Mrs. Lawlor Indulges on Criticism of the Women's Liberal Convention.

Montreal, April 26—"The whole convention at Ottawa was manipulated" declared Mrs. J. W. V. Lawlor, of Saint John, N. B., before a meeting of Liberal women here today at which the recent National Assembly of Liberal Women was discussed. "If we are going to organize Liberal women from one end of the country to the other, we are not going to be subject to a handful of puppets. If we women are going to clean politics, we have got to get rid of clique manipulation" Mrs. Lawlor continued. Mrs. Lawlor was a delegate to the Ottawa convention.

Discussion at the meeting dealt with a constitution adopted at the Ottawa convention and at its conclusion and after some of the women had left the hall, it was decided to form a new group of women to be known as the Provincial Committee for the organization off Liberal Women of Quebec.

The officers of this provincial committee are as follows: Honorary presidents, Madame Ernest Lapointe and Madame P. J. A. Cardin; president, Madame Grant De Rouen; vice-president, Madame Calixte Leboeuf; treasurer, Madame Alfred Leveque.

Constitution Attacked.

The meeting also adopted a resolution protesting against the constitution which will be forwarded to Ottawa.

Continuing, Mrs. Lawlor said: "Clique manipulation is one party of women who 'get together' to put over something on the unsuspecting masses. We are the masses" she affirmed, nodding towards the French speaking element, and we refuse to be manipulated. The only

CLASSICAL MUSIC REGAINS FAVOR IN PARIS

Paris, April 27—Music, other than the jazz variety, seems to have come into its own in Paris after a decline of two or three years.

Last year symphony orchestras that for decades have held high rank among world musical organizations actually were in danger of having to disband. Patrons went to cabarets and night clubs, but did not want to hear Bach and Beethoven.

This winter and spring, however, the old masters, and the moderns as well, have regained all their old drawing power. Four symphony orchestras among them the famous one of the French Conservatory of Music, have played their concerts before large and appreciative audiences. Chamber music has been especially popular.

Steeves, charged with arson in connection with the burning of the Hillsboro Rink, returned a verdict of "not guilty." The accused was immediately discharged. In discharging the jury, Judge Byrne said he entirely agreed with their verdict. The only witness examined today was George C. Blight, county secretary-treasurer, who said he was part owner of the burned rink, which was purchased from Percy Tower and Mr. McKenzie. The witness told of the rink being burned down on the night of November 6, 1922, and described the existence of a well-hole at the rear of the rink, through which access could be had to the building.

Asks Withdrawal

As there was no corroboration of the evidence of the alleged accomplice in the case, Tower, W. M. Ryan, counsel for the defence, asked that His Honor withdraw the case from the jury or exercise his authority for acquittal. His Honor permitted the case to remain with the jury, and no evidence being offered by the defence, Daniel Mullin, K. C., for the Crown, addressed the jury, occupying a little over half an hour.

DRAG THE ROAD WITH MAGNET PICK UP NAILS

Olympia, Wash., April 27—Harken! Ezra Meeker and his old ox prairie schooner. A powerful magnet, suspended from the rear of a truck and passed over five miles of the ancient highway over which the venerable pioneer and later followers reached the Northwest, recently picked up 230 pounds of nails, wire, bits of iron, nuts and bolts.

Some of the scrapiron showed a vintage of many decades past, including the trigger hammer of an ancient flintlock musket. The magnet will continue to clean up the Old Oregon Trail along the Columbia River in both Oregon and Washington.

HOUSE OF NELL GWYNNE TO GIVE WAY TO GARAGE

London, April 27—The heavy hand of the housewrecker has fallen on another of London's old landmarks. The house of Nell Gwynne, the orange girl of Drury Lane who became the mistress of Charles II, is being torn down to make room for some prosaic shops and a garage. The old building is a splendid example of its period, with a great bow front and pillared entrance. It is situated in Shepherd Market, between Piccadilly and Curzon street. In the eighteenth century Admiral Lord Nelson chose the house for his town residence and erected a precarious top story which he used as an office.

Nothing else can be as disconcerting as an active two-year-old playing with an Easter egg that wasn't boiled quite enough.
