All France in Mourning Over The Death of Earl Haig

"France Will Never Forget Haig", Says Leading Paris Newspaper—Marshall Foch Deeply Hurt by the Sad News—Says Name of Late Field Marshall is Written Prominently in Histories of World War.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

Paris, Jan. 31—All France yesterday mourned the death of Sir Douglas Haig, who was Field Marshal of the British forces during the world war. An exemplification of France's mourning was the statement in Echo de Paris which said "France will never forget Haig." Marshall Foch, the allied commander, was deeply hurt by the word that Earl Haig was dead.

"Haig's name is written prominently in the histories of the world war. I will never forget the day at Doultens when I was invested with the supreme command of the allied armies by Premier Clemenceau and President Doumergue. General Haig came to me to tell me he was simply at my orders."

REPORT OF CRISIS IN ROME UNFOUNDED

Rome, Jan. 30—The report published in the London Daily Herald that a crisis similar to the Trotsky crisis in Russia threatened fascism today was declared to be unfounded. Those in authority were at a loss how to characterize the report.

The allegations of the Herald that Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, and Edmondo Rossoni, head of the Fascist Trade Union, were threatened with disciplinary measures was laughed at, as were statements concerning discontent among the rank and file of the party.

The theory is held here that the story started among a small anti-Fascist coterie in Switzerland.

METAL MIRROR WILL BE AID TO PHOTOGRAPHY

New Haven, Jan. 30—A whirling metal mirror that makes 360,000 revolutions a minute offers a hint that some day photographs can be taken with exposures of a billionth of a second.

Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence, Dr. J. W. Beams and W. D. Garmon, at the Sloane physics laboratory, Yale University, are using the mirror in studies of extremely short flashes of light. The reflector, whirled by a volume of air, cuts a beam of light into pieces so small that the duration of each is computed in billionths of a second.

Application of the same principle to photography, the physicists suggest, may eventually make possible a high-speed shutter.

Although road officials refused to divulge his name, they admitted his alertness and ingenuity prevented what might have been a disastrous accident.

PASTOR WOULD MAKE MARRIED LIFE HAPPY

Washington, Jan. 29—"Ten Commandments for a successful married life" were announced by the Rev. John E. Briggs at his Baptist church here yesterday. They were:—

1. Thou shalt have a definite understanding about money matters, lest the husband shall think he owns all he earns.
 2. Ye shall not both get angry at the same time.
 3. Ye shall not discuss gossip before your children.
 4. Thou shalt not say "I can't do a thing with Willie" in his presence. Let a beam come out of thine eye and cut a shingle therefrom and assert thyself.
 5. Thou shalt not entrust the innermost secrets of thy wedded life to an intimate friend.
 6. Thou shalt not neglect to make thyself agreeable, lest thou look like a rummage sale.
 7. Thou shalt not try to start life where thy parents left off. Begin in low gear and shift gears until you get in high. Pay as you go, and if you can't pay, don't go.
 8. Thou shalt not say to an unwelcome caller "delighted" lest thy children become great liars, too.
 9. Thou shalt see thy children attend church twice on Sunday.
 10. Thou shalt not allow thy little or middle-aged son to smoke.
- On hearing the commandments, the congregation rose and sang, "Home, Sweet Home."
