HARVESTERS AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Aug. 14—Five thousand harvesters from the Maritime Provinces and eastern Quebec and more than 1,600 immigrants, poured into Winnipeg yesterday, and a few hours later most of them were resuming their travels westward, to be placed on farms in the prairie provinces.

BEAUSEJOUR NATIONAL PARK WAS FORMALLY DEDICATED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Hon. Dr. Veniot, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Judge Le-Blanc and Premier Baxter Among the Speakers—A Large Number of People Present at the Ceremony—Monuments Unveiled.

Amherst, N. S., Aug. 14—Beausejour National Park, the youngest of all Canadian national parks, was formally dedicated this afternoon amid impressive ceremonies. At the same time two historic monuments were unveiled, one erected in commemoration of the arrival of the Yorkshire settlers, 1773-1775, the other in honor of the Marquis de Valliere, one of the first and most outstanding French governors of the Acadian district of Beausejour and Chignecto.

Over 1,000 people were in attendance at the ceremonies, including residents from all parts of the Isthmus of Chi-necto—Sackville, Moncton, Shediac, Amherst, Aulac, Port Elgin, Baie Verte, Point de Bute, Memramcook, College Bridge, Maccan, Saint John and other parts of New Brunswick.

There were many notable speakers, the list including Hon. R. B. Bennett, K. C., Senator A. B. Copp, of Sackville; Hon. Dr. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General for Canada; Hon. Percy C.
Black, Minister of Highways for Nova Scotia; Premier J. B. M. Baxter; Senator F. B. Black, of Sackville, and Judge A. T. LeBlanc, of Moncton.
Other prominent men who were present at the ceremonies were Senator N.
Curry; Senator C. W. Robinson, of Moncton; Senator Pascal Poirier, of Shediac, as well as many eminent Catholic and Protestant divines. It was a significant occasion that marked the amity existing between the English and Acadian residents of Canada since 1755. Premier Baxter in a terse way declared that there was no spirit of tolerance on either side, the races existing as Canadians on a basis of equality under one King and one flag.

Well Conducted.

The arrangements for the afternoon were well conducted, Dr. J. Clarence Webster, of Shediac, and W. L. Ormond, of Amherst, who headed the committee, having completed all details. It was through the sincere efforts of these two men that the historic advancement of Fort Beausejour was assured and its establishment as a permanent national park.

Heavy grey stone monuments were unveiled this afternoon. The monuments placed upon the rise to the ramparts of the Fort overlook the historic marshes of Tantramar, the ground that has on occasions witnessed struggles for supremacy between the French, English and American forces as well as the conflicts between the Indians and the early settlers.

Descendants Assist.

Today, assisting in the ceremonies, were descendants of the Yorkshire settlers as well as the direct racial descendants of the Acadian settlers who had for a long time made their homes in the vicinity of Fort Beausejour. Hon. Dr. Veniot, Premier Baxter and Judge LeBlanc delivered addresses in the Acadian tongue.

Dr. J. Clarence Webster, of Shediac, eminent historian and member of the Board of Historic Sites and Monuments, acted as chairman of the historic occasion today. In brief he gave a description of the efforts put forth by a mere handful of citizens to arouse interest in the historic significance of Fort Beausejour and the surrounding district.

Point of Interest.

"Beausejour national park will be a point of interest for the people of Canada but particularly to the residents of the Maritime Provinces," stated Senator Copp in the commencement of his address. He stated that he had been of some slight assistance to Dr. Webster, W. L. Ormond and others in arranging for the transfer of the Fort Beausejour from the Department of Militia and Defence to the control of the Department of the Interior. He paid a splendid tribute to the efforts that had been put forth by these two gentlemen for the preservation of the old fort, making special mention of the work carried on by Dr. Webster on the Historic Sites and Monuments Board.

At the same time he welcomed Hon.
Dr. Veniot, Postmaster-General, as a worthy representative of the race of courageous Acadians and extended a similar welcome to Hon. R. B. Bennett, and dealt with a series of reminiscences relating to the school days of himself and the present leader of the Opposition.

Hon. Mr. Bennett.

High tribute to the pioneers of Canada and particularly the Acadians and the early settlers of the Isthmus was offered by Hon. Mr. Bennett, himself a native of Albert County, born within sight of the towering earthen walls of Fort Beausejour.

In the historic area dedicated as a national park, Hon. Mr. Bennett found a great lesson for the citizens of Canada. He stated that it had once been the battle ground of two distinct races who had waged their fight for su-premaccy and control of the country.
"Here, now, side by side," he asserted, "two great races live in peace. Woe unto him who accentuated any difference. The rights of the minority in Canada have been guaranteed and we of today will not tolerate the accentuation of the difference in race, speech and religion."

In an appeal for a greater Canadianism, Hon. Mr. Bennett urged the men and women and the boys and girls of Canada to lift their eyes beyond their own parish and think in terms of Canada, forget the differences and realize that parties are but instruments to effect purposes. "Then those who come after us may look with pride upon our accomplishments," he said.

"The men who first built in this country did better than they knew," said Hon. Mr. Bennett. "Their faith and trust they have transmitted to those who follow. Let us go out with the idea that their sacrifices have not been in vain."

Hon. Dr. Veniot.

Hon. Dr. Veniot, Postmaster-General for Canada, in the commencement of his remarks, declared that he had a better right to be present within the walls of Beausejour than a majority of the citizens present as his great-grandfather had been taken a prisoner and detained at the fort.

Referring to the great friendship that today exists between the French and English cities of Canada, Hon. Dr.
Veniot declared that there is no other spot in Canada where a greater example of this amicable spirit can be found than in the province of New Brunswick. "There is no need for bigotry or fanaticism. Such matters are of the ancient past."

Premier Baxter

"The people of Old Acadia, French and English, have long been in perfect accord," remarked Premier Baxter.

"The differences that resulted in wars existed between kings and leaders and not with the people. Time has crumbled the great guns of Beausejour into dust to mingle with the clay of attackers and defenders. Descendants of the victors and the vanquished now have the future of Canada in their hands. Possessing one King and one flag, yet they have two ways of expressing thought and ideas—the English-speaking race being the better for securing the benefits of French ideas, while the French-speaking citizens are made stronger by developing certain British traits. With due deference to the other speakers and their references to a spirit of tolerance, I must say that in Canada we have no room for tolerance between the two races.
There is absolute equality under one flag of the Dominion," he concluded.

Historical Sketch.

the unveiling of the monument to the Yorkshire settlers who made their homes in Westmorland and Cumberland counties between the years of 1771 and 1775, gave a vivid historical sketch of the old Fort and its surroundings as well as the early settlers.

Senator Black, prior to unveiling the monument, referred to the proposed construction of the Baie Verte canal and its importance to the people of the Maritime Provinces.

Judge LeBlanc.

Judge LeBlanc, of Moncton, speaking in the Acadian tongue, unveiled the memorial monument erected to Marquis De Valliere, one of the best known of the governors of Chignecto, a man responsible in many ways for the general upbuilding of the community of those days. In his address Judge LeBlanc paid tribute to the descendants of the Acadian settlers who were to this day maintaining their homes at different points upon the Isthmus. He concluded his address with brief comment in English, in which he referred to certain paragraphs in the historical textbooks of the provinces, whereby the Acadian settlers, men unskilled in the art of war, had been blamed for the fall of Beausejour. Judge LeBlanc denied this statement and expressed his pleasure at the correction that had been made by the Board of Education in New Brunswick when it had been brought to their attention.

Dr. Webster concluded the program with a few short remarks.

Though the pedestrian has the right of way the auto has the horn.

Thermometer at 91.

The thermometer at a local druggist's premises on York Street rose to 91 degrees in the shade at about noon today and climbed several degrees higher before the afternoon was over. This has been approximately the highest temperature since the intense heat wave of last month. At that, today's temperature is probably the record of the current summer season in this locality. The bathing beaches at the west end and the A and B Club house at the lower end of town, are both overly crowded today. There has been barely a breath of a breeze to counteract the blistering rays of the sun.
