WOULD ESTABLISH A SCHOOL FOR CHILDREN OF PROVINCE WHO ARE MENTALLY DEFICIENT

St. John, June 29—Establishment of a suitable institution for the mentally deficient children of school age in the province, so as to relieve the public school teachers of a serious menace, and thereby "practicing 'Safety First' by protecting this class of children from drifting into danger, evil and crime and later filling our reformatories, jails and almshouses," was strongly recommended at the afternoon session of the second day of the New Brunswick Teachers' Institute Conference here by C. A. King, M.D., medical inspector of schools, Sussex. Dr. King also stressed the value of periodic health examinations both in the schools and homes of the province.

Delegates were still arriving all day Thursday for the sessions held in St. Vincent's auditorium, Cliff street. Two addresses by women speakers featured the morning program. Miss Jean E. Browne, National Director of the Junior Red Cross, Toronto, set forth the aims and ideals of that organization. This was followed by a short discussion by Miss Jessie I. Lawson, supervisor of the Junior Red Cross in New Brunswick. The second address of the morning was by Miss Florence Hale, Augusta, Me. She made an appeal for the reintroduction of teaching poetry in rural schools.

Several Addresses

Dr. King's address on "Safety First" the initial one of the afternoon session was followed by a short discourse by C. T. Wetmore, principal of the Rothesay Consolidated School. Dr. Peter Sandford, of the Ontario College of Education, gave a notable and scholarly address on "The Education of the exceptional child." He advocated the segregation of the abnormal child and schoolmates of subnormal mentality, in order to obtain the best results. His lecture was illustrated by charts. Discussion on this subject was opened by Miss Helen Taylor, of the "opportunity school," Fredericton.

The biennial meeting of the New Brunswick Teachers' Association was held in the evening with a large attendance.

Miss Hale, in her address, declared that the present generation was losing much in not being able to recall the old classical masterpieces of the poets, learned in their school years by older generations.

She also urged the study and appreciation of music in rural districts as a means of giving a broader outlook on the beauties of life. Lack of means to express their thoughts, and non-cultivated personalities were a great hindrance to young people in their entrance on city life following a drab existence in the country.

Dr. W. S. Carter in commenting on Miss Hale's address said that he was glad to have such a reply made to those who would sentence rural children always to the country through the medium of instruction.

Miss Browne said it was a remarkable fact that the greatest exponents of Junior Red Cross had been leading educationalists, and that the organization had been welded into the schools of Canada and 39 other countries of the world despite the well known conservatism of school authorities.

Miss Lawson expressed her thanks to the teachers of New Brunswick who had co-operated in Junior Red Cross. She quoted Prof. Fraser of Mount Allison thus, "I rejoice when I realize how sure is the future of Junior Red Cross, and how great, beyond our present realization will be its ultimate service to children of the world. If every man and every woman would interest himself or herself in this movement and its tremendous significance, we could build a new world in 50 years. It will take longer than that, but the end is sure."

Miss Hale said that the first thing the farmer wanted was health instruction. The old idea that people in the country were more healthy than those in the city had been exploded. Open windows, water supply free from typhoid had been rather neglected. The first essentials were to make a nation strong and good. One of the great handicaps of the country boy was his isolated and his dormant personality should be aroused.

Dull surrounding, dull teaching handicapped children.

There was a need today to teach stronger ambition and more self-respect to common, ordinary people, to make them conscious and duty-loving. "Cultivate enthusiasm, scorn boredom," the speaker urged. "It is a glorious thing to take your place in life, wherever it is, and think it the finest in the world."

Pension Matters

The pension committee had inquired into pension schemes of other provinces with a view toward improvement of that of New Brunswick. The latter was very good, but it had some weaknesses and needed revision in some respects.

Affiliation with the Canadian Teachers' Federation had proved highly beneficial, bringing the teachers of New Brunswick into closer co-ordination with the strong Associations of the western provinces. The president recommended higher membership fees and a smaller executive.

The secretary reported that the present paid-up membership was 900 the largest since organization. Of $88 of these, 237 were drawing salary of $600 a year or less; 178, between $600 and $800; 221 between $800 and $1000; 305 between $1,000 and $1,500; 76 between $1,500 and $2,000; 33 between $2,000 and $2,500, and 16 more than $2,500.

The financial report showed the receipts of the year to be $1,399.76 and the total expenditures $1,593.19, leaving a balance on hand of $216.57.

The C. M. Lawson Memorial Library committee reported, and were empowered to place the 400 books, recently donated to the N. B. Teachers' Association by Miss Jessie L. Lawson, provincial supervisor of the Junior Red Cross, sister of the deceased, in the Normal School building, Fredericton, and to make arrangements for a librarian. The books will be available and plans for distribution by mail or express throughout the province, were discussed.

Official Organ

On motion of Frank J. Owens, Saint John and Miss Annie Richardson, St. Andrews, "The Educational Review," edited by H. H. Stuart, of Fredericton Junction and published in Moncton, was unanimously accepted as the official organ of the Association. The "Review" was established in 1887 by the late Dr. G. U. Hay, of Saint John and Dr. A. H. MacKay, ex-superintendent of Education for Nova Scotia.

Several charges were made in the constitution, subject to ratification at an adjourned meeting to be held following the morning session of the Teacher's Institute today. A new scale of membership fees was adopted, in order to provide for per capita tax to the Canadian Teachers' Federation and other purposes.

F'TON MAN DROWNED IN NASHWAAK

WEST ENDERS DO NOT WANT THE BILLBOARD

committee meeting of the City Council on Tuesday evening, when delegations pro and con will be heard.

Cause for Annoyance

A lady resident of the West End in a chat with the Mail this morning stated in plain language why she and her neighbors objected to the erection of another billboard. She declared that the billboard would merely serve as a screen to cover up the questionable actions of loafers who frequent the river bank. She went on to say that the old grist mill which was destroyed by fire a few years ago was probably the greatest rendezvous for consumers of canned heat and like concoctions that the city can boast of. After it was burned the canned heat artists moved over to an abandoned saw mill a few rods below. They are not much in evidence nowadays but the place is still frequented by undesirables who do not hesitate to make themselves a nuisance to the residents of the locality. She expressed the opinion that the place is unsanitary and should be cleaned up.

Ald Quinn is taking an interest in the matter and has arranged for a delegation to interview the city council with a view of having their wrongs righted. Members of the Local Improvement Association have also had their attention called to the matter and have promised their cooperation.

to resist arrest. Provincial policeman Mays was then sent to assist in pacifying or arresting the doughty champion of the red men. Together with Sheriff Colwell of Gagetown Constable Mays succeeded in arresting the man who was lodged in the Gagetown jail. He appeared before the Gagetown Magistrate today for a hearing.

HORSESHOERS ARE SCARCE IN FRANCE

Paris, June 29—Called back to save the farm when a dearth of competent mechanics left motorized farm equipment impotent, the horse in France is having troubles of his own. He needs to be shod.

When the farmers fired old Dobbin, blacksmiths abandoned the spreading chestnut tree for a more lucrative garage in town. They won't come back.

Free workshops have been offered to men who will come to the country to overhaul the idle machines, or at least shoe the horses. There is no response—the opportunity does not offset the attraction of the city.

AND THE KIND OFFICER SAID TOO FAST

New York, June 29—Patrolman Mackin, of the motorcycle squad is obliging.

"Officer," said Mrs. Anne Sanford, "please pace me and tell me how fast I'm going. My speedometer isn't working."

When the pacing was finished the officer handed out a ticket. Mrs. Sanford was fined $25.

Late J. J. Fitzpatrick

The funeral of the late Joseph J. Fitzpatrick, who died at the Victoria Hospital on Wednesday morning, took place this morning from the St. Dunstan's church with solemn service at nine o'clock, conducted by the Very Rev. F. L. Carney. Interment was made at the Hermitage.

BRIDE OF RAJAH KEEPS UP WITH FASHIONS

Paris, June 29—The conversion to Hinduism of the former Nancy Miller, now the wife of the former Maharajah of Indore, is not complete in the manner of clothes.

The former American girl is doing considerable shopping in Paris in the intervals between establishing her household in a chateau at St. Germain-en-Laye, near Paris, watching the tennis matches and the races, and entertaining at Ciro's.

Sir Tukoji Holkar, her husband and companies her on the shopping expeditions, but is noncommittal as to his views on European dress as compared with the flowing garb of high caste Indian women.

NEW MACHINES NOW ELIMINATE WHEAT HANDS

Austin, Tex., June 29—College students and other men who have made a practice of following the wheat harvest from its beginning in Texas until it ends in Canada find themselves out of employment this year. This condition is due to the widespread use of the combine machine for cutting and threshing the grain in one operation. While many self-binders are still in use, they are found only upon the smaller farms and usually outside labor is not required in the harvesting of the crops upon the smaller acreages.

The wheat harvest formerly afforded means for many students to make enough money in a single season to pay their college expenses.

TURKISH PAPER MONEY HOARDED

Constantinople, June 29—Bank deposits in Turkey are estimated at $20,000,000 considerably less than the amount Anatolian peasants and breeders, who make up the majority of the population, have hoarded. It is believed that $25,000,000 in Turkish paper money is thus hidden away, in addition to large amounts of Turkish, British, French and other foreign gold.

USES MOTORCYCLE

London, England, June 29—The small British merchant is looking with increasing favor upon the motorcycle with side car for making his deliveries.

CONFIDENCE VOTED

Paris, June 28—The Chamber of Deputies gave a vote of confidence to the Poincare Government today 420 to 150.

Cleaning Up

Mr. George Lockhart, caretaker of the Normal School, is at work today cutting the grass which fringes and disfigures the sidewalk in front of that institution. A thrifty growth in front of some other public buildings federal and provincial should be looked after, now that the tourist season is about to begin.

H. D. Wright of Moncton is in the city today.

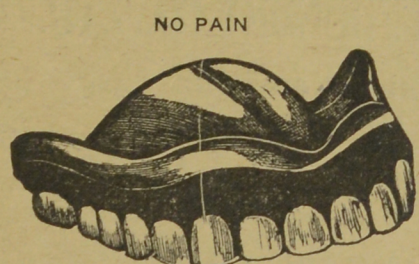

A. O. Davis of St. John is in the city today.
