HIGHER MATHEMATICS

Civilization would crumble in fifty years, says a noted New York educator, if women alone were permitted to govern and manage the world. There is, of course not the remotest possibility of a feminine monopoly of power, even in this age of supposed feminism. Therefore the question raised by the educator's warning is purely academic. Still, it would be interesting to know just why women, governing the world alone, would cause the collapse of civilization.

The answer given by the educator who raised the question is that women cannot master the higher mathematics—an indispensable ingredient of culture.

But can't they? There are and there have been brilliant woman mathematicians. They are few always, to be sure, but how many men are brilliant mathematicians? How many statesmen, diplomats, administrators, directors of industry, men of letters, philosophers, economists or sociologists have mastered the higher mathematics? Very few.

The value of the higher mathematics to science and even philosophy no one will dispute, but most of the problems of government and of society do not depend for their solution on that branch of knowledge. Prof. Einstein has assured the practical world that it need not trouble itself with the doctrine of relativity, or the abolition of matter, space and time as they have been crudely defined. Human welfare and human progress may be promoted effectively without higher mathematics or a grasp of the relativity and quantum theories.

That is fortunate for rulers, reformers, educators and social workers. Few of them could qualify for service were they required to elucidate those and other theories, or to pass examinations in higher mathematics.

ONE WHO KNOWS

Alfred P. Sloan, head of the General Motors, takes occasion to say that he finds newspaper advertising "particularly helpful from the standpoint of direct sales appeal."

Mr. Sloan knows that his great business has been built largely by the power of advertising—intelligent and thoughtful advertising. It is not strange that this leader among business men, looking over results, finds newspaper advertising reaches the spot. More and more the heads of large business concerns have come to this conclusion.

LEARNING BY HANDICAP

Addressing a race betterment conference some time ago, Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale, said: "My studies in health arose originally from my own lack of health 30 years ago."

It is a man's handicap which often calls his attention to the extra effort which will make him a real success. Handicap demands a margin of effort—the margin of effort over what the ordinary man gives a job. Often big results come by the route of serious handicap.

Harry Thaw is an interview in Paris says he doesn't know why England excluded him which isn't surprising. Harry never was very bright.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Church Army Fredericton, New Brunswick, June 28, 1928:

The Editor, Daily Mail, Dear Sir:—

In Toronto, on Tuesday, July 10th, a meeting is to be held to determine definitely about the Canadian Church Army. So vital is this matter, that all who are interested should pray that the great need of such a Soul-winning organization may be revealed at the meeting.

Capt. Davey, a veteran Church Army Officer of London Headquarters has just returned to England after a three-weeks inspection in Canada.

Respectfully yours, STERLING BRENNEN.

Unlucky Calf

The story is told that a young calf belonging to a farmer at Geary was given a rather peculiar and painful jolt recently when a United States tourist automobile crashed into it accidentally at Geary. The automobile was travelling at a good rate of speed and coming down on the calf unexpectedly, the car hit it such a bump that the hind legs of the unlucky animal were dislocated. The oddity of it was that the legs of the calf were bent forward in such a manner that the rear part of the body appeared to be unsupported, all four legs as it were, were bunched forward under the front portion of the animal's body. Another surprising angle of the story is that the stoical youngster wandered amicably into the tall grass at the side of the road and finished his meal in an unconcerned manner.

On a Visit Here

Mrs. C. A. Robinson of San Francisco, Cal., arrived here at noon today from Toronto where she has been attending the World's Baptist Alliance. Mrs. Robinson is a native of Hopewell Cape, Albert County, and a daughter of the late Capt. J. A. Read of this city. She holds the position of field representative of the American Baptist Board of Co-operative Missions. Since her last visit to Fredericton ten years ago Mrs. Robinson has visited China and Japan.

A Fine Stream

The Nashwaak River is certainly coming to the front this season as a trout stream and with a proper fishway at the Marysville dam it could easily be made one of the best in the province. One day this week Raymond Currie of this city caught a two pound trout on a dry fly and landed it without much difficulty. A number of others have made good catches on the Nashwaak this week.

Race Horses Sold

Mr. Hamilton G. Kitchen, of this city, race horse owner and patron of the harness sport in the Maritimes, disposed of three of his track performers recently. It is reported that The Manor, Ill Abbe, and Mary Sue have been sold by Mr. Kitchen to parties on the North Shore who are interested in the harness game. These three track stars will probably start their season's campaign under their new owners at Bathurst on July 1st.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

"Come, come, come, the summer is now here."

Bright, happy faces help to make a town beautiful.

Few places look more desolate than a playground on a rainy day.

If everybody had all the money he wanted money wouldn't be worth much.

Some are good listeners from choice and others are reluctant to butt their way into a conversation.

She was pretty and vivacious, much given to paraphrasing, as when she remarked: "A thing of beauty is a boy forever."

There are no existing type characters capable of denoting the sound known as static. What we have are too intelligible.

Memory harks back to the boy who hated to turn the grindstone but liked nothing better than turning the ice cream freezer.

Miss Earhart wants more air women, so they can get together and talk shop. But there is the possibility that they might not speak to one another!

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. R. P. Allen returned at noon today from a trip to Toronto.

Mrs. John B. Morgan formerly of this city who has made her home in the West for some years, arrived today on a visit to her brother, Mr. Arthur C. Porter.

WHAT IF HE FELT BAD?

New York, June 29—Lester Collins was feeling good. He was boisterous and joyful. All because he was celebrating his twenty-third birthday. But when his wife paid no attention to him and wouldn't celebrate with him, he shot her twice.

"I just felt good, that's all," Collins explained to the police.

Having Good Sport

Among the occupants of the Tourist Camping Ground this week are Messrs John B. Johnson and Alex. Bjorkland of Burnside, Conn. They came here by automobile on their annual trip and are accompanied by their wives. Soon after their arrival they took out angling licenses and the men of the party have since been making daily expeditions to the waters of the Nashwaak and Southwest Miramichi. They have caught a number of trout, including several two pounders. "My only regret said Mr. Johnson yesterday is that I cannot preserve some of these fish and take them home so my friends will know what royal sport we are having."

Three Dunks

Three drunks were lodged in the cells of the local police station last night and appeared before Police Magistrate Limerick this morning. One, a local barber, was fined $8 or thirty days in jail. He paid the fine. An Indian from the Devon Reserve was given a fine of eight dollars or thirty days in jail. He has not yet paid the fine. The third was an old offender and he was given thirty days without option.
