MANNERS AT THE WHEEL

Education always has taken into account that the child as he grows up must assume the responsibility of walking about among his fellows on his own feet.

Now the theory is advanced on good authority that it is even more important to train a child with the thought in mind that a goodly part of his time he will be rolling around among his fellow human beings in a swift and powerful car.

Psychology takes account that a person's actions are affected by his estimate of his own powers. Naturally the child who feels that he is stronger and more capable than his fellows, would become a bully. Education is directed to control this tendency and make him a gentleman. The new education must take into account that at an early age the youngster probably will at times find his capacity mechanically augmented to control 40 or 50 horsepower and 60 to 90 miles an hour speed.

For the first time a scientific study of these human tendencies has been made by an expert under auspices of a great university. Robbins B. Stoeckel, Yale research associate in highway transportation, is urging that character education of school children emphasizes the moral responsibility in driving an automobile.

"About 15 per cent of all motor operators," said Dr. Stoeckel recently, "are imperfect and must be made over. Their personalities must be changed. There never will be any great improvement in the motor vehicle accident situation unless specialized character education with highway safety in mind, is undertaken as part of the education program in the schools."

Unquestionably general obedience to rules of motoring courtesy would do much to increase motoring safety.

CONSCIENTIOUS DEFIANCE

Melbourne Argus: Is a man necessarily a bad citizen because he is a defiant citizen? Three men were fined at the Brunswick Court recently for not having voted at the last Federal election. The penalty in two cases was 10s. and in the third case £1. The defendant who was fined the double amount addressed to the Court a letter that the police magistrate described as "remarkable." It certainly was. He objected that it was contrary to British justice to force a voter either to vote for a candidate in whom he had no confidence or to make his ballot-paper informal. Presumably the Bench had its reasons for punishing more severely a determined defiance of the law; but many people will disagree with the decision. Ordinarily the man who flouts the law invites sterner treatment than the man who falls foul of it through negligence, but the circumstances in this case were not ordinary. Compulsory voting is aimed at shirkers of a public duty. A man who takes the trouble to explain his conscientious objections to the Bench is not in that class.

EUROPE IN THE THROES AGAIN

In spite of all the pacifist propaganda, the world is rearming. The signs are exactly similar. The whole thing may come to a head about the time we have all settled down to the comfortable belief that no more wars can happen. All the old mistakes will be made all over again and all the old suffering and misery and hate will be endured again, by the new generation. There will be this exception. It will be mighty hard to make those who went through the last one hate our new enemies. If the worst happens we'll probably do all that is possible to win, but the futility of hate was a lesson learned by all soldiers and learned well.

SNAPSHOTS

Let us boost the Provincial celebration to be held here May 6th.

Winter still has a strangle hold on Spring.

What's the younger generation's equivalent for the old-time palm-reading preliminary to holding hands?

Getting rich is simple. You just make money faster than the family can waste it.

The race has moved forward. In no public school is there a small bag of asafetida.

There is tremendous enthusiasm for outdoor activity when spring days come, but a few hot days sap it.

A British chemist offers a type of glass which will stretch. It is bound to simplify the whole problem of getting the full-rigged ship in a bottle.

One who cannot control the course of events sometimes consoles himself with bitter sarcasm about them.

When primitive man left his cave after a family quarrel he knocked off a piece of rock at the entrance with his club instead of slamming a door.

A girl can always tell the moment a man is attracted to her, just by the way he looks at her. And she can always tell the moment his interest has gone dead, by the way he looks through her — at other women.

There seems to be a lot of people getting out recipes this year.

Premier Tilley expressed the right idea last night when he said that the provincial celebration should be at Fredericton the capital.

BOY SHOT DEAD AT HAMPSTEAD, PARENTS AWAY

HAMPSTEAD Queens Co., April 6—His leg shattered in the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of his brother, Murdock Grant, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grant, Wickham, died at his home last night at 10.30 o'clock. Murdock and his brother George, about the same age, were in the yard of their home presumably watching for crows to shoot, when the shotgun was discharged. The charge smashed into Murdock's leg, above the knee, tearing a hole the size of a 50-cent piece and severing an artery.

The hosekeeper, the only one at home at the time, could not stop the flow of blood and it was about 15 minutes after the shooting before one of the farmhands arrived from the woods. He applied a tourniquet but the boy had lost so much blood that he failed to rally. Two doctors were summoned but their efforts to save his life were of no avail.

The victim's father, Maritime representative for a Toronto concern, has been in Trinidad since February, on business for his firm, and only last Sunday his wife sailed from Halifax for Trinidad to join him. Attempts to get in touch with them are now being made. It was not likely that an inquest would be held, it was said.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight.

Quebec Delegate At Jubilee Asked

QUEBEC, P. Q., April 6—S. E. Gault, independent member for St. George has introduced a motion in the House wherein he stated that "the House is of opinion that the Province of Quebec should be represented at the celebration to be held in London on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the accession to the Throne of His Majesty King George V., and invites Premier Taschereau to attend himself or delegate one of his colleagues".

Taking Up Arms Again Enormous Crime—Pope

most submerged by the waves, turned in supplication to Christ, so let us also, in order that at last there may be great peace, repeat their prayer, "Lord save us, for we perish."

Universal Fear

But since war is an object of universal rumor and causes anxiety and fear to all We consider it advisable to refer to it as the Apostolic Office that is entrusted to Us seems to require Us to do. That the people of the world are again to take up arms one against the other, that the blood of brothers is again to be shed, that destruction and ruin are again to be sown on the earth and in the sea and the air, all this would be a crime so enormous, a manifestation of savagery so insane that We consider it quite impossible according to the juridical dictum, "Things that are against right, one must not even believe that they can be done."

Unthinkable

We cannot, in fact, believe that those who must have the prosperity and well-being of their peoples at heart can wish to plunge them into slaughter, ruin and extermination, not only for their own nations but for a great part of humanity as well.

But if some one dared to commit this nefarious crime—which may God avert and which We Ourselves believe impossible—then We could not but again address to God with embittered heart the prayer: "Disperse the peoples who seek war."

This We have said about the moral responsibility for a new war, but to Us and many others besides it appears manifest that in the present very grave circumstances war is also a physical and material impossibility.

His Holiness concluded by announcing a three days' prayer would be held uninterruptedly April 27 to 29 for peace.

CAME HOME EARLY!

Yesterday the Daily Mail had occasion to print that the first robin made its appearance here this week. Today the 'phone buzzed and a voice informed the city desk that actually Mr. and Mrs. Redbreast, luggage and all, had returned from the Southland over a week ago. The gentleman at the other end of the 'phone knew of four robins which had returned and taken up residence in the tree next to his home. Well, now that the robin is here, all we need now is the spring.
