Mention the spring when buds are bursting white
And violets awake and scent the night,
And the cool crocus quivers and is blown,
And the brook leaps again against the stone.

Mention the summer, humming-birds that wing
Through brake and forest, larks that soar and sing,
Coaxing a liquid note above the clover.

Mention the autumn when her gold flows over,
And air and light, all precious things, and more,
The winter lovelier than she was before.

The trillium, the bluest, rose-and-bee,
Servant of summer and of industry.
Soft velvet spun upon some wild distaff,

Mention all these and more you can by half
Add up the sum, and cancelling all these
Enough remains of prodigalities

To brim the heart, enough will still remain,
The floating butterfly, the sheen of rain.

O mighty source, O catalogue of hours,
Beauty is ever bursting into flowers;
The hands touch grass, the eyes may snare a rose,

The fingers brush the summer as it goes.
Still float the blue, pale Indies of the skies . . .

Remove thy sandals and lift up thine eyes!

Boy 13 Years Old Is Heir to Barony But Has to Fight For It

physicians in England gave medical testimony as regards the parents and as to the boy's birth in October 1921.

With their then devastating frankness the newspapers here published all testimony in full, in question and answer form.

Scores of thousands of people were scandalized. As the result a law was passed, and still obtains, under which in divorce cases newspapers may publish only the bare pleadings at the time a suit was brought—the names of the principals and of the respondent, and may publish after that nothing but the judge's summing up at the end of the hearing. Though the cases are heard in public, no testimony may be printed except what the judge may choose to quote.

As the result of the House of Lords ruling annulling the divorce decree, the precedent was established that a husband may not give evidence in a divorce suit as to relations with his wife. It was on this ground that the divorce was annulled.

Mrs. Russell after her separation, opened a fashionable dress shop. She has devoted her life to the boy who is now heir to the barony.

STAMPEDE OPENS

Major-General Sir James MacBrien, Royal Canadian Mounted Police commissioner, officially opened the Stampede.

DOG JUMPS RAILING GETS UP, THEN DIES

Falls 35 Feet to Floor of Rotunda in Railway Station.

Regina, Sask., July 9. — Leaping 35 feet from a first floor railing, a two-year-old German police dog died in the union depot rotunda.

The dog—termed a "great pal"—was owned by Rudy Kullman, and had cantered to the station with W. Kullman.

The animal was first noticed on the south balcony by W. G. Kinsman and Alex. Shields, C.P.R. employees, and at that time was trying to poke its head between the railings. Mr. Kinsman hurried through the winding corridor, but before he reached the dog it had placed its feet on the railing and leaped the 35 feet to the rotunda floor but got up and managed to struggle to the ticket office before it died.

Roof Is Shattered By Lightning Bolt

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., July 9.—A. H. Farquharson and his son, Daniel narrowly escaped death when lightning struck their barn at Mermaid near here.

Daniel who was in a nearby garage mending a tire, was numbed by the shock as the bolt entered the gable end of the barn, shattering the greater part of the roof, tore off the boards and shingles, and sent heavy rafters flying 30 feet into the field.

Luckily horses and cattle had been turned out just 20 minutes before or they might have been killed by flying timber, Mr. Farquharson stated.

The barn was not set on fire by the bolt which split the ventilator apart and grounded in three directions. Pigeons nesting in the ventilator were killed, a section of roof six feet wide were stripped clear from saddle-board to wall plate.

Becky Sharp Frock In Fashion Picture

NEW YORK, July 9.—An influence that's having its day in the fashion picture here is the 'Becky Sharp' film. Becky's clothes, to date, have been the source of a new dance frock—this a high-bodied affair of taffeta with ruge ruffles all around the shoulders and hemline, and dark piping outlining these and the waistline—and a new wsoft blue brought out by a Fifth Ave. shop and featured chiefly in sheers with either front fullness or all-around pleatings, waist-length capes and navy blue accents.

This same shop, by the way, is going in much for brightly printed jackets and three-quarter coats over plain pastels—a swell idea that's been popping up here and there for several months.

Prison Takes Pride In A Debating Team

CONCORD, Mass., July 9—Cultured Massachusetts even puts tone to the activities afforded in its penal institutions.

While Sir Sing prison in New York and San Quentin in California have made much of its football teams in the last few years, the Massachusetts Reformatory at Concord Junction is going to be more uplifting and has formed a debating team.

One might expect them to argue about legal matters or about liberty, but no, they go deeper. They took on debaters from St. Bernard's Catholic club of Concord Centre on the subject: Resolved, that the United States should increase its army and navy to equal those of other leading nations."

LONDON, July 9—British unemployed on June 24, totalled 2,000,110, the lowest number since Jan. 1930. Sportsmen and clubmen were betting yesterday that the total for the entire month of June would drop under the 2,000,000 mark.

'RETURN TO HORSE' IS RECOVERY PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 9—Rep. Percy L. Gassaway, the Oklahoma cowboy, will give Congress until a week from Monday to bring back prosperity, after which he will start campaigning for a plan of his own.

His program, he said, has countless famifications, but, broadly speaking, calls for curtailment of automobiles and the return of the horse.

"I was standing on the street corner the other day," he explained, "and I started counting automobiles. In one hour I counted 1,800 of 'em. And I says to myself, 'Gassaway, a lot of folks are riding in automobiles that can't afford it.' Then I thought about an old fellow back home in Oklahoma who gets around all right behind a team of Percheron mares. He's never had an automobile.

"Spending, spending, spending—that's what's wrong with this country. People will go out and buy a gallon of gasoline when they haven't got bread or likker in the house. What we ought to do is stop trying to legislate prosperity and get back to simple things. Get back to using a team of horses instead of these automobiles. Congress ought to adjourn by July 15.

"Look at the women of this country. They wear fur coats in the winter time, fancy dresses in the summer time and jewelry all the time. They pay for it in instalments. Monday is fur coat day, Tuesday is radio day, Wednesday is automobile day, Thursday is jewelry day, Friday is silk stocking day and Saturday they sit around and think up things to start buying on Monday.

"Back to the soil is where we ought to go. Now, my idea is to quit having all these fancy things and start spending money on food and clothing. That would help the farmers, wouldn't it?"

M. P., was reported to be making good recovery from head injuries, while Constable Francis and four strikers were discharged from hospital yesterday afternoon.
