Potato Men Hear of Orderly Marketing

Under the new provisions, all potatoes must be sold through licensed brokers or wholesalers, and the selling to chain stores will be strictly barred as it is contended in many centers the practice of chain stores had been to sell potatoes below cost as a means of stimulating trade. Every dealer in inter-provincial trade will be required to procure a license at a cost of one dollar. A new schedule of potatoes on consignment is strictly forbidden and no spuds will be marketed except under a firm contract of sale in writing or by telegraph completed prior to shipment.

Improvement is shown today in the condition of Hartley Teakles, Springhill young man, who suffered the loss of a hand while sawing wood over a week ago.

AMERICANA

"Adventures and Accidents" by Lord Baden-Powell (Methuen). Lord Powell tells in his new book the stories of many adventures he has encountered in various parts of the world. He tells of going out alone in the Andes.

"I started out alone before dawn one morning, in the Andes of South America to climb a mountain-side. The chill gloom of the early morning was deepened by the depth of the canyon in which I started, and the heights loomed round one against the sky, but in the darkened it was difficult to judge of their heights or distance.

"As I climbed the ascent before me, the light gradually opened out and cliffs and rock masses stood up more clearly defined. . . . The stupendous heights and the ghastly silence, and the loneliness and immensity of it all seemed to appal me. I was scarcely myself. There came upon me almost a desire to scream aloud to break the spell.

"Looking back over my shoulder I saw that which made me gasp.

"One of the great peaks which a moment before had been almost grey-blue, now suddenly gleamed at its topmost points a dazzling orange-pink mass, with its lower parts in opalescent shadows of violet and blue and tinted green, the whole mass standing out with startling distinctness of outline and detail against the darkened sky behind it. And as one looked around peak after peak took up the rosy radiance of the dawn.

"I stumbled on, awed almost to horror by it all, when, at the moment just when I needed some touch with the human world, over the next rise there stood up before me a figure—the figure of 'Christ the Redeemer'.

"It was not the usual pathetic body hanging on the Cross, but a big generous Being with wide flowing robes, and with welcoming protective arms outspread.

"A fine statue, nappily placed for its purpose of marking the boundary, and a sign of perpetual peace between the State of Argentina and Chile, but even more happily placed than its sculptor had designed in giving at that spot a tangible link between the human and the divine—the link which Christ in His time had come on earth to give". There is something in every page and the book might be called a true thriller.

"WILD BILL" GIVES SLIP TO OLD JINX

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 30—Wild Bill Cummings, national automobile racing champion, has not only shaken off the jinx which has consistently followed him, but the name which belies him.

The amiable young ex-bundle boy who won the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last year, has apparently overcome the smaller misfortunes which always snatched victory away from him in the final moments of near success, and drove such a careful, studied race last May as to stamp him as anything but wild.

Cummings will again compete over his native brick course on Decoration Day.

Old Times Recalled

MONEY GRABBERS

An article in last Wednesday's Daily Mail regarding fake advertising stunts reminds one of all the funny sales stunts which were pulled off in this city thirty or forty years ago.

The Wizard Oil Concert Company breezed into the city in the late eighties. The promoters put on a really good popular concert each night at a nominal admission. Their chief business was to introduce and to sell their Wizard Oil at a dollar a bottle. So good a sales talk did their leader Dr. Ellis put up that people used to fight and tumble over one another in a concert hall, to buy the oil. This company toured the Dominion and when they left Fredericton a couple of local musicians went away with the concert troop.

There was another "medicine man" An Indian Doctor who held forth at nights in Phoenix Square. He sold "Kickapoo" Liniment which was guaranteed to cure all kinds of ills including bald head. One citizen named Allie Willie Currie who had a head like a billiard ball purchased two dozen of the remedy but the wool refused to start.

Dr. Kelley "The Irish Doctor" sold "Shamrock Oil," which he used to put up in bottles at his room in Long's Hotel. It was supposed to cure everything including the political situation in Ireland. It is a strange co-incidence that the place where "Doctor" Kelley bottled his medicine is now occupied by a real live medicine concern.

Another chap sold electric belts which were supposed to cure rheumatism after they had been soaked in vinegar. People would crowd around his carriage in the square and fight for the electric belt.

Another fellow sold Chinese "bulbs" which were supposed to bloom into a really wonderful plant in three weeks. He only stayed in Fredericton one week. Needless to say the bulb after it had been in the water for three weeks began to rot instead of bloom. But the salesman had disappeared and with him the money handed to him by the dupes. The electric belt was found to be made of straw. Another wonderful invention which was supposed to prevent lamps from exploding sold at one dollar. It was found to be a piece of stone wrapped in red flannel, worth absolutely nothing.

People stood for these strange coming after their money in the old days. They are still doing so. Perhaps they will always continue to do so.
