REFUSED TO PAY SMALLPOX BILLS IN YORK

The Chatham Commercial clips the following from its files of twenty-five years ago:

"The York county council flatly refused to pay the bills contracted by the Board of Health in connection with smallpox matters. The council is of the opinion that the bills are excessive and that many were unnecessary. The council claims that if the chairman of the Board of Health was appointed by the council he would be more careful in incurring expenditure. Inasmuch as he is an appointee of the local government the council takes the ground that the government should assume responsibility for such bills as he contracted with smallpox matters of if the council has to pay the bills it should have the appointment and control of the board.

ONCE POOR, NOW WEALTHY, GIVES AWAY MONEY

San Francisco Cal. Jan. 24—A. P. Gianni born 57 years ago in a humble rooming house in Can Jose Cal. of poor Italian parents yesterday placed his 1927 income of $1,500,000 as president of the Banc Italy Corporation at the disposal of the University of California.

Under the terms of the gift $1,000,000 will go toward the establishment of the Gianni Foundation of agricultural economics and $500,000 will be used for erection of a building on the University campus in Berkeley, dedicated to ways and means of relieving and improving the economic condition of farmers, dairy, livestock men and fruit growers in California.

PISTOL SHOTS FAILED TO HALT MOTORISTS

Boston, Jan. 25—While walking down Congress St. shortly after midnight this morning, patrolman Thomas Troy saw an automobile going along by the registration plate of which he saw it had been reported stolen. He commandeered another car and gave chase but lost it on State Street.

Later, while walking in the neighborhood, he saw the same car on Central St. and alleges that the three men in it were acting suspiciously about a store there. He ran up but the men saw him coming and leaping into the car made off. Troy reports pulling his pistol and firing five shots after them but, apparently, without effect.

SNOWBIRD.

Your fluffed white feathers I had lost
Among the arching ferns of frost
But for the beaded gems of eyes
That shine where dust of crystal flies
And but for little coral toes
On crystal clutched when the wind blows.

When tiny sparks of roset were blown
I thought you sang and notes had flown
So quickly that I could not hear
Although I listened standing near.

And then a window curtained bright
With frost was raised by hands so light
No sound was made. I saw you go
For crumbs of white bread on the snow

A flutter of white hands and then
The frosted curtain closed again!

"Say dad" said the youth. "I've discovered that the right hand fender of your new car is detachable.
"How did you find that out?" asked his father suspiciously.
"Entirely by accident" replied the youth.
