MAN POWER

After making elaborate experiments for the purpose of ascertaining the power generated by the human body, a French scientist rates a trained athlete at one-eight horsepower and a flabby white-collar clerk at one-thirty-second horsepower.

The calculations are interesting but do not seem to be important, for the Frenchman failed to take into account the fact that the human brain developed the idea which makes it possible for the puniest person to push a button and command almost unlimited horsepower which minimizes housework, lightens farm labor and makes mass production of motor cars possible.

WILLING WISDOM

It has been sometimes been said that no man can leave his wisdom and his experience to his heirs. In a way it is fortunate that he can not. The world moves too fast for the wisdom and experience of yesterday to catch up or keep up. If we could inherit wisdom and experience too many of us would be content to let them stand and to abide by them in content. The fact is that experience is too often only a deterrent to new and better work. Experience too often teaches us that we can not do the impossible. And it is by doing the impossible that men have brought the world to its present highly interesting state.

LOYALTY

Loyalty is a beautiful word and it expresses a beautiful idea. The proper demand for loyalty to the shoop where you work, to the employer who hires you, the business from which you get your living, is too little understood by many of us. There are men who take salaries from concerns with which they have no sympathy. Worse than that, there are men who take their living from concerns which they refuse to support with good words and which they undermine with criticism. Disloyalty is a major sin.

Nebraska man who has made airplane flights totalling 35,000 miles says that operation of the machines costs 3 cents a mile less than automobiles. What might be termed a reduction in the upkeep, eh?

Another of the minor troubles of spring gardening is that the pain in the small of one's back and one's enthusiasm seem to die out simultaneously.

MARY GARDEN GOING TO TAKE SUN BATHS

New York, May 11—Well, the peek-a-boos of France have been warned, and also any tourist strays who try to make holes in their manners by seeking to ferret the secrets of the personal pulchritude of Mary Garden. She is off for a summer at her French home in Beaulieu, and two savage, huge fanged and aggressive dogs will guard her as she takes her sun baths for health and to improve, if possible, her figure.

"I am going to rest, and stretch out on a big rock at my place, permitting the lovely warm sun to play on me all the day long," she says. "I am planning to improve my face and my figure and my mind, and there is no better way.

"I aim to take the sun baths during July and August; two entire months of it, to get the fullest benefits of the sun cure. There is nothing like sunshine.

"I shall wear nothing and I shall have privacy. For I have two great big police dogs, trained and devoted to watch over me and keep away all intruders.

FLOODS IN ONTARIO DO MUCH DAMAGE

Toronto, May 10—According to reports reaching here tonight from the flood-stricken areas throughout the province the peak of the floods has not yet been reached. The Gatineau River at Ottawa is reported to be steadily rising while the Montreal River in Ontario, in certain places, has reached a level which has not been equalled since the floods of 1909. Conditions in the Algoma district are said to be improving.

The floods in the Cobalt district have resulted in operations being suspended at the Miller Lake, O'Brien Mine in Gowganda, affume having been washed out connecting the power house. The road from Elk Lake to Cobalt cannot be used owing to the destruction of a bridge, while two feet of water is reported in a hotel at Elk Lake. The high water carried a house down the Montreal River at this point.

Although the Gatineau River is still rising in the Ottawa district, the Ottawa River is reported to be showing a tendency to abate. The Gatineau rose seven inches yesterday and three inches today. Families in the village of Gatineau Point, Que., at the junction of the Ottawa and Gatineau Rivers, are moving out of their homes, which are close to the river bank.

SPUD MARKET IS FIRMER

Presque Isle, Me., May 10—The Aroostook potato market showed a slightly firmer tone today with a little better demand. Buyers were not inclined to pay more than $1.25 but a few sales were reported slightly higher.

WON RUN DUE TO PRAYER

Boston, May 11—One-tenth of Clarence Demar's success as a marathon runner is due to prayer, he says. The rest comes from hard work, clean living and sensible diet.

Electric Cooking For Tasty Dishes

Tasty, nutritious dishes may be cooked with a certainty that nothing is over-done—nothing underdone. The uniform heat of an electric range keeps cooking time always the same. It reduces meat shrinkage and eliminates pan-shifting in the oven.
