HORTICULTURAL ASSN. MET

An enthusiastic meeting of the local Horticultural Association was held last evening in the Directors' Room at the Fredericton Exhibition grounds. The president, George E. Fisher, outlined the proposed arrangements for the flower show at the coming exhibition. The neat uniform type of container which will be used for all cut flowers and the display standards for classification cards elected approving comment. As this year the exhibit of roots and vegetables comes under the direction of the Society plans were drawn up for a more decorative showing of field crops. Particular attention was drawn to the pyramid forms for the group showing of farm and garden produce. These forms giving as they do an opportunity for individual effort in artistic arrangement, will make an attractive feature of the otherwise rather prosaic showing of vegetables. Plans were formulated for meeting to complete the general decoration and make the final layout of the Horticultural display at the exhibition.

Institution for the Feeble Minded Planned

"Newspaper Work," Miss MacIntosh of the Kingsclear branch, who gave an excellent paper on "Education," and an informative address on "Dentistry" by Dr. B. R. Ross ably rendered. Prior to the evening session supper was served in the basement of St. Anthony's church.

Miss Weldon in her address suggested the founding of a home for the feeble minded and referred to the part the Institute played in the international peace garden and also of work done by a handloom. She also suggested that each branch form study groups. The address of welcome in the afternoon was delivered by Mrs. Henry Peters, president of the Devon branch and was responded to by a member of the Williamsburg branch, Mrs. H. W. Woods, M.B.E., in the absence through illness of Mrs. Yeomans, the secretary-treasurer, reported a very favorable balance.

Flowers and letters of sympathy were sent to Mrs. Yeomans and also to Mrs. Frank Shortill of North Devon, who is ill at her home also. During the year, it was reported, two new branches had been formed—one at Otis and the other at Nashwaak Bridge. Reports from the various branches showed that considerable work had been done during the past year and that a large amount had been contributed to the King's Jubilee Cancer Fund.

Several of the branches reported having given social evenings to entertain their husbands and other men of the locality. Suggestions were made to improve conditions and the lot of the rural communities.
