

CANADA'S DIAMOND JUBILEE TO BE COMMEMORATED BY AN APPROPRIATE MEDAL

One of the final tasks of the National Diamond Jubilee Committee, which arranged the celebration last year of the Sixtieth Anniversary of Confederation, has been the preparation of an official commemorative medal. The records of 1867 showed that the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald issued a medal commemorating the Confederation of the Provinces. This medal, which was designed and struck in England, showed on the obverse the effigy of Queen Victoria and on the reverse a group of five figures symbolizing the handling by Britain to the four original Provinces of the pact of Confederation. In designing a medal commemorating the Diamond Jubilee, the National Committee decided to show on the obverse an effigy of His Majesty King George V. and on the reverse a single figure which would in some measure represent the spirit of unity and strength which has been developed in Canada during the last sixty years. A number of Canadian artists assisted the Committee in working out its idea and a design of Mr. C. W. Jeffreys of Toronto was finally adopted as expressing most accurately the views of the Committee. The general idea conveyed by this design was afterwards translated in his own original way into medallion art by the eminent sculptor and engraver, Mr. Raymond Delamarre, of Paris, France.

Illustrations of the medal show a new effigy of His Majesty King George V., which is the work of one of the foremost British artists, Sir Bertram MacKennal. The reverse shows a figure which admirably typifies the qualities of youth, energy and confidence in the future. By its position, facing the Atlantic, from which blows a strong invigorating breeze, there is a suggestion of the cultural origins of our people and of the ideals of liberty and justice inherited from overseas. The figure stands on a pedestal bearing the dates 1867-1927. Surrounding the pedestal are sheaves of wheat and wreaths of maple leaves and in the background a map of Canada, in the upper part of which the shield from the Canadian coat-of-arms appears. On the Atlantic side of the map are the names of the first discoverers, Cartier and Champlain, and on the Pacific side those of Cook and Vancouver. The whole is surmounted with the Latin motto from the Canadian coat-of-arms, "A mari usque ad mare".

The National Committee is happy to acknowledge the splendid cooperation of the London and Paris Mints in the production of the original dies of this medal. The dies arrived in Canada early in August and the work of striking the medal is proceeding at the Royal Mint in Ottawa. The medal is three inches in diameter—one of the largest ever handled by the Ottawa Mint. All the metal used is from Canadian mines and the medal is thus a happy combination of British, French and Canadian artistic and technical effort.

The Committee has ordered gold medals to be struck for His Majesty the King, for His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada and for the Prime Minister of Canada. Gold medals will also be presented to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales and to the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, who paid a special visit to Canada in connection with the Jubilee ceremonies last year. A gold medal will also be deposited in the Dominion Archives. Silver medals will be struck for Her Excellency the Viscountess Willingdon and for H. R. H. Prince George, who accompanied the Prince of Wales on his visit last year, for members of the Privy Council of Canada, the Lieutenant-Governors of the Provinces and the Prime Ministers of the Provinces. Bronze medals will be presented to Senators and members of the House of Commons, to members of the Provincial Governments, to the surviving sons and daughters of the Fathers of Confederation, to members of the National Diamond Jubilee Committee and to officers of the Provincial Diamond Jubilee Committees. The medals are being struck as rapidly as possible at the Royal Mint and it is hoped that the distribution will be completed before the end of the present year.

The Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, took advantage of his trip to Europe in connection with the signing of the Kellogg treaty to present gold medals to His Majesty the King, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales and the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin.

Manager—Could you identify the waiter who was discourteous to you?

Miss Sweet—Perhaps you can because his finger prints are right here on my soup plate.

AMERICAN BASE BALL STARS WILL AGAIN HUNT BIG GAME IN NEW BRUNSWICK

While the Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees have been battling for the American League championship and the right to participate in the 1928 world series, something more than baseball has been in the minds of some of the leading figures in the greatest pennant race in years.

Players who have been virtually at death grips with one another on the diamond have been scanning maps after the games were over and studying reports on New Brunswick's big game hunting territory while they considered plans for a hunting trip for moose, deer and bears next month as soon as the world series is over. The result has been the completion of plans for what should be the most enjoyable big game hunting trip the baseball stars have ever had in New Brunswick.

When Bob Shawkey, veteran pitcher and star of a good many world series, left the American League and joined the Montreal Royals of the International League, his place as pilot of the baseball stars' hunting party was assumed by Eddie Collins, greatest of all second basemen and now assistant manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. As a result of negotiations carried on through J. D. Black, Director of the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel, who has arranged the several previous hunting trips the baseball stars have made to New Brunswick, the six players will spend the last two weeks of October at Hopewell Lodge, located twelve miles south of Doaktown on Cain's River, which has been placed at their exclusive disposal by the members of the club owning the property.

Members of Party.

In addition to Collins and Shawkey the other members of the party will be: Beny Bengough, New York Yankees; Sam Jones, Washington Senators; Fred Hofmann, Boston Red Sox; and Joe Bush, Philadelphia Athletics. The personnel of the party is thus the same so far as active players go, as that which visited New Brunswick last year and saw more than two hundred moose while they were in the woods, except that Mark Keonig, the New York Yankees' shortstop, will not be included, as he plans to hurry home to the Pacific Coast as soon as his baseball duties for the year have been completed. Present plans call for the baseball hunters to assemble at New York on Sunday, October 14th, and to leave there at noon that day for Boston, where they will catch a train that evening at 7.40 o'clock which will land them in Fredericton at noon on Monday, October 15th.

Will Be Entertained.

Fredericton sportsmen will give the baseball stars a reception that evening and Tuesday morning the party will proceed to Doaktown, where they will be met by Frank Russell, chief guardian of Hopewell Lodge property with a corps of guides and camp attaches. Some light autos and motor trucks have made the trip through the woods from Doaktown to Hopewell Lodge this year and it is likely the last leg of the journey to their hunting camp will be made by the baseball stars by motor truck. Hopewell Lodge is one of the finest privately owned hunting and fishing camps in New Brunswick. It is located on the high banks of Cain's river in the midst of one of the best big game territories in the Province—an open country where deer can be seen at a distance—and deer rather than moose will be the objective of the baseball hunters this year. Hopewell Lodge is equipped as comfortably as a modern hotel, wealthy Boston sportsmen who founded the club installing spring beds with made-to-order mattresses in all of the nine bedrooms, each of which is equipped with a heating stove and up to date furniture. The Lodge is 85 feet in length with an eight foot verandah and some of the best known big game hunters in the United States have taken fine specimens of moose and deer out of the territory in which the baseball stars will hunt this year.

SHORT WINE CROP SEEN IN FRANCE

Paris, Sept. 20—Wine bottles marked "1928" will be jealously guarded in the cellars of connoisseurs in the years to come. France has just passed through the driest, hottest summer since 1911. The wine crop, it is predicted, will be short in quantity and excellent in quality.

IRONY

God grant that I may catch a fish So big that even I In telling of it afterwards May have no need to lie.

—Quoted by Viscount Grey.

If you should catch a fish like that (Oh irony most dire) You would be known forevermore As history's biggest liar.

—Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

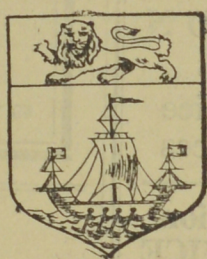

This reasoning is all awry Illogical and dull; A fisherman who does not lie Is unbelievable.

—Newark Advocate

I may lack logic but this time You've wrought a miracle For you've persuaded "dull" to rhyme With "unbelievable."
