ZAM-BUK

A NIGHT IN

SHANGHAI COSTS

LARGE SUM

Shanghai, Sept. 20—Approximately $5,000 for a few hours' trip into the realm of Shanghai's night life is the record established by a spendthrift foreign visitor who wished to "see the sights."

The usual elaborate hotel dinner and dancing proved too slow for this sightseer. He wanted a thrill. His first move was to hire an entire hotel orchestra at $50. an hour, a squad of motor cars to carry the party and an Indian sikh watchman to guard the cavalcade.

The foreigners, the orchestra, the sikh and a few persons picked up along the route arrived at an all-night cafe at 3 a. m. It was a quiet night and only fourteen tables were occupied. The foreigner started the cafe manager with an order for champagne all around.

The foreigner paid the orchestra $300. for six hours and included a bonus of $100. The bill at this one cabaret was 2,200.

When you supplement any assertion with "believe it or not" the Office Cynic says, "I don't."
