FRANC TO BE STABILIZED AT FOUR CENTS.

four cents. This step has been fore- August of continuous assuaging coolseen for several weeks; but the Pre- ness to make up for two blistering mier has been reluctant to take it until the last moment, both for political ed itself." and financia lreasons. The first are easily understood. There has been a wort of truce among parties while the task of stabilization was unachieved; but in spite of the large majority for election, its supporters are made up of many discordant elements, likely to fly apart as soon as the pressure is with the dominance of the Left in the Ministry; and, even if M. Poincare remains in power, changes in the Cabinet posts are likely

The financial reason for delay are equally obvious. There has been a hope that the franc might be stabiliz ed at a higher figure. But the Social ists and the Nationalists feel that this would be possible. Whether they vote against the bill or abstain from voting it will probably be passed. But their attitude represents a certain degree called " a measure of bankruptcy." Loss in the value of the national cur rency, with an internal debt of 250, vet unfixed, leaves the problem still serious. It is a high price to pay for stability. And yet stability is essen tial. Apparently the Bank of France has notified the Government that it GUESTS A could not continue its purchase o foreign exchange bills on the Paris market. That means a sort of inflation to which there seemed to be no end.

Pictorial Printed Patterns

Are Smart And Simple

Great variety of style is achieved in this season's mode. Frocks for general and sports wear adhere to the tailored type for the most part, and are invariable in one piece and belted at the waist. For these frocks, pleats figure prominently, used in the lower section of the skirt, grouped at the sides, or all around. Original fabric combinations lend individuality to these costumes, especially in the ensemble group.

Suppose Your Car Made it Necessary to Call an Ambulance

Public opinion and the police authorities are very severe with the motorist who causes personal injury to others. The fact that a pedestrian was careless seldom carries as much weight as the fact that he sustained injuries. That your car was the cause of the injury is worry enough. Judgments are usually heavy—see that you have adequate insurance

We can protect you against law suits and expenses should your car be the cause of personal injury to others.
