and the House of Commons. He intimated that it was a general thing for private members elevated to cabinet rank to secure acclamation, but he accepted the challenge of the Conservatives for a contest. His work as a conciliating solicitor for many years in the riding, he submitted, gave him some qualification for the post of Minister of Labor.

Thomas A. Elliott, Conservative candidate, speaking as a farmer, declared that the Dominion needed a Conservative government to put agriculture as well as other industries of the country on their feet. Farmers needed protection by tariff. Australian farm produce should not be allowed to flood the Dominion, he said, and a market should be found for Canadian cattle in the United States.

Campaign Issue.

It was intimated by Dr. Manion that the Boys' telegram and Mr. Elliott's reply thereto would be made an issue throughout the campaign this week. The Conservatives have arranged several meetings at which Col. Harry Mullins, M. P., Marquette; D. M. Sutherland, M. P., North Oxford; John L. Steansell, M. P., Norfolk-Elgin; Dr. Manion and others will speak. Duncan Marshall, Liberal organizer in the riding to assist Tom J. C. Elliott and it has been announced that Premier King will speak at Strathroy on Saturday.

Radio and long distance telephones are being used considerably in the campaign by both sides.

BLIND, DEVELOPS A NEW SENSE TO READ CHARACTER

Evanston, Ill., March 22—A new sense has been developed by Carl W. Bostrom, blind student at Northwestern University, who detects the attitude by which people observe and greet him.

"I have tested this strange sensing of character over my entire college career and find that its impressions generally are true," Bostrom said.

The reactions Bostrom feels include Dishonesty—A pressure on the heart.

Bluer—General Irritation.

Unwelcome greeting—Slight tenseness through entire body.

"Such impressions seem to be intuitive and I have found this reaction is more reliable as a guide than advice of other persons," the blind student said.

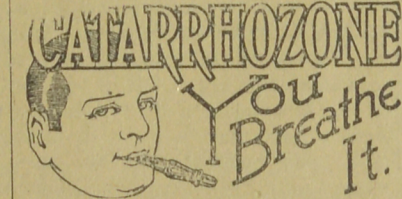

Germes of Sore Throat Destroyed Quickly By Catarrhazone

Crowded Dusty Places are Dangerous Because of Disease Germs in the Air

Dangerous infections which you pick up in your breathing, can be readily destroyed if you cleanse your nose, mouth and throat with CATARRHAZONE.

No more effective way of destroying disease germs in the mouth has ever been devised—that is why Catarrhazone is so popular. When it's soothing vapor is inhaled, it releases powerful antiseptics which combine with the saliva, and destroy every vestige of germ life.

By always carrying a Catarrhazone Inhaler, you have a sure protection for use against the germs of Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis and various other infections. Get Catarrhazone today. All druggists sell it; complete outfit, $1.00; small size, 50 cents.

Outside the place which modernists are trying to abolish there is no chance of popularity for the motorist who steps on the gas after hitting his victim.

FORMER R. C. R. BANDSMAN PASSES AWAY

The Telegraph-Journal announces the death of Charles Stewart Elsdon who passed away at the residence of Alexander Anderson, 46 St. David street, Saint John, on March 22, aged 56 years years. Mr. Elsdon gave 30 years of service as guard, keeper and deputy warden of Dorchester Penitentiary having retired in November, 1924. Since that time he had resided in Hampton, N. B. He was an active member of the Masonic order and a past master of Sussex Lodge in Dorchester. He is survived by his wife and four children, Mrs. Frank Meadows, of Blackie, Alberta; Miss Elizabeth and Miss Carrie, nurses, practicing their profession in Boston, and Miss Jane at home. His only son was killed in the late war in 1918. Mr. Elsdon is also survived by two sisters and three brothers.

Was Known Here.

The late Mr. Elsdon will be well remembered by old residents of this city as a member of the band of the Royal Canadian Regiment. He was a member of the corps for about six years and enjoyed great popularity. It was on the recommendation of Col. W. D. Gordon that he received the appointment of guard on the staff of the Maritime Penitentiary. He served as guard, keeper and afterwards as deputy warden, retiring in 1924.

VODKA AS A MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE

Leningrad, Russia, March 22—The bartering of husbands and wives for vodka, allegedly with the sanction of the local authorities, is reported from Odessa Province. Wives are worth more measures in vodka than are mere husbands, if two instances cited may be taken as average ones.

A villager named Seperenko received two bottles from a neighboring farmer in exchange for his wife, while a peasant woman named Okopna turned her husband over to a woman friend for only one bottle, worth about 50 cents.

SUPPORTERS AND ENEMIES OF SALES TAX ON MAIL ORDER BUSINESS HEARD THIS MORNING

but he had sympathy for the retailers.

Walter G. DeWolfe.

Walter G. DeWolfe of St. Stephen also spoke for the bill. He said it was a fallacy to say that taxation of the mail order business would increase the cost of living. The ordinary articles of food were not dealt in by mail order houses. Each community was supported largely by local merchants and there was no comparison between the contribution made by them within the Province and that made by mail order houses.

M. E. Grass.

M. E. Grass of Saint John said that the retailers were not seeking special privileges. They wanted taxation placed where it belonged. It was a fact that a mail order house located in Moncton paid out $359,990 in postage. Yet the postal business was run at a loss and the mail order houses were adding in piling up that deficit.

He proceeded to quote Western opinion on the question and also said that New Brunswick business failures had been made possible by unfair competition from mail order houses. Even if the bill as presented could not be adopted he could assure the Premier that if the principle were adopted a way could be found to put the purpose into effect.

H. S. Campbell.

H. S. Campbell of Fredericton spoke briefly giving support to the bill and to the arguments already advanced.

A. E. McSweeney

A. E. McSweeney of Moncton also spoke. He said he had been threatened with reprisals in his own town, T. Eaton Co., being in Moncton, but he came fearless and unafraid. That company had done $15,000,000 in business and had paid in taxation the trifling amount of $18,500. For three years they had paid no income tax trying to intimidate they had made no profits, yet they had made a great addition to this plant in that period. The retail trade merely asked for a fair deal.

M. B. Douglas

M. B. Douglas of Ottawa, General Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association also was heard quoting statistics extensively.

M. Tilley asked for those opposing the bill to state their case.

Opposition to Bill

J. W. Gascom, County Councillor for Albert County, said he appeared with four others. He said that in Fredericton were two large manufacturing enterprises which would have to quit business if deprived of orders which they received from mail order business. As far as the small country store was concerned he knew of such stores in his own parish almost under the shadow of the mail order house that did not want this bill.

Mr. Gascom then proceeded to read a lengthy statement in defence of the mail order houses which stated that the retailer was prone to complain of what the other fellow was doing instead of doing something himself.

Premier's Statement

Premier Baxter said that the matter was not new to the government. It had been considered. Revenue was a vitally interesting matter to the government and anything concerning it would be considered. The needs of community interest had been well presented. There also was the feature that no company or organization should escape paying its fair share to public expenses.

In his mind there was grave doubts of the constitutionality of such taxation. Of course taxation on T. Eaton & Co. at Moncton could be accomplished.

ed. He intended to secure an opinion from the best legal mind unretained by either the Retail Merchants Association or the mail order houses on the subject. After receiving the opinion the government could act.

Dominion Could Act.

There was no doubt that the Dominion Parliament could deal with the subject—transportation and taxation lay within its powers. The Dominion government could tax anything and distribute the proceeds among the provinces.

Without the postal service the mail order houses could not operate. There was a doubt if the mail order houses paid as much as the actual cost of transportation of their goods through the mails. The postal service could change this by advancing the rates.

Representations Against Bill

The Government had a feeling of sympathy to any body of people claiming to be unfairly used. On the other hand he must say that the government had received representation from many who claim the right to buy as cheaply as they can and who are strongly in favor of the mail order house.

ONE IN SIX FARMS OWNS RADIO SET

Washington, March 22—One out of every six farmers in the country now have radio sets in their homes to aid them in business and at the same time give their families educational and entertainment programs from the air, according to Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

"Radio is a great benefit to agriculture," Jardine said. "Well-established schedules of weather, crop and market reports are broadcast from more than 100 stations in all parts of the country."

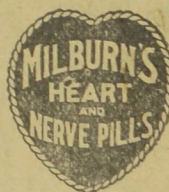

By use of the radio, Jardine said, the farmers can tell the market prices prevailing and determine when it is practical to send their crops to the markets. Through weather reports they determine when to plant and harvest. The agricultural department also has lectures on how to combat plant disease, insect pest, crop rotation and other subjects that will aid farmers to operate their businesses on a scientific basis.

Farmers in most cases have high power sets capable of "tuning in" on distance stations.
