A Plea Made To the Young People

er asked him to accompany him on a walk. And on the way the faithful elder said to him, "Laddie, I say it to you kindly but I feel you ought to know that you have missed your calling".

The lad's face flushed and raising himself full height with earnest determination on his browny face, he replied, "Some day I'll be preaching in your capital". And he did. For he became Rev. Dr. A. J. Moyatt, who ministered to Saint Andrew's congregation for nearly eleven years before going to the city of Montreal. With steadfast determination and indefatigable industry he hoisted his mainsail to the wind.

On the list of the King's New Year's honors to Canadians recently was included the name of C. W. Lindsay of Montreal. Coming from Scotland a lad of seven years to make his way with very meagre means he set out to succeed. In the course of time he lost his eyesight. But, with this serious impediment he hoisted his mainsail to the wind, became one of Montreal's merchant-princes and an outstanding philanthropist. Long may he live to wear his Knighthood so worthily bestowed.

And so on and so on. And these are days when all of us old and young should be hoisting our mainsails to every breeze of opportunity and making the best and most of life; transforming all handicaps into aids to help us get on; buying up every opportunity with avidity and to be redeeming the time for our working day at most is brief.

Conditions in the Woods Improved

New Brunswick had become weakened in many places and there were several reports of horses falling through the ice at weakened points in the river. A Devon man, George Jarvis, had fallen into the water but was rescued by witnesses and he only suffered from the chilled waters where he might have met a watery grave.

A FAIR WINTER

The spiteful raw weather of Saturday and Sunday reversed this morning and instead of a cold wind there was a light snowfall. The moderation in the weather is in line with the generally warmer temperatures which have prevailed this winter as compared with last winter. The mercury this morning stood at ten degrees above zero.

CARS IN DIFFICULTY

On Friday night last farmers in Central Kingsclear were called out with their teams to pull a car out of drifts of snow which were beginning to freeze and which the cars could not pull through. After staying with the car from about 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. and breaking wiffletrees and harness, the driver of the car jumped in his car and drove off without even a thank you. This is a glowing example of Mr. Tight Waddo.

TOMORROW IS DAY TO WIN THE SILVER SERVICE

The Daily Mail's Circulation Campaign Will Continue

Four Candidates Close

Store, Street and Subscription List Are All Increased

Tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon, at four o'clock the last subscription will be received by the Daily Mail in connection with our circulation development contest. Any contestant who has outstanding subscriptions promised him or her or who has not collected in the cash with the subscription will please make an effort to collect all outstanding subscriptions and to cash in on all promises before Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. Any paid-in-advance subscriptions count.

Some one will receive this handsome 32-piece set of Rogers 1847 silverware, Sylvia design, contained in a stainless walnut chest. This is one of the most handsome chests of silver of its kind ever given away in Fredericton. It has been on display in one of Colwell & Jennings windows for the last month and is now at our office ready to hand to the winner of the contest.

Four contestants, two ladies and two men, are running quite close together in this contest. A fifth, a lady, is somewhat in the lead today. Others are scattered. It may be anybody's fight up to tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock.

In addition to the chest of silverware the contestants have all received a liberal commission on their subscriptions brought or sent in.

The Daily Mail is perfectly well satisfied with the subscriptions secured so far. We have had between a 400 and 500 per cent increase in our circulation since September last, and this circulation has been placed amongst the best classes in the community so far as being a benefit both to ourselves and to our advertisers is concerned. As these subscriptions are all paid in advance and as we are watching our delivery service, these papers go into the homes every night. We are not depending on the newsboys, nor the newstands, both of which have also increased their sales wonderfully.

The circulation development campaign does not end with the presentation of the silverware.

75 Per Cent of Saar Vote Will Be German

The third picture a Saarlander flinging himself into the arms of a white-haired woman, crying: "Mother Germany!"

The international police composed of troops of four nations, stood by throughout the voting to deal with any untoward occurrences. Order was reported throughout the territory, however, and the regular Saar police were able to attend unaided to traffic and municipal service.

Not a single ballot was nullified because of disorderly conduct on the part of voters in any of the polling districts. On the contrary, observers were greatly surprised at the calm and good-humor which characterized the vote.

The election hinged on the Catholic and peasant votes, observers agreed. They were numerous enough to sway the balance. There was no saying, in the electrically-charged atmosphere, which way either of these elements had voted. Many qualified observers believed both would favor the status quo and a second plebiscite, when union with Germany could be made under better auspices.

Posters were put up by the different factions in all parts of Saarbruecken. No other form of electioneering was permitted, under strict orders from the governing commission under Geoffrey G. Knox. All meetings, whether political or merely social, were banned, a single exception being made for movies and theatrical shows.

SERVICES AT LOCAL CHURCHES ON THE SABBATH

Cold Weather But the Houses of Worship Had Good Attendances—Interesting Services.

The churches of the city held their regularly Sunday services yesterday with congregations being large despite the intense cold weather. At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Rev. Dr. G. E. Ross conducted both morning and evening services. The subject of the morning worship was "Arise, Let Us Go Hence", and in the evening a special service for young people was given the subject of the pastor's address being "Hoisting Up the Mainsail to the Wind". George L. Horner of the University of New Brunswick gave views of his travels in the far north during the Social Hour in the church hall at 8:15 following the regular service and it was most interesting.

Rev. George Telford, M. A., B. D., St. Paul's United Church exchanged pulpits with Rev. John Linton, pastor of George Street Baptist Church at the evening service on Sunday. In the morning at St. Paul's United church, Rev. Mr. Telford took as his theme of address "Bond-servants of God".

"I Shall Leap Over the Wall" was the subject delivered by Rev. J. W. Bartlett at the morning worship at Wilmot United Church. In the evening the subject was "80 Million Years Ago—And Now". This was an address especially delivered to the young people and a large number was present. In the afternoon at Pythian Hall the Spurdin brotherhood class of the Brunswick Street Baptist Church were the guests of the Wilmot Men's Brotherhood class and the afternoon enjoyably and profitably spent.

At Brunswick Street Baptist church the morning address was a character study, "Martha", given by the pastor Rev. G. W. Ghuon. The service was in the interest of the Berean Bible Class for women and was broadcast by this group for the special benefit of those older ladies unable to attend church. In the evening the pastor continued the series of sermons on the Nature Miracles of Jesus, number eleven: "The Feeding of the Multitudes—Its present significances".

The usual services were carried out at the Gibson Memorial United Church at Nashwaaksis, Kingsley and Devon. The hours of service were 11 a.m.; 2 p.m.; and p.m. Rev. W. A. Burge preached at all services and special music featured. At the Salvation Army three addresses—"God's Temple", "Free and Easy", and "Peter's Ups and Downs", were heard morning, afternoon and evening, respectively, with Adjutant C. A. Kimmins conducting assisted by Mrs. Kimmins.

"The Wisdom of Forthought", was the sermon theme of Rev. D. L. Kennedy at the morning service of the Devon Baptist church on Sunday. The evening service at 7 p.m. was entitled "Our Credit". Large congregations attended both services.
