HON MR. BENNETT, CONSERVATIVE LEADER, ADDRESSES THE WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB OF MONTREAL

Montreal, Feb. 27—A prediction that a woman would some day occupy a seat in the Senate was made here today by Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party, when he addressed the members of the Women's Canadian Club.

"The position of women has changed so remarkably during the last fifty or hundred years that we have not yet accustomed ourselves to the place they occupy in politics," Mr. Bennett continued. "At a not very far distant day, from what I can realize and hear, it is beyond doubt, that a member of the fair sex will occupy a place in that chamber," he said referring to the Senate, and added: "With results greatly to be desired."

Mr. Bennett spent the day in Montreal and spoke before the Canadian Club and the Women's Canadian Club. Discussing the women's right to vote, Mr. Bennett, in the address at the Women's Canadian Club, said that it was all important that women should have a clear and definite realization of their responsibility.

Her Responsibilities.

"Women still have the old responsibility of the home which can never be taken away from them. Added to that, they have the responsibility for the life of the state in a country that is most difficult to govern, composed as it is of people of many races and diverse religion, whom we are attempting to group together.

"When you cast your vote it affects the lives of people in all parts of the Dominion. We should think in terms of the national life of Canada as a whole. We must lift our minds above the parochial viewpoint to a national outlook."

Issues Warning.

Asking "What is the national character of this country?" Mr. Bennett uttered a warning against what he called "unconscious influences." One of these, he said, was the radio. "If any of you learned from it the great story of the War of 1812, broadcast from the United States, you have yet to discover that there was a Lundy's Lane or that De Malaberry ever lived.

Foreign Propaganda.

"This is the age of radio. What about your magazines. If you go to the news stand the chances are seven out of ten you will be handed an American magazine. Now did you ever think what these influences were in your home? Behind it all, there is a subtle propaganda, perhaps unconscious.

"It is these subtle unconscious influences that shape, mold and form the national character of our country. They are something of which we must take notice. It takes four days for a paper printed in Montreal to reach Vancouver, but by radio from the United States it is only a few seconds.

Compulsory Voting.

Speaking before the Canadian Club, Mr. Bennett in discussing the dangers and difficulties of democracy referred to the compulsory voting law in Australia, and said: "So far they have advanced in their desire that every man and woman should have a voice in the affairs of the nation. I leave that thought with you to consider whether the idea behind that movement should find expression here. Is it desirable or possible that peoples should be compelled to vote? For we are not dealing with matters where a mistake may be easily remedied. Nations sometimes makes mistakes very easily that are difficult to remedy afterwards. History is full of such instances. Indifferences and apathy are so important to overcome, that I suggest that you young men when you come together to discuss these things, you should look into what has been done in Australia, and consider whether it should find expression in our statute books.

Dangers of Democracy.

"Then there is one more thing that I should like to bring to your attention. The whole tendency of democracy such as I have mentioned is toward corruption. I use the word corruption in the large sense. You bribe the people with the people's own money, with the vast expenditures that they are taxed for. And in that, there is not much choice to make between parties. The parties that are in power do it because the parties that are out are not able to do it. You must get further than that. You must get an opinion created by educating democracy that will prevent that."

was very much to get up to New Brunswick again for some real salmon fishing. I hope to visit New Brunswick again this year. Harry Allen told me of a camp he has away back in, and, I judge, rather difficult to reach, but where there are trout galore as well as salmon and moose. If I can arrange it, I should like to spend several days in there with "a motion picture camera. If there is an opportunity to fish on the Restigouche I should exceedingly like to try it. You see our record is only one salmon apiece (Mr. and Mrs. Burgess each caught only one salmon last year) and neither of these were what you would call big ones. But they were sufficient to inoculate us and the virus has taken."

The purpose of the Burgess Radio Nature League is set forth as follows: "To do everything possible to preserve and conserve all desirable wild life, including birds, animals, flowers, trees and other living things; also the natural beauty spots and scenic wonders of all America."

has been introduced which permits the use of the full name of the Province—New Brunswick—instead of merely the initials—N. B.. This change was made according to B. H. Kinghorn, Deputy Minister of Public Works, because the initials "N. B." were frequently mistaken in the United States as an abbreviation for the State of Nebraska, and New Brunswick will thus advertise itself by the change.

No Troubles Experienced

Some fears were expressed when the order extending the use of New Brunswick 1928 motor vehicle licenses was promulgated that there might be some difficulties along the International Boundary, where automobiles and trucks from New Brunswick are frequently crossing to the State of Maine, where vehicles with 1927 plates might be held up after the coming into effect of the new year. However, the State of Maine authorities, being advised of this extension, co-operated in the most enthusiastic manner with the Provincial authorities, with the result that there was no friction or difficulty of any kind.

The extension of 1927 motor vehicle licenses has caused the Provincial Treasury to benefit to a considerable amount in receipts from gasoline tax, and has also been regarded as a matter of convenience by motorists generally. It is altogether likely that the practice will be continued in future years.

TO UNDERWRITE SECURITIES OF NEW COMPANY

Sackville, N. B., Feb. 25—It was reported recently that the investment house of H. B. Robinson & Co. Ltd., of Montreal, has underwritten the securities of Enamel and Heating Products Limited, which will take over as going concerns The Charles Fawcett Limited, of Sackville, and The Amherst Foundry Co. Ltd., of Amherst. An offering of shares to the public will be made in the near future. In this connection it is interesting to note that Mr. H. B. Robinson is a Maritime Province man, who has made good in his chosen work. He was born in Rothesay being the son of the late J. M. Robinson, a prominent Saint John banker. Entering the Bank of Montreal in 1897, Mr. H. B. Robinson served several years in Saint John and Winnipeg. Leaving the bank he proceeded to study the bond business in the United States. He returned to Saint John in 1902 and became associated with his father's business, leaving in 1911 to open a branch in Montreal. He went overseas with the Fifth Royal Highlanders of Canada. Returning to Montreal in 1919 he organized H. B. Robinson & Co. Ltd., of which he is the president. Mr. Robinson has been interested in many successful flotations including Vian Biscuit, Guds and National Distilleries. He is a man of keen business acumen and has had long and successful experience along financial lines. It is most gratifying that Mr. Robinson is taking an interest in Maritime industries at this time.

The party travelled on two special pullman cars attached to the Ocean Limited.

Mr. Magee spoke of the progress and expansion being made by the T. Won Gold Badge.

Frank McGinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McGinn, of this city, and a class student in the Commercial class of the Fredericton High School, was presented with a gold badge, emblematic of excellency in typewriting, this morning in the auditorium of the High School building by Principal A. S. McFarlane. The reward came as the result of one of the monthly typing tests held in the Commercial classes and Mr. McGinn averaged 68 net words a minute over a time limit of ten minutes writing, making but one mistake and that a minor one. The successful test entitled the student to one of the Remington gold badges and also gives him an international standing where the typewriter is in operation.
