CANADIAN HAY AND OATS USED marks.

Belgium has always been noted as a horse-breeding country, many of the knights in the days of chivalry being mounted on a steel bred in this part of Europe, their horses being of the heavier builds, distinguishing mark of Belgian horse-breeding, to carry the ponderous suits of armour in which these gentry with the iron pots for headgear are going, but they are on the way. were wont to perform doughty deeds of chivalry or perchance engage in a friendly encounter with a fellow human armadillo, the idea being to prick holes in each other with their lances. This horse-breeding industry gives rise to a large demand for oats and hay, a considerable quantity of which comes from Canada, The heavy Brahant cart horse is a feature of the Belgian horse-breeding industry of ful. which large numbers are exported.
