CENTENNIAL OF FIRST ENCOENIA AT THE U. N. B.

Hon. C. D. Richards.

Hon. C. D. Richards said that the history of the University, as portrayed in the three addresses delivered, must have appealed to all, whether graduates or not. Many could remember the trying period when proposals were made by the Carnegie Foundation that all be merged in one large university in Halifax. The occasion had been trying, but, possibly from that indomitable spirit coming from old days, the decision had been reached that it would be better for the interest of the university, and that of the province, to maintain the provincial institution.

It had not always been easy to maintain the position of a state university in New Brunswick, but he could say that the institution was stronger than ever before. Its position was accepted and its advance and expansion in the future could be anticipated. He could say that there was need for expansion in forestry and mineralogy. There also was great need for a building for a library and museum. It was his belief that it would not be long to look forward to advance along those lines. The university must see that it kept its place in the educational and economic life of the province.

The Lieutenant Governor, Mayor Clark and Dr. A. F. VanWart spoke briefly.

The organization of the exercises today was largely the work of C. McN. Steeves, of the Fredericton U. N. B. Club.

MR. A. SLIPP AGAIN HEADS FRUIT GROWERS

Following were the officers elected for the ensuing year:

President, H. A. Slipp, Mouth of Keswick; Vice-President, C. Gordon Sharpe, Woodstock; Secretary-Treasurer, A. G. Turner, Fredericton. Additional directors, A. G. Murphy, Douglas, W. B. Gilman, Kingsclear, R. D. W. Hubbard, Burton. The Association closed its 23rd annual meeting at about six o'clock last night.

Miss Margaret Sharkey of Queen street, who sustained a broken shoulder some days ago and who has been confined to her home on that account is reported as being some better today and her friends will be glad to learn that she is resting comfortably.

HON. DR. MANION SHARPLY CRITICIZES THE ROBB BUDGET; LIBERAL MEMBERS PRAISE IT

Ottawa, Feb. 21—"The great mass of the people get nothing from this budget." The words used by Hon. R. J. Manion in the House today were typical of further Conservative criticism of the budget. Debate on the government's financial proposals again held the stage and at adjournment was still unfinished. Dr. Manion declared that the government, surprised that its unwise policies had not ruined the country, had formed a mutual admiration society, with the Minister of Railways recently complimenting Providence on being associated with the government.

Dr. Manion charged that the only kindness of the government to the workingman had been in giving permits to go to the United States.

H. E. Lavigne (Liberal, Quebec-Montmorency) thought the budget one of the best offered to Parliament since Confederation.

W. R. Fansher (Progressive, East Mountain) thought a conference, representative of the various classes in the Dominion, should be held to discuss the best means of levying customs duties.

Tommy Church.

T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto-Northwest) speaking at the night session, contended that as a discoverer, Sebastian Cabot wouldn't be in it with the man who could go into the vaults of the Finance Department and discover the $54,000,000 surplus.

"The tariff board is a traveling minstrel show," Mr. Church declared. The members of the board were "spade and shovel men" in gathering facts for the free-traders of the country.

W. K. Baldwin (Liberal, Stanstead) thought the budget might have been improved by wiping out the sales tax. He favored commercial union with the West Indies and believed that Newfoundland should be brought into the Dominion.

Immigration.

Thomas Cayley (Liberal, South Oxford) said the immigration problem of the country would largely solve itself if Canadians would learn to advertise their country. He approved the budget. The tariff policy of the government would not injure either the industrial or agricultural sections of the country. Mr. Cayley advocated the distribution of Canadian coal to all parts of Canada.

Manion Hits Hard.

In resuming the debate on the budget, Hon. Mr. Manion declared that the annual Federal financial statement, on a superficial inspection, provided little to discuss. "The income tax payers will be pleased; some more industries will probably be injured, but the great mass of the people get almost nothing from this budget," he declared. In his opinion the budget was largely a review of conditions, "with the usual boasts that improved conditions were due the government and not to providence. The government appears to be so surprised that its unwise policies have not ruined our country, that they have formed today a mutual admiration society, the Minister of Railways recently almost complimenting Providence on being associated with this Government," said Dr. Manion. As a matter of fact Providence had taken pity on "an afflicted land, afflicted by a Government which lacks leadership, initiative, decision or imagination to solve the really great problems facing the country."

Immigration.

Speaking of immigration, Dr. Manion said that Canada's losses to the United States amounted to 7,000 a month last year, not counting those who went by the underground method.

The St. Lawrence development was one of the most important issues in the whole range of politics. Reports on all aspects of this appeared to have been pigeon-holed and forgotten and no one knew what the government attitude is.

With the second largest coal deposits in the world, Canada was still importing 60,000,000 tons a year while in the east and the west men were idle, but not nearly so idle as the government itself in finding a fuel policy.

The cure for the problem of Canadians was to give more work and wages in Canada and give opportunity to the youth of the country to employ their energies and talents.

Senate Reform

What about Senate reform, asked Dr. Manion. This had gone into the limbo of forgotten battle cries like the famous cost of living which the Prime Minister, when he was in opposition, talked so much about. Actually the cost of a weekly family budget in July, 1922, was 70 cents lower than it was last December.

What, asked Mr. Manion, has been done for the miners, fishermen and the farmers? The miners of Nova Scotia were idle and the fishermen were needy. No doubt, he said, the tax reduction would benefit them greatly. For the farmers of Canada the Government had done less than nothing, for it had allowed the importation of millions of pounds of butter in the last few years.

Sees No Economy

He charged that every country in the world but Canada was practicing economy. Prudence in expenditures was absent from this government. The applause which came from the government benches when the Minister of Finance announced an increase in customs revenues ought to have come from the opposition, since this was due to the insistence of Hon. H. H. Stevens on an investigation into the activities of the Department of Customs. He suggested Canada should retaliate against the United States, which excluded Canadian goods.

H. E. Lavigne

H. E. Lavigne (Liberal, Quebec-Montmorency) said he failed to see where they were many grounds for criticism of the budget. He considered it one of the best which had been offered to parliament since Confederation. The government was going in the right direction in reducing the debt, and decreases in taxation were welcome.

Mr. Lavigne made reference to the motion of Hon. Charles Marcl, (Liberal, Bonaventure) which had been dropped from the order of the table, but Mr. Speaker interrupted to say that this matter was not before the House. Mr. Lavigne declared that all he had intended saying was that if the motion had been proceeded with he himself would have been willing to second it.

J. F. Pouliot (Liberal, Temiscouata), declared that not only the liabilities but also assets of the Canadian National Railways should be taken into consideration, and that these assets should be taken full advantage of.

He blamed any over-valuation of the system upon the Union Government of 1919, and said that the present administration deserved credit for meeting its interest on such a large capitalization.

Congratulations were offered to the Minister of National Revenue by W. R. Fansher (Progressive, Last Mountain), because of the increase in the customs revenues. He took exception to the finance policy of the government, declaring that when the formers had so many natural obstacles to contend with he should not be further pered by a burdensome tariff.

There was practically no reduction in tariff in the budget that would effect the great majority of producers and consumers. There had been two budgets since the 1926 election, yet the pledge of the Liberal party had not been carried out.

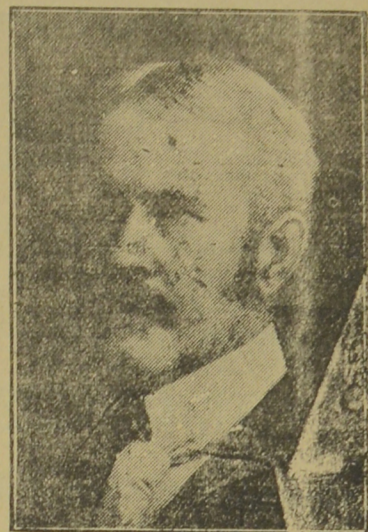

LEGISLATIVE SESSION BEGINS ON THURSDAY

Corporation Committee room of the legislative building.

Most of the members of the government and legislature are expected to arrive in the city by this evening and tomorrow morning. The government will hold a meeting this evening and will meet again tomorrow morning. It is understood that the work of preparing the estimates for the session have been completed. Good progress has been made with the printing of the Comptroller General's report and it will be brought down during the early part of the session.

NOT AFRAID OF COMMUNIST CANDIDATES

(special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

London, Feb. 22—"Whatever the number of communist candidates they will be welcomed by the Labor party." So says Ramsay MacDonald today in the Daily Herald in commenting on Moscow's proposal to run fifty communist candidates in the next British election for the expressed purpose of opposing moderate Labor candidates.

Local Fans Saw Game.

Several local hockey fans motored from this city to Saint John yesterday to witness the first N. B. play-off game between the Saint John Fusiliers and the Bathurst sextet, in which the southern team were the victors by a 1-0 score last night at the Saint John arena. They claim that the game was a thriller from start to finish and that the Saint John entry showed superior team play than the northern team. The general opinion is, however, that the game on Friday night in Bathurst will prove to be a harder contest and Bathurst seem to be the favorites for the series.
