Commonwealth Liner Was Threatened With Mutiny and Frantic Yells For Help Were Broadcast—Crew Threatened to Fire the Ship—The Skipper Asked That a Warship be Sent to Him.

(Special to The Daily Mail by the British United Press.)
Sydney, N. S. W., June 22—Final details regarding the extraordinary occurrences that took place yesterday on board the Australian Commonwealth liner Jervis Bay while the vessel was on the high seas have been received.
For a time the ship was threatened with mutiny incited by eight unruly stowaways, and frantic yells for help were broadcast. In his first messages Capt. Daniels stated that while the stowaways had been confined under hatches the crew had become mutinous and had threatened to set the liner afire.
The skipper requested that a warship be sent to his assistance, but there being none in the vicinity, the auxiliary steamer Slavol was despatched with a party of marines and orders to bring the Jervis Bay to Colombo, Ceylon. This morning, however, the local manager of the Commonwealth liner received a radio from Captain Daniels that everything was going well and that the stowaways were now under control. The Jervis Bay, the message said was expected to make Colombo by Monday.

NO TRACE YET OF AMUNDSEN AND PARTY

King's Bay, June 23—King's Bay, and those assembled here for the rescue of General Umberto Nobile, faced a new problem tonight.
Fear for General Nobile has been alayed greatly since he was furnished with food and supplies yesterday by Major Maddalena. His safety until an ice breaker can reach him and bring him back to civilization is regarded as assured.
But three days have passed since Roald Amundson, Lief Dietrichsen and Rene Guilbaud set out from Tromsø, Norway, for Svalbard, and in those three days not one word has come to tell what has happened to them, where they went, or where they are now.

A VETERAN CLERGYMAN PASSES AWAY

Rev. Dr. J. Roy Campbell Died at Farraline Home Last Night—Was 87 Years of Age and a Native of Scotland.
Rev. Dr. J. Roy Campbell, one of the oldest Anglican clergymen in the Maritime provinces, who has resided at Farraline Home in this city for a number of years, passed away at ten o'clock last night. He had been in failing health for some time and death did not come as a surprise, the body was conveyed to Christ-church Cathedral today and will be taken to St. John tomorrow for interment in Fern Hill Cemetery. The funeral service will be conducted by Very Rev. Dean Neales at 8.30 a. m.
Native of Scotland
Rev. J. Roy Campbell was born in Edinburg, Scotland, on August 7, 1841 the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell. His early life was spent in England, and he received his education at St. Alden's College, Birkenhead and St. Augustine's College Canterbury.
He came to Canada as a young man to enter the ministry in this country and was ordained at Christ-church, Windsor, on September 24, 1865 by Bishop Hebert Binney, of Nova Scotia. He was first appointed to the parish of Yarmouth, N. S. where he remained as curate for eleven years. In that time he was chairman of the building committee of the congregation which had charge of the erection of the fine new church, held to be one of the finest in the Maritime Provinces. From Yarmouth he went to St. Martins to become the first rector of that parish, and during the five years he remained at St. Martins the new rectory was planned and erected.
His next appointment was Dorchester where he was rector for about 28 years. While at Dorchester he was for many years rural dean of Shediac deanery and chaplain of the penitentiary.
In his pastoral work, as penitentiary chaplain, and as an active worker in the synod of the diocese, Dr. Campbell displayed a marked ability and because of his sterling qualities won a place of high esteem throughout the province.
His eyesight began to fail him and in 1903 he was stricken with blindness, an infirmity which relaxed its grip slightly at one time only to become a permanent affliction. In later years his hearing also became impaired and his general health had given his friends much uneasiness.
Rev. Dr. Campbell's last public appearance was in connection with the Diamond Jubilee celebration here nearly a year ago when he occupied a car in the procession along with other aged citizens.
Dr. Campbell's first wife was Miss Brought of Chester, England, who died many years ago. On February 26, 1906 he was married to Miss Georgianna Hanford of Saint John, at Holy Trinity church, Digby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Deblois, of Annapolis, assisted by Rev. Mr. Haley of Digby. The late Dr. Roy Campbell, ex M. L. A. of St. John was a son of the deceased.
Lime Beane says the human failure never blames himself and the successful man never gives anybody credit for helping him on his way.
