

CITY SWELTERS IN HIGHEST TEMPERATURE

Mercury Climbs to High Mark Today, Reaching Peak for Summer

Many Flock to Beaches

Forests of Province Are Endangered by Continued Heat

A 91-degree temperature was hung up in the weather annals for central New Brunswick today, with Fredericton, the capital city, being hit hardest by the heat. The various bathing spots in this section were peopled today with those attempting to evade the heat by a dip in the water. At nine o'clock this morning, Atlantic Standard Time, the mercury registered 85 degrees.

The current heat wave has lasted for almost a week and is the most protracted of the present summer. While there have been no cases of prostration from the heat in this community an elderly man on Queen Street yesterday was noticed sitting in front of a merchant's shop, mopping his brow, distressedly. He had evidently been temporarily overcome by the heat. Many of the citizens took advantage of the Thursday half holiday yesterday and made for the beaches or for long cool automobile rides.

The hazard of forest fires in the province has been intensified by the mounting temperatures. While no fresh outbreaks have been reported the forest service officials are keeping a keen watch for fires. Fire fighters are ready to attack embryo fires at once and provincial lookout towers are keeping in constant touch with the situation.

At the present time the soil is in a very dry condition. Recent rains have not been heavy enough to have given any real benefit. The dryness of the weather is exemplified by the dust nuisance on the highways which is greater at the present time than at any time during the current summer season. Only the high humidity, kept high by fogs and light rains in other parts of the province, has prevented a serious situation in the forests.

NO ACTION YET RE ABOLITION OF PIGSTY

County Board of Health Has Been Urged To Make Inspection

Public Protests

Picnic Party Forced To Abandon Locality Owing to Stench, Flies

The offensive-smelling pigsty and menace to the public health which is located a short distance from the Woodstock road opposite what used to be called "The Farm" above town is still going strong and is going a good deal stronger than the general public wish to have it. Several automobile parties who ventured near the place yesterday for the purpose of having a private picnic were obliged to pick up their dishes and get away from the flies and the smell.

Acting on the suggestion made two weeks ago by The Daily Mail the matter of this public nuisance was brought up by the Municipal Council a few days ago. It was then understood that the county board of health would take immediate action to eliminate the nuisance which exists in spite of repeated public protests. It was understood that Dr. Cameron, who is the medical inspector of health for the county, was to have taken immediate action respecting the alleged nuisance. So far, apparently, no action has been taken and the warm weather of the past few days has not decreased the menace. Dr. Cameron could not be reached this morning as he was not at the office of the Department of Public Health. Secretary-Treasurer, Major J. S. Scott, when questioned regarding it was unable to say whether anything had been done or not. Inspector A. C. Fleming of the Fredericton Board of Health, stated that as the piggery in question was located immediately outside the city limits, that it was outside of his jurisdiction even though the city people and others who frequent that section are sufferers from the odor and flies. Mr. Fleming, who is always active and obliging in such matters, stated that he would take Dr. Cameron up this afternoon.

Slaughtered There?

It is understood that in addition to 200 pigs and hogs being located in that vicinity that they are also continuously slaughtered on the spot.

An American tourist who with his wife and daughter visited this vicinity yesterday was surprised at the public health authorities of this section where we have our provincial health department as well as our county health officials, to be so slow as to allow such a nuisance to exist in a section that is not only travelled by tourists but also is a residential section and is in the neighborhood of one of the city's most flourishing clubs, where visitors and local people gather from day to day. "And yet," he said, "you people advertise for tourists!"

INVESTIGATE LINKAGE CANADIAN MEDICAL SOCIETIES

Following the meetings of the New Brunswick Medical Society here this week Dr. J. C. Meakins and Dr. T. C. Routley, president and secretary of the Canadian Medical Association left for Charlottetown, P. E. I., where they will attend the annual meeting of the Medical Society there.

These prominent physicians will return to Montreal and on to Vancouver and Victoria, for the British Columbia sessions.

Dr. Meakins and Dr. Routley declared that one of the most important phases of the Fredericton meeting was the adoption of the suggestion to link all provincial medical societies into one grand union to become the Canadian Medical Society. Thus unified more can be accomplished. A committee will investigate the possibilities of such a move, he added.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Col. Randolph Crocker left this afternoon for Muskoka where he will attend a convention of an insurance company with which he is connected.
