COMPENSATION
I sometimes think I'd like to be A lady—wealthy, idle, free,
To travel and have the joys/
Denied when rearing girls and boys.
But when they search the whole house through,
Calling: "Mother! where are you?"
And say, when I answer, "Here, my dear."
"Just wanted to know if you were here."
Then I know full well no lady fine
Can claim a greater joy than mine.
Sometimes I wish there had never been
A mixing-bowl or a rolling pin
Or that I might sometimes leave them be
And eat someone else's cookery.
But when my children have dined at another's,
Come home and say, "Twasn't near good as mother's."
I know for sure I'll go back to my cooking
With far greater zeal than I have been doing,
And while making a pie or a pudding of suet,
I'll thank the good Lord that I'm able to do it.

Of times when plying my needle and thread
I long to be reading a good book instead;
For sewing is dull and gowns hard to fit,
And I may as well own I don't like it a bit.
But I get my reward, I am free to confess
When I purchase my girlie a ready-made dress,
I'm surely as proud as a mother can be
When she says: "I like better what you make for me."
Then, instead of wishing for idle hours,
I feel I'd like to make dresses in showers.

At times, when I find my knitting frks
With back and hands full of kinks and quirks,
Knitting things of all manner of form
That my family need to keep them warm,
I wish with all my might and main,
I need never see needles nor yarn again.
But when my hubby goes off to the woods
And says, on returning, "These sure are the goods,"
Then I know for a fact I'll return to my duty,
And find in the commonplace, pleasure and beauty.

So, after all it's the little things
That pile up joy till the heart fair sings,
And when I know I can please those I love
By just being here or by knitting a glove
Or sewing a dress or making a pie
Then money I find doesn't stack very high.
And now, so long as life shall last,
This peaceful lesson I must hold fast—
There'll be no room for sighs or regret
If I my blessings ne'er forget.

PENNIAC MAN KILLS BEAR IN HIS FOX RANCH

Mr. Bruin made a mistake when he walked right into the fox ranch owned by Walter Wade of Penniac this week. For a while brother Paul watched bruin's attempt to escape through the wire fence surrounding the ranch, the owner secured his rifle and made short work of Mr. Bruin. The bear was about two years old and weighed 200 pounds. It is unusual for a bear to make entry into a fox ranch but Mr. Wade believes that with berries in the woods not plentiful, the bear believed a meal in store for him in the fox ranch. The fox ranch is situated near the station at Penniac and Mr. Bruin certainly must have been pretty hungry to show himself so near to civilization. He will likely be used for fox feed and possibly a few bear steaks for humans.

HIS NOSE BROKEN
Ross Hazelwood, 13-year-old son of V. Hazelwood, of Marysville had his nose broken while tending the trap at the skeet shoot held at Marysville on Labor Day. Getting too close to the trap it was sprung and struck young Hazelwood, cutting his face and breaking his nose. First aid was given immediately and he was then brought to Fredericton for medical attention. Today he was reported improving at his home.

RETURNED HOME
Gordon McKnight, Hector MacKinnon, Frank Morrison and Reid Van Dine, members of Fredericton's younger social set, returned home this week after having spent a delightful vacation at Brown's Flats. The party have been camping there and have made the acquaintance of other young people from St. John and elsewhere.
