PREMIER KING BACK IN CANADA SAYS EUROPE WILL HAVE TO COME TO NEW WORLD VIEW POINT

On board the Empress of Scotland, Oct. 27—After an absence of more than two months, during which period he represented the Dominion on a number of historic occasions, Premier Mackenzie King, returned to his homeland today. Looking well and ruddy and glad to be back in Canada, the Prime Minister, who was accompanied on his return voyage to Canada by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate, Senator W. L. MacDougald and Senator Andrew Haydon, sailed up the St. Lawrence River to land at Quebec.

In his stateroom Mr. King told of some of those things which took him to Europe, of the welcome he received everywhere, of the high place which Canada has achieved in the minds and hearts of European nations and of the benefit which had accrued from his sojourn in Great Britain and on the continent. Peace and Canada's part in perpetuating peace in the world, formed the theme of much of what Mr. King had to say.

"The peace of the world depends more on good relationship between the United States and Great Britain, and Great Britain and France than on any other single factor," said the Prime Minister, in this connection. He pointed out that in the development of this happy relationship Canada held a key position. The Dominion understood and could interpret the French, the British and United States character. She was qualified to act as the interpreter nation. With her understanding of all their peoples, she held it in her power to cement closer and closer the bonds which existed between them.

New Viewpoint.

"Europe will have to come to the new world point of view," said Mr. King, in referring to efforts for world peace.

The new world, he continued, could present the old world with a practical example of the effectiveness of disarmament as a means of perpetuating peace. Canada and the United States had demonstrated the value of arbitration and conciliation in international affairs ever since the Rush Bagot treaty became effective.

"What is interesting to Canada is that here we have worked out what the European nations are seeking," the Premier said. Canada had renounced war in so far as her relations with the United States went. As a matter of policy, war had been replaced by the spirit of conciliation and means had been set up for the amicable investigation and adjustment of differences. In Europe there was still an element of distrust between the nations which were seeking peace.

By this system we have been relieved of the necessity of putting large sums of money into armaments, and this money has gone into industry, Mr. King said. "When the Minister of Finance prepares his budget he does not have to allow even five cents for armaments." The result was a stimulation to prosperity.

Immigration.

The Prime Minister referred briefly to immigration. He felt, he said, that he and those associated with him had been able to convince the people of Great Britain that British settlers were welcome in Canada. He expressed the opinion that some of the injurious propaganda circulated in Great Britain which led to an opposite impression gaining ground, might be traced to private organizations which desired to compel the Canadian Government to contribute financially to their own immigration schemes. The government had no intention of contributing large sums to private immigration schemes, he stated.

The meeting of the League of Nations, which he attended for the first time as one of Canada's representatives was referred to by the Prime Minister. The League was doing a great work, he said. "It is trying to develop the appeal of reason rather than the appeal to force." This accounted for the stress laid upon disarmament, because the League believed that to discourage great armaments meant to put a brake on any nation which might be inclined to belligerence.

The bringing together of representatives of the world nations, their sitting down to talk over their differences, was a most important thing.

"It is helping to create a world opinion which fosters goodwill instead of ill-will," the Prime Minister declared. He considered the signing of the Kellogg treaty an important step toward that condition which was desired by the signatory nations.

"I think they are leaving it to the United States to decide," Mr. King said when asked if efforts were being made to induce the United States to join the League. All countries are welcome, he added.

NASHWAAK BOY DIED YESTERDAY FROM INJURIES

death of young Smith occurred near his home Nashwaak Village. He was making his way home on his bicycle on Friday evening when a car driven by Frank Boone of Devon came up behind him and went to go by him. Smith who was on the wrong side of the road made a hasty attempt to get onto his own side and at the same time the driver of the car also crossed over. The result was that the bicyclist received the full force of the collision. He was thrown from his bicycle by the impact and struck on the head by the side of the car as it swept past. The driver of the car immediately came to the young man's assistance but he was in an unconscious state when picked up. He sustained severe cuts to his face and head. Since he was taken to the hospital his condition gradually grew worse, culminating in his death.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from the late home at three o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. E. E. Fltche. A short service will be held at the United Baptist church at Nashwaak Village and interment will be made in the adjoining churchyard.

Wires Caused Disturbance.

The fire alarm got on the rampage yesterday and blew for quite a period before the trouble was finally located by the officials and the cause corrected. It was found by investigation that the Maritime Electric wires had somehow come into contact with the alarm connections.

Unique Service

An interesting and unique form of service was held Sunday evening in the George Street Baptist Church. The theme of the service was the Biblical picture of Jesus Christ as "King of Kings and Lord of Life" presented in the form of Scriptural readings selected by the pastor, each section being followed by appropriate music to express the thought. The music, under the charge of the organist, Mrs. Earl McKeen, consisted of solos, duets, mixed quartette, anthems, and general hymns, all pleasingly rendered. The special offertory music was a much appreciated clarinet solo given by Mr. Fred Mawer. A large congregation was present at this impressive service which marked the completion of the first year's work of the present pastor, Rev. M. H. Mason in association with this church.
