BOSTON WRITER
SPEAKS ON OLD-
TIME HURLERS

(Grantland Rice)
In speaking of old time pitching stars, Walter F. (Dutch) Carter says that John Clarkson knew things "about gripping a ball, footwork and knee action, back behind the swing and other pitching essentials in the way of nine points which I never heard anybody else mention." Cy Young was the pitcher Clark picked for the famous Dutch Carter to follow and study. "Cy not only had great control" says Carter "but a real overhand fast ball with a hop" something that is still a rarity in the pitching ranks of today.

Chief Bender had it although the chief says that every now and then the "hop" would suddenly vanish. "My speed would be as much as ever, but as straight as a string. Then it would suddenly return."

Bender had one of the most remarkable set of pitching fingers I ever saw. Then were long, slender and powerful, and were largely responsible for the speed and the hop combined. He was one of greatest "one game" big money pitchers that ever lived, with the ability to keep relaxed in situations that were enough to crack the morale of any average star.

Quinn Real Veteran

Alexander came in with a flare of fame in 1911. But what about Jack Quinn, of the Athletics? Jack Quinn was pitching winning ball in the minors around 1904 only a short while after Christy Mathewson came to the Giants—three years before Walter Johnson worked for Washington. This is Quinn's 25th or 26th season in professional baseball. But the old wing is still whirring and he has no intention yet of tossing his glove in the ashcan.

Red Wilson, the half brother to Silver Weather 2.06½ which Walter Garrison will race in the 3 year old paces through the Bay State Circuit has trained in 2.19¼ with the final quarter in 30½ at Bridgeton N. J.

Peter Buskirk, 2.08¼ named in the 2.11 class trots through the Bay State and Orange County Circuits is not eligible and has been dropped into the free-for-alls.

GENTLEMAN JIM
AT A LUNCHEON
GIVES RING TALK

Boston, May 9—"Gentleman Jim" Corbett, known to ring history as the ex-heavyweight champion of the world and to Boston as the man who licked John L. Sullivan arrived here yesterday for a week's engagement at Loew's Orpheum Theatre.

At a luncheon given in his honor at the Elks Hotel yesterday noon, James J. told the secret of eternal youth to the crowd gathered there to greet him and told Jack Sharkey another guest, the secret of beating Gene Tunney.

His secret of youth—and Gentleman Jim admits being 62 years old—is diet and disposition. Since he was 50 years old, Corbett has not eaten red meat. Lamb, chicken and fish constitute the major portion of his food but even more important than diet is disposition.

"Youth is nothing but happiness and contentment" said Corbett. "Do a little good every day and it will keep you young and happy."

Incidentally, the old champion blames the men for most of the family troubles which visit married couples, and when he uttered that statement the married reporters stopped their scribbles abruptly.

Corbett does not rate Tunney with the great fighters of history. "I never saw him fight. I never saw him block a blow or duck a blow in my life. He has a stiff, straight left hand, and he follows it with a right cross to the head. He is the only heavyweight, with a straight left hand that hurts and that is why he wins fights."

"Jack" he said, leaning over to Sharkey, "if you should ever fight Tunney, cross counter with your right when Tunney throws his right hand. Probably Jack Dempsey doesn't know it, but that is what he did in the seventh round in Chicago. Tunney stands up straight with his head high after he throws his right hand, and you shouldn't have any trouble cross-countering."

Corbett, too, was interested in Tunney's lecture on Shakespeare at Yale. He would like to give an hour lecture on psychology at Harvard and an attempt will be made to arrange such a lecture some morning this week.

Corbett is the only heavyweight champion who has been a good actor. John L. Sullivan was not a huge success in "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands" and "Hands Across the Sea." All the late Bob Fitzsimmons did in "The Honest Blacksmith" was to belt a horseshoe into various and sundry shapes, while Jim Jeffries turned a tragedy into a farce and Gene Tunney quit in disgust after one trip around the circuit. Corbett, however rates among the leading monologists on the stage.

The Rainy Day stake for two year old trotters has been renewed by the management at North Randall as a feature of the three day Grand Circuit meet in mid-August.

SPORT BRIEFS

New York, May 9—Bill McKechnie manager of the St. Louis Cardinals has been suspended for three days or directing abusive language at umpire Charles Pfirman in the dugout after yesterday's doubleheader between the Cardinals and Brooklyn at St. Louis, Pres Heydler of the National League announced today.

London, May 9—Pierre Etchebaster the Frenchman who recently won the United States professional court tennis championship, today advanced a long step toward winning the world's title by defeating George Covey, the champion 3 sets to 1, in the opening play of the series. The scores were 6-0, 2-6, 6-1, 6-0.

Four more sets will be played Wednesday.

The performance of 51 feet 9½ inches attributed to Karl Hirschfeld at Breslau, is only another proof that the Germans are taking their Olympic preparations very seriously and mean to be a big factor at Amsterdam if possible.

Rivals are making Fred Lucas of the Reds formerly of the Braves, earn his victories. He had to go 10 innings to beat the Giants Sunday and on April 25 the Cards carried things along for 17 innings before losing.

New York, May 9—Johnny Layton three cushion billiard champion was leading Willie Hoppe by 30 points at the close of the first two blocks of their special 600 point match tonight.

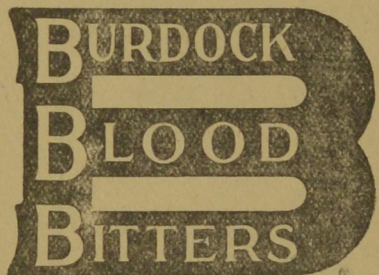

Out for revenge for defeat Hoppe administered to him a similar match at Chicago, Layton won both the afternoon and evening blocks 50 to 42, and 50 to 28.

Will Crozier and Will Hodson, who are riding miles faster than 2.20 behind all their horses at Harrington Del, will soon be moving home to Charter, Oak.

Walter Cox has several likely pacers among his many young pupils: one of the most promising is the three year old half sister to Ethelinda 2.02¼, by The Senator 2.03½.
