

Ask Commemoration Of City As N. B. Capital

York & Sunbury Historical Society and City to Co-operate To Celebrate 150th Anniversary of City As Capital of New Brunswick, on February 22nd — Last Night's Session.

The city council concluded its business for February at its regular meeting in the council chamber of the city hall last night, dealing with a number of matters. His Worship Mayor W. G. Clark presided.

Those present were Aldermen David McCaughey, Warren Maxwell, Ivan McKnight, Dr. H. S. Wright, C. Hedley Forbes, Moses Mitchell, T. Earle Doohan, G. Willard Kitchen, Mayor W. G. Clark presided. The minutes of the last month were read by F. I. Haviland, city clerk after which the Mayor read the auditor's report.

A delegation composed of Rev. Dr. F. A. Wightman, W. W. Hubbard and Mrs. J. Brown Maxwell representing the York-Sunbury Historical Society, appeared before the council and asked that the council co-operate and assist in the matter of celebrating the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the city of Fredericton as the capital of New Brunswick, which was on February 22, 1785. All three spoke at length on the plan. Dr. Wightman suggested that a huge birthday cake be made of snow or ice, and commemorative candles and placed on the river, and that a suitable public ceremony be held. He believed that it would be spectacular and "quite fitting and that the citizens would attend in a large number. He suggested also that Boy Scouts and school children participate. He believed that some recognition should be made of this event. Rev. Dr. Wightman stressed that it also would be good advertising value to the city, attracting as it would get the attention of outsiders, who would be induced to travel here.

On motion it was resolved that the council join with the historical society and that a committee be appointed to make arrangements with the society's committee. Aldermen Mitchell, Forbes, and Doohan were selected as the council's committee.

J. Arthur Thompson was re-appointed assistant assessor and E. Royden Colter, assistant city clerk, was appointed assistant assessor to succeed H. H. Blair, who resigned, the salary of each to be $150 a year.

On motion the city engineer was allowed $50 a month for the use of his car dating from January 1.

W. B. Burdett, and A. B. Belyea were re-appointed city revisors at the same salaries, $85 a year each.

On motion, it was decided that interest on a proposed bond issue be at a rate not exceeding 4 1/2 per cent, and that the term be for 10 or 20 years.

Tax collections were reported as follows:

January, 1935, $5,381.49, and January 1934, $7,177.48.

The monthly report of the fire chief was presented.

The council adjourned to committee to hear a communication received by the Mayor.

Operations were resumed late in June, and while blast furnaces are only working at 40 per cent of capacity, improvement has been well maintained. The total output of pig iron in 1934 amounted to 400,000 long tons as compared with 229,000 tons in 1933. Steel plants have been busier and produced 750,000 tons last year, as against 408,000 tons in the previous twelve months. The plant at Sydney, N.S., operated at an average of 60 per cent of its rated capacity in 1934, against only 32 per cent in 1933. In December operations were on the basis of 80 per cent of capacity. The output of steel ingots was increased from 124,000 to 260,000 tons, and other departments, with the exception of rails, reported corresponding gains. Rail production stood at 41,300 tons as compared with 36,000 tons in 1933. Orders from England for steel products and from South Africa for rails contributed very materially to the better showing made.

Among the steel product industries, automobile manufacturing made outstanding gains. The number of units produced in 1934 was 80 per cent in excess of the total for 1933 and was the highest recorded for any year since 1930. Work on new models is now under way and manufacturers are reported to be planning greatly increased programmes for the coming year. Manufacturers of agricultural implements and other iron and steel products reported improved conditions during the past year.

Industries closely related to the automotive, such as petroleum refining and rubber tire manufacturing, substantially expanded their operations, as indicated by the increased supplies of raw materials imported. Crude petroleum imports increased from 912,230,400 gallons during the twelve months ended November 30, 1933, to 1,092,517,750 gallons during the following twelve months. Raw rubber imports during the same periods amounted to 41,618,250 and 61,292,925 pounds respectively.

The demand for foodstuffs has been steady as the call for necessities is the least affected in periods of depression. With the rise in purchasing power resulting from increased employment during the year, domestic sales have shown some increase in volume and manufacturers have benefited. The demand for Canadian flour from overseas has declined seriously during the past few years, exports in 1934 amounting to 5,053,732 barrels, as compared with 5,570,424 barrels in 1933. As Canadian mills in earlier years exported more than twice these amounts, operations have had to be substantially curtailed. Domestic demand, however, has been satisfactory. Tobacco factories have been busy, the index production increased from a low of 79 in October, 1932 to 142 in September, 1934.

Textile plants, particularly silk and rayon mills, have generally been busy. Cotton manufacturers reported operations practically at capacity early in the year but declining demand and increasing stocks resulted in some curtailment of output. From a low of 47.7 recorded in April, 1933, the index of production rose to a high of 156 in May 1934. With the reduction in operations, output fell off, the index declining to 85 in October. Some improvement was reported in November as work on spring orders got under way. On the whole, operations during the year have been on a higher basis than in 1932, the base year used in the construction of the index.

The production of leather footwear in Canada in 1933 was the largest in any year since 1929, with a total output of 19,221,310 pairs. Boot and shoe factories were well employed during 1934, although the total number of shoes manufactured was somewhat less than in the previous year.

Lumber manufacturing has experienced a striking revival during the past eighteen months, largely as a result of an unprecedented demand Canadian lumber from Great Britain. Total exports during the past twelve months reached 1,370 million feet as compared with 956 million feet during the previous year, an increase of 43 per cent. Woods operations in Eastern Canada have been larger than for years. British Columbia mills report an increase of 30 per cent in the output of logs. Shipments during recent months showed some recession but it could hardly be expected that the movement could continue establishing new records. Labour difficulties on the Pacific Coast, large consignment shipments of softwoods from Eastern Canada and heavy arrivals of timber from Sweden and Finland in Great Britain were contributing factors in bringing about this decline. The domestic markets for lumber continue disappointing as the volume of construction in Canada has not shown any great expansion, but a general increase in the consumption of lumber has been evident. Stocks in Canadian yards have practically disappeared, and with this pressure removed, confidence within the industry has been restored. Stumpage rates were reduced in some provinces to encourage woods operations this winter and it is anticipated that the cut will be further increased over last season.

Shingle manufacturers have not enjoyed such satisfactory conditions. The output has been substantially reduced as export business has fallen off. The principal market for this product is in the United States, where government restrictions have limited the Canadian quota to 25 per cent of the total consumption. As domestic requirements are still extremely light, shingle mills have had to curtail their operations accordingly. Shingles have recently been brought under the provisions of the Dominion Natural Products Marketing Act in an endeavour to secure more settled conditions in the industry.

The demand for newsprint from the United States has been strong and production is the largest for any year except 1929. The total for the year 1934 amounted to 2,599,292 tons against 2,016,742 tons in 1933, an increase of 582,550 tons or 29 per cent. The mills were particularly active during the last three months of the year when it is reported stocks were being accumulated against a suggested increase in price. Supplies, however, are not burdensome, Canadian mills reporting 30,366 tons at the end of December and United States mills 12,428 tons, a combined total of 42,794 tons against 58,261 tons on December 31, 1933.

Teaneck, N. J., Feb. 5—Baffled scientists still sought without success today to classify the mysterious germ which killed 10 newborn babies at Holy Name Hospital within two weeks.

Dr. L. A. Markley, pathologist of the hospital staff, said experts are attempting to determine whether the disease is carried by a filtrable or non-filtrable virus. Until this is learned, he said, attempts to isolate the germ will be futile.

The disease has attacked 20 infants in the hospital's maternity division which was closed after eight died within five days. Four babies are still seriously ill.

Tulle Conspicuous In Lelong Collection

PARIS, France:—Lucien Lelong, the couturier, closed an impressive collection of styles shown by him when he presented a bride's costume in crepe of palest cloud blue, with a wide and long train enveloped to masses of palest blue tulle.

Elsewhere in the collection, there is much tulle of rich coloring, such as a tortoise-shell brown used with a sequined fabric.

In many instances, shirring is used to hold skirt tops in place and to attach sweeping trains to the corsets.

Evening skirts end in a long, slender point, matching delicately-pointed capes in plain petunia crepe. A concession to the shortened evening skirt front is shown in a petticoat skirt, with the front of the outer skirt garment slashed open down to the hemline.

The bodices exhibited are a development of Lelong's "harness type" of décolletage. A startling effect of evening gowns without shoulder straps is accomplished by careful fitting, plus a band of velvet tied around the dress-top above the bust. The band is in attractively colored velvet, such as Du Barry rose holding a much-shirred bodice of violet tulle.

Boleros and basques are in evidence too, and are much varied. There is no change in the Lelong day skirts, which vary from mid-calf to ankle. The cocktail dress is still made to wear with a coat.

Among the striking new materials is a crepe in a huge pattern of Calla lilies, which this season are having a vogue also as flowers to wear as a corsage. There are sequin fabrics made with brilliant flowers on a background of black.

The afternoon models include navy taffeta suits with white organdy blouses much ruffled at the neck and having sleeves shortened to the elbows and nearly all full-pleated.

Pea soup is a general favorite with the children and a nourishing and healthful food as well.

Pea Soup: Soak a cup (two cups if you prefer a thick soup) of peas overnight with a ham bone. Boil two hours with salt and pepper, a stalk of celery and a small onion. Rub through a colander and return to the fire. Add a tiny bit more water, or better still, whole milk if the soup is too thick. Serve with hot corn bread.

FOAMY SAUCE: Half a cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter, add gradually sugar, egg, and vanilla, beat while heating over hot water. Two tablespoons wine may be used in place of vanilla.

Most self-composed of the conductors is Howard Barlow, who is consistency calm, mild-mannered, even-tempered. His directions are given gently and quietly. His corrections are pointed out with amiable patience. No music stand or score appears before his podium because he knows by heart everything played. When his men finally master a difficult passage after several attempts Barlow cries "That's it", and encourages the orchestra with a reassuring "Thank you".

Imports of crude petroleum in December amounted to 47,613,000 gallons of which 39,582,000 came from the United States, 4,184,000 from Peru, and 3,847,000 from Venezuela. The importation was about 17,000,000 gallons less than a year ago.
