Laborites Jubilant Over Ashton-Under-Line Verdict

The Capture of Conservative Seat is Described as the Finest Victory of All—Leaders are Enraptured and are Confident That the Liberals Cannot Stage a Comeback.

(By HERBERT BAILEY, British United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Oct. 30—The Labor victory in the Ashton-Under-Line bye-election yesterday by which the Conservatives lose the seat they have held since 1910, has caused the greatest jubilation in Labor ranks where it is described as the finest victory of all.

MacDonald, Henderson and Lansbury are all enraptured, and it is significant that all mention the poor showing of the Liberal candidate as confirmation that the Liberals cannot stage a comeback.

Gordon C. Touche, the defeated Tory says the result was due to "special circumstances" and owing to the fact that a government's last period in office is always an unfavorable time for an election. He attributes the prolonged depression in the coal fields and cotton trade for the Labor victory. Ashton-Under-Line was once represented by the present Lord Beaverbrook.

The Election Result

Ashton, Lancashire, Oct. 29—Albert Bellamy, Labor, was elected today to represent the constituency of Ashton-Under-Tyne in the House of Commons.

The result of the by-election is again for the Labor party. Mr. Bellamy succeeding C. W. Homan, Conservative, who was distinguished for failure to comply with the regulations of the House of Commons regarding bankruptcy.

The voting today was as follows:
Albert Bellamy, Labor, 9,567.
Gordon Touche, Conservative, 7,161.
W. Gilbert Greenwood, Liberal, 6,874.

RHODESIA THREATENED BY A DROUGHT

(Special cable to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

Johannesburg, South Africa, Oct. 30—Many ranchers faced ruin in Southern Rhodesia as drought continued to threaten in many sections. One rancher reported losing more than 200 head of cattle. The market was being swamped with the hides of stricken cattle.

THINKS MISSING AIRMEN ARE STILL ALIVE

(Special cable to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 30—Prof. F. Behounek, radiologist of the lost dirigible Italia, said in a lecture last night that he was convinced the missing members of the polar dirigible still were alive. He urged a renewed search in the spring.

BROUGHT TO AN ABRUPT CLOSE

(Special cable to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

Chicago, Oct. 30—Chicago's world's championship combined skating and dancing endurance contest was brought to an abrupt close today by a shooting affair in which one man was killed and a patrolman wounded.

LANDS AND MINES MINISTER HOME FROM NORTH

Hon. C. D. Richards and Party Return from Inspection and Hunting Trip—Fire Lookouts Inspected.

Partridges are becoming more plentiful and deer are especially numerous in northern New Brunswick, Hon. Charles D. Richards, Minister of Lands and Mines, said today on his return from an inspection trip, which included a canoe trip of approximately 100 miles up the Tobique river and down the Nepisiquit river.

The Minister of Lands & Mines was accompanied by Provincial Forester G. L. Miller, Assistant Forester Wm. MacCormack and Chief Game Warden H. H. Ritchie and they spent ten days investigating the natural resources in the territory embraced in their trip. Incidentally Hon. Mr. Richards shot a deer and Mr. MacCormack shot two deer.

Fire Lookouts

A number of lumber operations were visited and one of the most important features of the trip was the inspection of fire lookouts of the forest protection system; in this connection the party visited the lookout at the peak of Mount Carleton, the highest point in New Brunswick which is 2,716 feet above sea level, and looked over proposed sites for prospective additional look-out towers for the provincial system.

May Appeal Again

It is understood that the matter of carrying the case of John P. Doherty now serving a term in the York County jail for violating the Intoxicating Liquor Act, to the full bench of the Supreme Court of Canada is under consideration. Only recently an application made to a judge at Ottawa for a writ of habeas corpus was refused on a point raised by Attorney General Baxter that the court could not interfere with a conviction made under a provincial statute. It is from this decision that an appeal is contemplated. Doherty is serving a six months sentence and must in addition pay a fine of $500.

PREMIER KING WELCOMED AT CAPITAL

Promises to Make Ottawa a Capital City Worthy of the Dominion of Canada.

Ottawa, Oct. 29—Premier W. L. Mackenzie King terminated the first day of his return to the capital as the guest of honor at a dinner tendered tonight at Government House by Viscount Willingdon. As is customary at such functions at Rideau Hall, there were no speeches. Tomorrow the Prime Minister will, after two months' sojourn in Europe, return to his official duties here. A meeting of the cabinet council will probably be called for some day this week.

Since his arrival at Quebec on Saturday evening, after attending sessions of the League of Nations and opening the Canadian legation at Paris, Premier King has received two official welcomes. At the Ancient Capital of Quebec on Sunday he was accorded the first greetings of the Dominion on his return. At noon today official Ottawa extended its welcome.

Following a brief inspection of the 38th Highland Band on his arrival here, Canada's Prime Minister was escorted by four bands to the city hall. There, Mayor Arthur Ellis welcomed Premier King back to Ottawa. To the words of welcome the Prime Minister expressed how deeply he was touched. It was difficult, he proceeded, to understand why the impression had been created that he had performed great services overseas. But, he continued, if accomplishments had been made they were largely because the Canadian delegates were able to speak for the Dominion as a whole. Breathing a spirit of peace and goodwill, uttered by the Dominion's representatives at Geneva, Paris and London, Premier King said his visit to Europe had impressed upon him the essentiality of making Canada capital a city worthy of the whole Dominion.

A number of senatorial vacancies and judicial appointments have awaited the return of Premier King. The date for the opening of parliament remains to be fixed; but action in this respect is unlikely for two weeks in all probability.

POTATOES AT AROOSTOOK WORTH $1

Caribou, Me., Oct. 29—The Aroostook potato market opened fairly firm today with buyers paying $1 bulk barrel measure for Green Mountains, when they could not get them for less and special fancy lots bring a little more. Cobblers have advanced slightly, bringing 75 cents.

Reported shipments on Saturday were about 275 carloads from Aroostook, the largest output of this season. A light, damp snow and freezing weather last night made the roads slippery and is interfering with hauling in some parts of the country.

Paris, Oct. 30—Otto, one of the oldest and best known bartenders of Paris finds that one of the most noticeable results of the war is the increase in drinking among women—especially American women. "The ladies seem to have more courage about it now," he said. As bartender at Henri's, Otto was known to every millionaire visitor in Paris. He now stands besides the Castilino bar where society meets for its cocktails.

SCIENTISTS TO OBSERVE THE SUN'S ECLIPSE

British Expedition Preparing to go to Malay Peninsula

ECLIPSE DUE NEXT YEAR

Will Cut Across Philippines and End in the Pacific Ocean.

(Special cable to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

Greenwich, Eng., Oct. 30—British scientists rapidly are preparing an expedition to observe the eclipse of the sun in 1929.

While they had only a few miles to travel to Giggleswick, Yorkshire, last year to witness the total eclipse, this year they must go to Malaya.

The track of 1929 eclipse cuts across the northernmost part of Sumatra, the Malay Peninsula, and southernmost part of French Indo China and the Philippine Islands, and ends in the Pacific Ocean.

Col. Waley-Cohen, member of the expedition, has inspected the site for camps. They are situated at Alorstar, the capital of Kedah, and Patani in southern Siam.

FISH MAGNATE PASSES AWAY IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Oct. 29—Arthur Boutillier, of Halifax, former president of the Canadian Fisheries Association, died suddenly while playing golf here today.

Mr. Boutillier, who was 53 years of age, was president of the National Fish Company of Halifax and one of the most prominent leaders in that industry in Canada. He frequently visited Montreal in connection with his business activities and had many intimate friends here. He arrived here today and in company with Don J. Byrne, lunched at one of the local golf clubs. After luncheon he complained of some distress but attributed it to indigestion and proceeded to play a round of golf. Approaching the sixth hole Mr. Boutillier suddenly collapsed, falling to the ground unconscious.

Mr. Byrne called for assistance and an automobile was rushed out on the greens from the clubhouse and the stricken man was carried indoors, where all efforts to revive him failed. He died only a few minutes after the seizure.

A past president of Canadian Fisheries Association and at the time of his death a director, Mr. Boutillier played a large part in the campaign to popularize fish as a food. He conducted an extensive business and operated a fleet of trawlers out of Halifax to maintain a steady supply of fresh fish.

He was a member of the council of the Halifax Board of Trade and an active worker in numerous civic movements. He was a member of the council of the Atlantic Fisheries Experimental Station.

Bowlers at Moncton.

The Fredericton bowling team, runners up to St. John in the annual bowling tournament held last spring in this city at the Palace Alleys, are now at Moncton, competing in the bid for Kaufman Trophy emblematic of Maritime bowling supremacy. Yesterday's results did not show the local quintet rated very high but they are expected to show better form today and for the rest of the tournament. The Halifax city quintet are leading the pack just now with the McDonald's team of Moncton in second position. The five men comprising Fredericton's team are Billy Rutter, Willard Kitchen, Johnny King, Jack Lawlor and Murray Kierstead.

The Stock Gambling Mania Taking Hold In the Old Country

Fears Entertained in London That Another Shock Like the South Sea Bubble is on the Way—Shares in Luxury Concerns are Being Purchased Recklessly.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

LONDON, Oct. 30—Britain has caught the stock gambling mania, and fears are expressed in the city of London that it will suffer another shock like the historic South Sea bubble.

Shares in artificial silk, gramophone and other luxury concerns are being purchased recklessly according to the financial correspondents of various newspapers, often on the strength of extremely doubtful estimates of profits to come.

New firms are continually appearing to take advantage of the mania, and a remarkable feature is the trading in shilling (quarter) shares which has become very popular in the last few months.

NEW BRUNSWICK A PARADISE FOR HUNTERS

Prominent Toledo Men Return Home From a Very Successful Trip to the Province.

(Toledo Blade.)

Carl Hartman, vice president and general manager of the Valve Bag Co. of America, and Roy Babcock, president of the Babcock Dairy, are exhibiting to friends some of the trophies they brought home from their hunting and fishing expedition into New Brunswick, Canada. Both men have just returned from a 10-day outing.

The camps they visited are the property of Mr. Hartman and two friends, B. M. Kimball and George Keyes, of East Pepperell, Mass., and are located in the center of the province. Their main camp is 53 miles from the nearest railroad station and 25 miles from the nearest settlement, Mr. Hartman declares.

The other five outlying camps are from five to 15 miles still further into the heart of some of the finest moose, deer and bear country in New Brunswick, and a regular "fisherman's paradise," Mr. Hartman declares.

According to the guides who served Mr. Hartman and his party, many of the streams never have had hook and line in them and abound in trout, salmon and other varieties of fish.

Mr. Hartman usually plans to spend about three weeks in these camps each year, but owing to pressure of business this year the party spent but 10 days there. In this time, however, they were successful in bagging two moose with 52½ inch antlers, a bear, plenty of deer and many catches of fish. Last year, Mr. Hartman says, his guest, Harold Weber, of Toledo, shot a moose whose mounted head (an 18-point buck) is one of the finest specimens in this part of the country.

Plans Future Trips.

In addition to Mr. Babcock, the Hartman party this year consisted of B. M. Kimball and H. B. Lanum of East Pepperell, Mass., and J. C. Shumberger and son, John, of Allentown, Pa.

Mr. Hartman declares he is so pleased with the natural beauty of the region and the unexcelled hunting and fishing opportunities it offers, that he plans to return yearly. A large number of well-known local sportsmen already have expressed their desire to accompany him on this annual trip next fall, he declares.

GOVERNOR AL SMITH HEARD OVER THE RADIO

Democratic Candidate Spoke Last Night at Baltimore—Spoke of the Volstead Act and Hammered K. K. K.

Local radio fans were able last evening to listen in on a vigorous speech by Governor Al Smith, Democratic candidate for president of the United States delivered at Baltimore and broadcasted from Springfield, Mass. The governor's theme was that the Republicans were content to continue the old order of things while the Democrats would be prepared to institute reforms in the interests of the country. While admitting that the tariff should be out of politics Governor Smith said that the Democrats if returned to power would not tolerate the log rolling methods which had characterized the Republican administration. He promised that the Democrats would get away from the wiggling wobbly policy which at present prevailed.

In referring to the Volstead Act he said that no church had ever attempted to make it a question of faith. It was simply a matter of legislation which had been lobbied through by the brow beating methods of the anti-saloon league and passed over the veto of President Wilson.

Governor Smith also paid his respects to the Ku Klux Klan, which he referred to as "a noble band of patriots who claimed to be 100 per cent American". After quoting the words of the constitution that "all men are created equal" he said that as chief executive he had given the best service that was in him to the great state of New York, and he added, "so far as I am concerned, I would rather go down to ignominious defeat than be elected with the support of a party allied with the Ku Klux Klan."

The governor's vigorous speech was frequently punctuated with cheers and applause.

HOME SECRETARY ON SICK LIST

(Special cable to THE DAILY MAIL by the British United Press.)

London, Oct. 30—Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary was ill with rheumatism today and was confined to his room.
