

Southern Section N. B. Hockey League Meeting

Representatives From Sussex, Fredericton, St. John and Moncton Meet at St. John Today—Officers Will be Elected and Other Matters Brought Up—St. John Fusiliers Already Hard at Work—R. Armstrong represents this City.

The Southern Section of the New Brunswick Hockey League will hold its annual meeting at the Admiral Beatty Hotel at 7.30 this evening. Representatives from the Saint John Fusiliers, Moncton Athletics, Sussex Colts and Fredericton are expected to be present. It is expected that the league will be constituted by the same teams as last year. For a time it was thought that Amherst of last year's Central Section would make application for admission. It now appears sure that the Central Section will function again this year and it is not believed that Amherst will have delegates present.

So far as officials knew last evening there was nothing of contentious nature to come up. Officers will be elected and a schedule arranged after which the meeting will be thrown open for general discussion. The section has no authority to make rules but can adjust minor matters arising out of them for its own administration.

One matter that is expected to come up is the double referee system. It is believed that some of the delegates will advocate that all games be handled by two officials, one to watch each end of the rink. It is also believed that the official referees will be named at meeting.

Working Out
With the opening of the league season little more than a month away, the Fusiliers are getting in some hard conditioning practices so that he team will be in good physical shape when ice is available. The team will probably be about the same as last year with the addition of two or three new men. One of the newcomers is a brother of Tod Thompson and is said to be even better than Tod. Another is McDonald, a Prince Edward Island player. McDonald has been playing around Alberton and is highly spoken of by those who have seen him in action.

The one and only "Gibby" Wilson will be in the nets with Harry Bartlett on defence. Ernst who teamed with Bartlett last year is not in the city, and Ferguson who played a sensational game at Halifax when Ernst was hurt last season, is regarded as the most likely successor to the position.

Keating Back
Jackie Keating will be at his usual position in centre with Clark on one side and Thompson on the other. In addition to the new men Jimmy Mountain and Frank Kiley are available for relief work, with Kiley quite capable of handling a regular position if necessary.

It is not definitely known whether Charlie Irvine will be with the team or not. Irvine returned to his home in Devon several weeks ago. His friends do not know whether he intends coming back to Saint John in time for the opening of the season but some of them think it probable that he will be on hand.

TOM HEENEY SURE OF BEING NEXT CHAMP

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 22—Tom Heene thinks he will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The brawny blacksmith who took a terrific trouncing from Gene Tunney in the later's farewell ring appearance last summer, says he believes he can enter any heavyweight elimination tournament and emerge the sole survivor.

"The bout I had with Tunney taught me a great deal," Tom said here yesterday when he arrived with his bride on the last lap of a round-the-world honeymoon tour. "I made a lot of mistakes in that fight that I'll never make again."

Heene is now headed for New York where he will start intensive training for what he hopes will be a busy winter campaign. Tom's biggest ambition is to get into the same ring with Jack Dempsey. "He is the greatest of them all," says the New Zealander, "and I never will consider myself a really experienced fighter until I have had a go with Jack."

Mrs. Heene, the former Marion Estelle Dunn of Spring Valley, N. Y., was asked whether she likes being married to a prize fighter. She didn't know about the prize-fighter part of it but she did enjoy being "married to Tom." What's more she'll not interfere with Tom's business of fighting.

"That is his life," said Mrs. Heene. "So why should I want him to change? He'd be like a fish out of water doing anything else. He can stick to the ring just as long as he wants to and I'll never complain."

SPORT BRIEFS

Title at Stake.
Halifax, N. S., Nov. 22—Caledonia, Cape Breton champions, will meet the Halifax Wanderers at Truro Saturday afternoon for the English Rugby championship of the Maritime Provinces.

Tourney Out West.
Cleveland, O., Nov. 22—Like the national amateur, the Professional Golfers' Association's tournament will be held in the far west next year. Holding their annual convention here yesterday, the professional golfers decided to hold next year's meet at Santa Barbara, Calif., early in December. The national amateur is to be played at Preble Beach.

Alex Pirie, veteran pro of the Old Elm Club, Chicago, was chosen president for the third successive year.

Courtney Wins.
Cleveland, Nov. 22—George Courtney, Oklahoma middleweight, won over Charlie Belanger, of New York by a technical knockout in the fifth stanza of a 12-round main bout here last night.

Champs Beaten.
Eugene, Ore., Nov. 22—Johnny Farrell and Walter Hagen were defeated in an exhibition golf match here yesterday by Vincent Dolp and Don Moe, young University of Oregon students. The match was the best ball foursome which Dolp and Moe turned in in a model score of 66, a 34 and a 32. Hagen and Farrell totalled 69 with 34 and 35.

bobbed hair might well appear the modern school or college girl. Phyllis Haver is entirely the flapper type in many of her pictures.

So it goes. Clara Bow in some of her pictures might well be considered in modern type of vampire. None of the present-day stars it seems jibe with the old type.

Pola Negri of the present-day stars perhaps comes nearer to the old type than any. But even she is not of the siren type that former stars depicted. Figures of the underworld, flappers and gay characters today take the place of the old vampire.

FEASTS FORTY DAYS FOR THE KING OF KINGS

London, Nov. 22—Feasting and rejoicing in Ethiopia in honor of the coronation of Ras Tafari as "King of Kings," which has been in progress since October 7, is at last beginning to subside. Reports from the inland fastness of Abyssinia, state that the capital city of Addis Abbeba for more than a month has been giving the "The Lion of Judah and elect of God" a proper sendoff on his reign.

Virtually every engineer, carpenter, mason and workman of the country was engaged by the government in erecting triumphal arches, building roads and hanging flags and decorations at public places.

One of the biggest events of the ceremonies was a seven-day feast. There was a continuous stream of cattle, sheep and countless loads of grain and native beverages from the rural parts to the city for the gargantuan affair. The entire Abyssinian army—and almost every able-bodied male in the kingdom is a part of the army—was fed. They had to be marched to the banquet board in relays.

Only actual heads of foreign legations were invited to the coronation ceremonies October 7, but neither they nor anybody else saw the actual crowning, as a curtain was drawn around their majesties—Ras and the Empress placed the royal diadem on the head of Ras Tafari, proclaimed him the monarch, and handed him a sword. Then the curtain was withdrawn and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

SELLING CARS PROFITABLE FOR A WOMAN

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 22—The way to win is to succeed, and vice versa. Such sums the philosophy of a local married woman, Mrs. W. W. Hayes, who is making money hand over fist as an automobile saleswoman, and still has plenty of time to run home properly.

Knows Her Autos

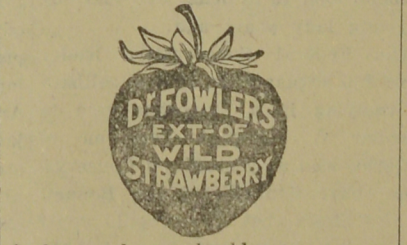

She knows cars, in the first place and drives without all the men drivers praying that she be boiled in oil and then hanged by the neck until dead. She also knows how to tinker her vehicle, and always kept her car looking neat as wax. She bought a new car last spring, studied it, and enthused. She has a flair for color, and when her car was delivered, painted as she wanted it, the countryside was edified.

Others, men and women, had to examine the car, and in a short time she had persuaded a few buyers to go to the place she got her's. The management of the company insisted on paying her a commission, and urged her to take up the work as a part-time proposition.

She made more than $2000 in commissions in her first five months, "and the income has improved since then," she says. "To succeed in selling automobiles, a woman first must know her car and secondly, be enthused over it, and able to impart the pride to ownership to others and set up desire to have one. It is not easy work. It is hard, but fascinating, interesting and profitable. And all my customers are pleased. I had faith in my ability to talk and sell color ideas as well as the purely mechanical phases of automobiles, which more and more women are owning and driving."

They asked the old-timer at the party which he liked less, a ukulele or a saxophone, and he said "Zither."

W. O. M'GEEHAN GIVES OPINION OF PRO HOCKEY

New York, Nov. 22—Commenting on the Canadian hockey players, W. D. McGeehan, noted sports writer of The Herald-Tribune, said today:

Play Hard.
"The professional hockey players now showing at Madison Square Garden still play their game with murderous earnestness. They play as hard and with the same recklessness in regard to personal injury as intercollegiate football players, out to tie for their dear old Alma Mater."

"This is because the players are all Canadians, and in the parlance of Broadway, have not yet been 'smarted up' as to the ways of handling professional sports. To the average professional the game they play is somewhat naive. They have their private feuds and their ideals of sportsmanship which still make them play with all that is in them."

Few Years' Wait.
"But wait a few years until they get the spirit of Madison Square Garden, where professional sport is a business and sometimes a racket. They will be listening to the whispers of the sure-thing man who frequent the place and the fire that is in the professional hockey game will start to die out. The sure-thing men have their eyes on the game and already are scheming to make it into a racket."

"Give the boys time and professional hockey will become as little a sport as wrestling, six-day bicycle racing or prizefighting. There is too much money in hockey as a racket for it to remain as it has been."

HOCKEY RESULTS

Ottawa 1, Montreal 0.
Canadiens 0, Pittsburgh 0 (over-time).
Toronto 0, New York Americans 3.
Boston 0, Detroit 2.
At Chicago—Rangers 2; Black Hawks 1.

SIX ELEVENS STILL UNBEATEN N. S. FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 23—The ranks of unbeaten and untied college football teams included only six elevens today—three from the South, two from the East and one from the middle West.

Two southern teams lead in points scored this year, Florida first with 264 and Tennessee second with 236. The middle western team—Detroit University—leads the defensive column having held it opponents to 14 points.

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Pts.
Florida	7	0	0	264	25
Tennessee	8	0	0	236	39
Detroit U.	8	0	0	234	14
Carnegie Tech	7	0	0	207	26
Boston College	6	0	0	174	19
Georgia Tech	7	0	0	142	34

Ken Strong, New York University's flashy halfback, continues at the head of the individual scorers with a total of 139 points for the season—19 touchdowns and 25 extra points. He scored three of each against Missouri last Saturday.

SETS THE FASHIONS; ONCE WAS SUPREME

Hollywood, Nov. 22—A new type of vampire holds the screen today. The dark, deep, all calculating siren has given place to the more up-to-date breezy and bright type.

Not so many years ago, Theda Bara, Virginia Pearson, Nita Naldi and others played the vampire roles and were the big stars. Practically all were brunettes. Not only hair but complexion was dark. Mysterious eyes or almost oriental deep eyes seemed almost a necessity to such vampires of the screen.

Their charm lay, too, in their slow, studied, dramatic movements.

Today it is different. Greta Garbo, for instance, might well typify the modern vampire. She is blonde, bobbed haired and modern in every way. Greta Nissen with her flaxen locks and
