LEADERSHIP

Even wise men can make predictions that don't mean much. Dr. Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution, speaking before a convention of scientists, says the white race will continue to be superior over all the others unless millions are wiped out by a great disaster or epidemic. He might say the white race will remain dominant as long as it deserves to remain dominant because of superior behavior. The white race was not meant to have a lasting monopoly on civilization. Leadership is earned and it is held, either by nations or individuals, only as long as the earning process goes on.

MARGIN OF EFFORT

Unusual success in your line is achieved by the MARGIN OF EFFORT. The margin of effort is that bit of superiority you have over the man or woman next to you who is trying to do the same thing. There is more efficiency in this day than ever before. There is hotter competition. It becomes constantly a more highly competitive world. The prizes go to the one who puts the extra ounce of effort. Six o'clock is quitting time. The habit of overtime, at personal inconvenience, often makes the difference between success and failure.

Referring to the reported move for an injunction to prevent the transfer of the Bathurst Company property, the financial editor of the Montreal Star says: In interested local circles the injunction was not treated seriously. It was stated to be purely a personal dispute between Sir James Dunn and Angus MacLean, the former president of the Bathurst Company. It was further stated that the stock was paid for and transferred ten days ago, so that the transaction could not be stopped by an injunction taken out now, and could not affect the position of the new owners of the stock.

The Chatham World says: "The Royal Fishery Commission are in session in St. John and the evidence procured before it would indicate that conditions prevailing in the Fishery protective service are much like that in the Customs Service revealed before the Customs Commission and needs reorganization." We are inclined to think that the World's observations are amply justified.

A so-called learned judge in Chicago tells girls that it is quite all right to take Leap Year seriously and to propose marriage to the young men if they want to. This judge may know the law but he needs to learn more about folks. The girl who follows his advice is likely to have an unpleasant experience. It's a dangerous recommendation.

Doing the best we know how each day is much better than adopting any elaborate set of resolutions. We never know today what set of circumstances may confront us tomorrow. Wait until those circumstances come before you make resolutions about how you are going to meet them. In the meantime be calm.

Medical authority is of the opinion that the next generation will be much healthier because so many children "under the age of ten are now having their tonsils removed." How many generations does the removal of one set of tonsils take care of?

According to the Philadelphia Ledger Pennsylvania had its first big snowstorm of the season last week. In some places it blocked the state highways and marooned many autos. Drifts to a depth of fourteen feet were quite common.

A lot of wives who have been married ten or fifteen years will agree with that writer who says a man past thirty is incapable of love.

Hundreds of years ago, we were told, the banana was called "the apple of paradise," but it didn't really become popular until it was called the banana.

How many of these senographers who are swimming back and forth across the English Channel can spell Grils Nez the first time, without looking it up in the scrapbook?

Murder in Chicago has reached such a high state of development that the city can now confidently boast that when better murders are committed, Chicago will commit them.

Now that a negro choirmaster out in Chicago has pointed the way by smiting a discordant baritone with a blackjack, the jazz orchestra should watch their step.

In his latest picture Lon Chaney plays two parts. Well, it would be impossible for anyone else to double for Lon.

If she weights 218 pounds at table-side, and wears a wistful expression, the chocolate eclain represents an other broken resolution.

The Optimist thinks the car is just cold; the Pessimist climbs wearily out of his seat and goes around back to examine the gas tank.

It is our understanding that none of those highly caloric mammas ever gets very much steamed up over housework.

How many inches of snow does it take to make a winter? The answer is: As many as we happen to get.

Perhaps the fish on those Massachusetts license plates is the State's subtle sneer at the average driver

Hockey at St. John

The Fredericton hockey team left this morning for St. John where they will battle the Fusiliers in the final league game between the two teams this season. In the previous game with the Fusiliers up here two weeks ago the two teams battled to a 3 to 3 overtime draw and with Keene and Chalmers the two regular forwards, tired from last night's Intercollegiate game, it will prove to be a tough game, with the pre-game breaks all in the St. John team's favor.

Chimney Fires

The fire department responded to two still alarms last night; one at the home of Mrs. Chas. Burgess on Saunders street at about seven o'clock and another at the residence of Miss Ada Schuyler in Charlotte Street at 10.30. Both were chimney fires and were quickly quelled without any serious damage being done.

Perplexed young people may also wonder about their elders. In which case it might be asked: Where is my wondering boy?

Gene Tunney's idea of rest: "Doing just what I want to do at the time I want to do it." If he were married his definition would seem selfish.

We have heard a lot of prayers i n our time but never one which said: "Lord help us to obtain for our own good the things we deserve be they little or much."

It doesn't make much difference to a woman whether she shows the doctor her tongue or has to hold a fever tube between her lips. Either way keeps her from talking.

Gallant Rescue

Chivalry is not dead! Contrary to the belief held by many persons of this much discussed problem, chivalry still lives. As witness the gallant action of one of our local young men in the bitter cold of last evening, when, evidently stirred by chivalry flames of past generations, and certainly a certain amount of compassion for the poor Miss, he climbed the cold length of a neighboring telephone pole, and brought the shivering Ann, who had somehow managed to get in that precarious situation, back to terra firma and warmth. Be it said right here that Miss Ann-Gora was certainly grateful to her gallant rescuer and tendered him the most grateful of smiles. Contrary to the movie consequence of such a gallant act, we rather think that the affair will end without any serious complications; but the charming miss was certainly grateful.
