

ENGLAND'S ARISTOCRACY DRINKING TOO DEEPLY OF PLEASURES

Tragedy, Heartbreak and Poverty Follow Wild
Desire of Those Using Their Positions to Indulge in Vicious Living

LONDON, England, Feb. 24—Grim spectres of tragedy, heartbreak and poverty are following a wild desire by a number of England's blue-blooded aristocracy to drink too deeply of the pleasures of life.

Indulge in Vicious Living

Born into the world with concessions and titles not given to the ordinary middle-class person, they are using their positions to indulge in vicious living.

It is time that someone told the truth about those "ancient lineages". Years ago a long ancestry was supposed to be a thing to respect and cherish, but, regrettably, so many of those lineages are now just looked upon as long records of degeneracy. Generations of rich living and in-breeding have left their marks on many young and beautiful modern society girls.

The most pathetic plaything of destiny is Miss Brenda Dean Paul, daughter of Sir Aubrey and Lady Dean Paul. Seven years ago her beauty was written about ecstatically in the American press. She was always in the news, declaring he preferred her sheltered life in the South sea isles to the company of society playthings. Then she was taken ill. She went to Paris for a cure. The illness left her with an insatiable craving for morphia!

With an uncanny flair for the dramatic she obtained smuggled dope and consorted with some of the smartest dope takers. Finally she gave herself up to a doctor and placed herself in his hands. But after a few weeks she increased by forgery his prescription for morphia. She was charged with unlawfully possession of morphia and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Beauty Had Gone

She was released last year, and there were plenty of well-wishers who wanted to encourage her desire to live well and reform. For months she had been almost dying. Her brother Napier heir to the baronetcy, was her constant friend.

Brenda weighed less than 70 pounds! her former flame like beauty, had gone. Her face was haggard and drawn. At times she did not wish to live.

"If only we can give Brenda something to live for . . ." Napier said, and thereupon was evolved a wonderful plan which hitherto has not been told.

A friend of Napier and Brenda, young Derek Burr, who worked on the stock exchange, courted and made love to Brenda Dean Paul. He won her affection and they became engaged. The revelation to Brenda that some one still admired her character and what was left of her beauty worked a miracle. She slowly recovered under the attention of Derek and Napier.

One day she heard Derek and Napier holding a private conversation. It was revealed to her the courtship had been made out of sympathy. Heartbroken, she dashed to Paris, to her old haunts. Unhesitatingly Derek Burr followed her and consoled her, although Brenda broke off the engagement.

Takes Refuge In Cottage

Penniless, disinherited by her father, Brenda sought refuge in a tiny cottage in Surrey. Napier looked after her. They painted the cottage, bought a dog . . . and hoped that God would provide for them. Today they are living on Brenda's spasmodic literary earnings and credit from sympathetic trades-people.

Brenda is terribly thin, her good looks are returning. Four years ago she went to a Mayfair party. It was an all night affair. Brenda was alive and animated when every one else was sprawled on the floor.

"Hail the dawn . . .", shrieked a willow-waisted youth as he flung open the curtains.

Brenda was poised in the middle of the floor, holding a glass of champagne at arm's length.

"Shut out the daylight. I hate the daylight. I can't stand it", she said. In that moment her hysteria foreshadowed the fate that time.

Frightened of the sun! Enemies of the daylight . . . these poor midnight children!

Today her courage is admirable. "For me the future is rich in dreams", she said. "Perhaps, too, it will be full of romance again, but I'm not saying anything about that".

Married American

The story of Dolores Elvira Barney has all the dramatic qualities of a play by Somerset Maugham. She is the daughter of Sir John and Lady Mullins and sister of Princess George Imertinsky. She met John Sterling Barney, an American singer, at her father's home and married him. After a few weeks the marriage broke up. John returned to America.

Dolores Barney took an attractive apartment in William Mews. It was always full of irresponsible society playthings. During the 1932 season, Dolores Barney became famous for her original even daring parties. Debutantes and undergraduates, bored with the formal affairs, used to flock around the vivacious Dolores for new thrills.

Then in July, 1932, Michael William Scott Stephen, handsome dress designer, and consort-of-the-moment of the gay Dolores, was found shot in her apartment. Dolores had called the doctor and wept over his dead body. The doctor summoned the police. Dolores was arrested and charged with murder.

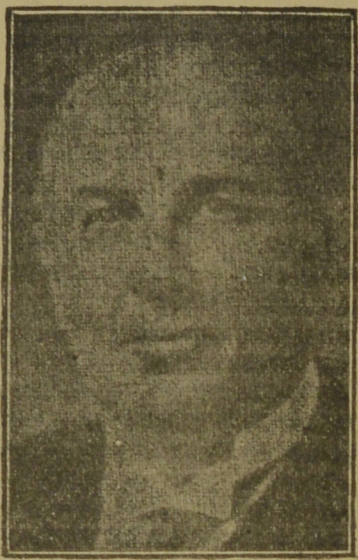

Acquitted Of Murder

She was acquitted and recuperated at the south of France for a time. Soon she was back to her old life, going the pace riotously. She wrecked her car after a wild, hysterical drive. Back in London, she found herself a figure of admiration in a social set which "collects" notoriety. Then it suddenly dropped her. Today, almost penniless, she drinks beer in a notorious tavern in Mayfair. For years she has worn an old leopard skin coat, a hand-me-down from her princess sister, and its faded exotic air is an ironic symbol of Mrs. Barney's social downfall.

HON. MR. HANSON SPOKE AT PYTHIAN HALL ON SUNDAY

The Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce
in Fine Address Before
Wilmot Brotherhood.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, K.C., of this city, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, delivered a splendid address on Sunday afternoon in the Pythian Hall, at which about one hundred and twenty five were present. The address by the federal minister was the feature of the regular Sabbath meeting of the Wilmot United Church Brotherhood. Col. Randolph Crocker, president of the Brotherhood, introduced the speaker, "Capitalism—its Uses and Abuses" was the title of Hon. Mr. Hanson's address.

Hon. Mr. Hanson's address was general in outline and dealt with the economics situation in Canada today. The address was along the lines of a previous one given by Mr. Hanson before the same body of men last fall in which he pointed out the weaknesses of the C.C.F. movement in Canada. Yesterday the federal minister of trade and commerce touched on the subject again and during the course of his talk he warned the people of radical ideas. The capitalistic system, he said, was the best system, even though it can be improved upon. He did not believe that Socialism or Communism were suited to the people of Canada. It was our duty, he thought to improve upon the present system.

He spoke of the problem of trade relations and commerce from the standpoint of the Empire. He believed fully in the development of trade to benefit the Dominion of Canada. He argued for better trade relations between this country and the United States.

Hon. Mr. Hanson's address was non-political and non-partisan. It was his desire he said, to promote trade and commerce in this country. The speaker touched upon the gold standard, international trade, tariffs, and the problems of the empire in fluent and forceful language.

At the conclusion of his address a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Ray Forbes and seconded by F. Leslie Wood and carried unanimously.

Both Mr. Hanson and Mrs. Hanson have been visiting in the city for the past several days, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Foster. They are returning to Ottawa today, where Mr. Hanson will resume his parliamentary duties.

Mr. Hanson's address dealt with our capitalistic system which is blamed for many of the evils of our society. The basic principles of capitalism as laid down by Adam Smith and John Stuart Mill are: (1) the profit system.

The uncrowned whoopee king of England's aristocracy is undoubtedly Lord Edward Montagu, a son of the penniless Duke of Manchester. He always dashes into the news in some sensational manner. A few weeks ago he was convicted of dangerous driving, fined and disqualified from driving a car for two years following an accident in which a 68-year-old lady was killed. His adventures in America are a legend.

He was a member of the yacht party where Capt. Walter Wanderwell world adventurer was shot. The murder was unsolved. It became known as the "shot in the fog case". Lord Montagu was among those detailed as material witnesses.

(2) open competition in industry, (3) international commerce; (4) the gold standard, and (5), a vital flexibility in the first four principles. When any one of these principles fails the system falls into disrepute. The last score years has seen the failure of open competition where large combines and trusts have gained control over industry, of international commerce in the imposing of high tariffs, and lastly, of the gold standard. With this system so obviously at fault, is the remedy for economic ills to be found in Socialism, Communism, Hitlerism? Mr. Hanson said the remedy was to be found not in a new system but in a correction of our present one. Two items in this direction are the checking of financial racketeering and the amendment of laws governing the formation of companies. Mr. Hanson concluded with a brief survey of the social conditions and the benefit to the working man which reformation will bring.

The "girlie" shows are still tops with the boys! CBS studio officials report that 85 percent of the requests for tickets to see the new Lint all-girl program, "The Hour of Charm," broadcast each Thursday at 9 p.m. AST, over the CBS networks, are from men. The show features 32 attractive gal musicians and singers, and even boasts a mistress of ceremonies in the lovely Rosaline Greene.

Jane Froman doesn't affect domesticity. She has known how to cook, sew and keep house ever since she was a little girl in Columbia, Missouri. The singer made her first frock at the age of 13. She still plans and sews many of her clothes, despite the fact that she is one of radio's highly paid performers.

"I was introduced to a big opera star the other night," said Frank Luther, the singing actor, at one of his radio rehearsals. "Jaritz?" spoke up Frank Black. "Not on my life!" replied Frank, not batting an eye. "I acted very friendly."

THE PARASITE

Many men, women and children sufferers are being treated for other diseases without results, when their real trouble is the tape-worm. Sure signs of it is the passage of small particles of the parasite. Suggestive signs: loss of appetite with occasional greediness, coated tongue, heartburn, pain in stomach and intestines, pain in back and limbs, dizziness, headaches, exhaustion, feeling faint with stomach empty, emaciated, dark rings under the eyes. The process of digestion are usually interfered with. The patient becomes irritable and restless at night. There is much dizziness, raising of constant obstruction in throat, gnawing sensation in stomach with voracious appetite—and at times loathing of sight of food. The breath becomes offensive, the face flushed—at other times very pale; heaving as if something were moving in the bowels; heartburn with palpitation; obscure pains in the limbs; delusions of the senses; defection of the speech; sudden colic, inomia; Melancholia, hysteria and some authors claim epileptic fits and even insanity.

These monster parasites, the size of which, it is claimed, sometimes reach as high as 45-50 feet, must be eliminated from the system—at all costs. Only with the greatest possible precaution and skill can they be removed from the system, however. But to allow a tapeworm to live untampered in the human body is almost akin to taking small doses of poison, increasing same daily—until the patient actually commits suicide—figuratively speaking. The formula of Tanex is used for the elimination of this terrible monster—And most successfully in obstinate cases Tanex is prepared to such manner that it cannot harm any of the sensitive internal parts of the human system, and may be safely given in proportional parts to children. Tanex is not harmful in the sense that it may poison the individual harboring a tapeworm—nor is its effects harmful on those who take it where there is no worm. Tanex does not kill the monster tapeworm, as killing it necessarily means the taking of poisons in sufficient quantities to poison the patient. Tanex renders the worm insensible only, so that it loses its power to grasp on and hold to the intestines. The purgative ingredients in Tanex then quickly eliminate it. Great care must be exercised, however, to permit its passage in accordance with the directions (sent from Tanex), otherwise the head may re-enter the alimentary canal—which means that another dosage will be necessary.

Tanex may be taken any morning and as it leaves no effects at all, will not necessitate the staying away from work. One hour is required for it to attain full effect.

Tanex is not sold in drug stores—to insure absolute freshness to the patient. Nor is it sent C.O.D. The treatment costs 5.00, with full instructions. If you want to be rid of this monster parasite—send for Tanex today. Sold only by the Royal Laboratory, 768 Royal Bldg., Box 104, Windsor, Ont. (Clip this ad out now and put it away, it may come in very handy some day. Show it to some ailing friend—he may become forever grateful to you for doing so).
