HIS MAJESTY'S ILLNESS IS PURSUING A NORMAL COURSE;
PUBLIC IN HOPEFUL MOOD

London, Nov. 28—Extreme reticence continued tonight to characterize the medical announcement issued at Buckingham Palace on the illness of the King. Taken at its face value, this evening's bulletin from Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, was regarded as favorable, especially when read in connection with a letter which the two physicians sent to the Cabinet earlier in the day. It was noted, however, that again nothing was said about the patient's temperature or pulse and that even the rather stereotyped statement that "his strength was maintained," was omitted this evening. The bulletin said this:

"The King passed a fair day, with some sleep, otherwise conditions are unchanged."

It was possible to infer from the statement "conditions are unchanged" that there has been no diminution in the King's strength. The fact that he had obtained sleep was hailed as another favorable sign.

Bulletin Early.

The slightest straws on favorable indications are being grasped in London, so there was comment tonight on the fact that the bulletin was issued earlier than had been usual, showing that the doctors had taken less time to decide on its wording. Only an hour elapsed between their arrival at the Palace and the writing of the bulletin, whereas on recent evenings the interval has been about twice as long.

The letter which the physicians sent to the cabinet was written with the especial view of giving information to the public and thereby allaying possible anxiety. In view of the rather full information in the letter, it was supposed that the doctors did not think it necessary to say more in tonight's bulletin. In fact, it was unofficially said at the Palace that the physicians, who had only remained with His Majesty for about an hour, were very well satisfied with his condition.

Well Satisfied.

The fact that no further complications have arisen in an illness whose progress by its nature is bound to be slow, is a matter of great satisfaction.

Members of the Royal Family are going about their daily engagements in ordinary fashion. The Queen of Spain, who has been staying in England for some time with her daughters, leaves tomorrow morning for Madrid in accordance with her original plans. She is a cousin of King George.

All these indications point to the King's illness pursuing a normal course and the disposition of the public tonight was to maintain a hopeful attitude. Satisfaction has been increased by the news that the Prince of Wales is hurrying home, it being felt quite proper that he should be in England during what may prove to be a long convalescence of his father. He would undertake the public functions in which the King would ordinarily officiate should His Majesty go abroad to recuperate.

Approve Return.

In an editorial discussion of the Prince's decision to return, the Daily News said: "It is obvious that in the happiest circumstances, the King will need a prolonged rest during a period of convalescence, and that it may be desirable for him to forego the strain of many public engagements and other official tasks."

"It is natural that he should wish for the presence of his eldest son, as that the Prince should wish to be with his father. The Prince's speedy return will inevitably assist the King's recovery and will everywhere be regarded as earnest of the Prince's intention to relieve His Majesty of all possible duties."

King George of Greece and Lady Patricia Ramsay paid a visit to the Queen during the day.

The crowds of sympathizers waiting in the vicinity of the Palace were undiminished during the day. On one occasion a party of runners, in training for some sport event, broke off their run, took places in the queue, read the latest bulletins, recording the progress being made by the King in his fight against pleurisy, and then continued their run.

Johnston who was nearby when the fatal accident occurred. From the evidence brought out it appears that the youth did not see the Clark car until it was within less than thirty feet of him, and was watching the other car at the time.

Several of the witnesses stated that the Clark car was going at a fast rate of speed at the time; but Clark contended that his car was not travelling more than 40 miles per hour and it was his opinion that it was travelling between 30 and 35 miles per hour at the time of the accident. The verdict as returned by the jury through foreman Alexander Dingee was as follows:

"We the jury, selected to inquire into the death of Alva Johnston on November 26th., find it was caused by being struck by a motor car driven by Alden Clark of St. John; caused by fast driving on said Alden Clark's part according to the condition of the road at that time, and recommend that his driver's license be cancelled for one year from date."

Has Many Friends

In commenting on the appointment of Jack Babbitt to this city to a Rhodes Scholarship the sporting editor of the Halifax Recorder says: "Babbitt has many acquaintances in Halifax who will be delighted to hear of his gaining such high honors and he will have their heartiest best wishes for his success at Oxford not only in his studies, but that he will attain prominence at both football and tennis, which they believe he is liable to do even in a University where there are so many adepts at these games."

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Carew of Montreal are in the city today visiting some friends.

BEARS HAVE A
HUNGRY TIME
THIS SEASON

Food Very Scarce.

This season the blueberry crop was the worst in years and as for beech nuts there were none at all. Beers usually rely on beechnuts to supply the coating of fat which they like to put on before crawling into a den for their long winter's sleep. It stands to reason, therefore, that being unable to find food in their native wilds they must either starve or encroach on nearby orchards and farm yards for a supply of apples or a stray sheep or lamb. Those familiar with the habits of bears know them to be very cowardly and not at all inclined to venture out into the open unless driven to it by hunger. A number of farmers residing in the parishes of Kingsclear and Douglas have lost sheep this season, and quite frequently orchards in these parishes have been raided.

Bears seek their dens at this season of the year, but owing to the difficulty they have had in foraging a livelihood the knowing ones are predicting for them a rather uncomfortable winter.

These Simple Rules
Make Teething Easy

Be careful of Baby's diet during teething. Do not overfeed him. Watch his stomach and bowels and at the first sign of indigestion, gas or constipation, give him a few drops of harmless, pleasant-tasting, Fletcher's Castoria. These simple rules are making teething easy on millions of babies and mothers, too. For over thirty years Castoria has been the trusted standby of mothers everywhere. It soothes wakeful, cross babies to sleep quickly and easily—and it's purely-vegetable so you can give it as often as needed. It does the work of castor oil better and more gently. For your protection the bottle of genuine Castoria always bears the Fletcher signature.

Nowadays when the skirt reaches the ankle the deduction is that something has slipped.

AIMEE SAYS THAT REPORT IS ALL BUNK

New York, Nov. 27—Home after two months abroad where she said she found the people much the same as those of the United States, Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, to-day characterized as "the bunk" reports of a renewed investigation of her alleged kidnapping two years ago.

Mrs. McPherson returned from Europe on the liner Columbus with expressions of gratitude at the warmth of her reception in England, France, Germany and other countries she visited. At half a dozen meetings abroad she said, she made thousands of converts.

The investigation into her adventure of two years ago, she said was only a form of persecution instigated by unknown enemies. When it began, she asserted, there were but 7,000 members in her Los Angeles church, but in a brief period the congregation was doubled. If the investigation is renewed, she added, the church membership probably will double again.

The English, she discovered, are more emotional than the people of the United States at evangelists meetings. There she reported, her audiences applauded and cheered. Paris she found to be a "marvelous field for prospective conversions," and a city whose night life is a duplicate of that to be found in New York.

Mrs. McPherson denied reports of estrangement from her mother.

It isn't difficult to conceal your age unless you express your opinion of a rumble seat.

Generally the man who thinks that his wife doesn't understand him would be out of luck if she did.
