ABOUT OURSELVES

One of our prominent newspaper friends whom we admire, states that he is pleased that The Daily Mail has seen the light in regard to politics and is giving the Liberal party generous support. He points out that in the last provincial election that we were for the most part "neutral."

Thanks, brother! The Daily Mail was not "neutral" in the last election. We were independent in provincial politics, and we remain so. A neutral paper is one that is afraid to come out and take any side, and is afraid to express an opinion. An independent paper is one that will express an opinion whether that opinion agrees with any party or not.

The Daily Mail supports the Liberal party in the present campaign because it firmly believes that Mackenzie King and his party will be able to give this country the best form of government, at the present time, and that it will pull the country out of its present condition. Mr. Bennett has had his chance and now it is time for a change. Therefore The Daily Mail is supporting the Liberal party in this election one hundred percent. The Daily Mail promised when the present management assumed control that we "would support whatever we thought would be for the best interests of the public" and we are now doing so.

So far as provincial politics is concerned, Mr. Tilley tried his best to give the province good government but his government was all shot to pieces when he assumed control. In regard to the present government we believe that it is honestly trying to do its best. The various members have been harassed to death by job seekers and have not been given a fair show; but even as it is, we think that they have done wonders. Give Dysart a chance. He has already begun to get busy on old age pensions, on free school books, and on the carrying out of various other pre-election promises. If the Dysart government should fail it may be fired out the same as was the Tilley government, and The Daily Mail will be amongst the first to point out its shortcomings. We are, as we have said, not running a boneless neutral paper. We are running an Independent Paper.

At the present time we are supporting the Liberal party because we think that is right. We are in sympathy also, so far, with the Dysart government, although we are not prepared to back up everything that its individual members may do, unless we see fit to do so. If we think that some of them, or all of them, are off the base, we will not hesitate to say so. What the public wants in a paper is the right dope from some one who is not afraid. We are not afraid. We intend to give the public the news, without fear or favor. We are not tied up to the present provincial government by any handouts. This government seems independent of the newspapers and has so far given its job printing to job concerns in Fredericton which have absolutely no influence in presenting public opinion. It is the right of the Dysart government to do this if it sees fit. In the olden days it was considered a good idea for newspapers supporting the governments "to live by the gospel." So our friend cannot accuse us of graft, and we hope that he will not say that we are "neutral." For a paper to be neutral means that it is spineless and that it is either afraid, or that it has no person connected with its office who is capable of discussing affairs. We will support the Liberal party both in Dominion and in Provincial politics just as long as we feel like it. That is, as long as we feel that they deserve our support, and no longer. If we think that they should get hell, we will give them hell! If they do not like our gate they do not have to swing on it!

JUST LIKE PYJAMAS

Last night Mr. Bennett was on the radio. He again referred to unemployment. He does some shifting in regard to this question.

In January he told Canada he was going to "reform" the present system. "And when the system is reformed and in full operation again there will be work for all." But when six or seven months passed, a fortnight or so ago, he said that unemployment could not be cured, that the only way to do was to retire the worker at sixty. Two or three days later when he was asked more about it, he said it would not be compulsory, it would be voluntary. And now when we ask him how much pension he is going to pay, and if he expects men at sixty to give up their work for a beggarly pittance of $240 a year—the maximum old age pension—he turns a somersault at Halifax, and this is what he says:

"If conditions continue to improve as they have been doing the past three or four months, we will not need to have recourse to this at all." But he knew all about the last three or four months a fortnight ago.

And the man who talks like this, his policies pyjama-like, on at night, off in the morning, is the Prime Minister of Canada, wanting us to send him back.

CHINESE TO JOIN RUSSIA?

A report from Tokyo says that Sinkiang, westernmost province of China has gone Bolshevik, and will presently enter the Soviet Union as the Turkestan Soviet Republic. The report is probably true, especially as it mentions no time limit for the hooking up of Sinkiang with the USSR.

The authority of China over Sinkiang has ever been vague. This region of mountain and desert and a few fertile river valleys has been a battleground since history began, owing allegiance, when allegiance was owed at all, to its latest conqueror, and paying only the slightest attention, and fewer taxes, to the government that claimed control over it. The Turks originated somewhere in these parts; the territory was part of the empire of Jenghiz, and later of Tamerlane. The Manchu emperor of China puts his governors in the principal cities, and sent troops to maintain order, but for the most part the nomadic tribes were a law unto themselves. In recent years the authority of China has been shadowy indeed. There has been a diminution of trade with China and an increase in commerce with the Russians.

The idea of self-government and a fairly loose hook-up with the Soviet no doubt appeals to the tribal leaders of Sinkiang. The separation of this district from China would be quite unlike the Manchurian incident, since there is little evidence that the people of Manchuria wanted to secede and form a new state under Japanese auspices, while there is plenty of reason to believe that the nomads and traders of Sinkiang would like to form a sort of republic under Russian protection.

Cheap Fares For Thanksgiving

These fares will be good going any time on Wednesday, October 23, and up to 2 p.m. on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. A liberal time allowance has been provided for the return movement, which may take place any time up to midnight of Friday, October 25. Children between the ages of 5 and 12 years will, of course, be carried for half fare.

With summer resorts closed for the season and many other organized outdoor activities over, there is a general inclination during the fall season to turn again to the family as a centre of attraction and Thanksgiving Day provides this opportunity, which may be taken to greater advantage by the reduced fares offered by the railways for this occasion.

DIED EARLY THIS MORNING

Mrs. Alice E. Lyons, 60, wife of William Lyons, passed away at her home, 285 Northumberland street, at an early this morning after an illness, which had lasted for several years. Although she had been in ill health for many years she was active, and was tending to her household duties shortly before her death occurred, and her rather unexpected death will be learned with regret by her many friends. She was a native of Carleton County, but had lived in this city for several years. She is survived by her husband, one brother, William H. McKinney, Bristol, Conn.; and two sisters Mrs. F. Dudley, Dover, N. H. and Mrs. Cameron in the state of Maine; Mrs. Lyons had been actively associated with the Salvation Army, and her funeral service will be conducted at the home on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Commandant William Hargrove of the Salvation Army. Interment will be made in the Rural Cemetery.

SNAPSHOTS

We wonder if our up-to-date road engineer will take our hint about putting a white line on the dangerous curves at the lower end of Waterloo Row. There is going to be trouble there sure and ten dollars may save lives.

Any person who is insane enough to speed around these dangerous curves and pass another car without knowing who is coming towards him is courting death and deserves it. The only trouble is that the innocent often get it in the neck. These dangerous curves in Waterloo Row should be attended to at once.

The Saint John paper says that D. Leo Dolan "recalled incidents of the days when he was in the provincial publicity bureau". Some of these incidents would be interesting.

It is nice to give bouquets to the dead whether they have been merited or not.

Fire prevention week. This will prevent the provincial government from firing anybody this week.

One of the worst features of the war is the language of an Ethiopian army teamster moving a mule.

In expressing an opinion on the result of the general election a Toronto man says: "I notice that we've always had good times before under the Liberal Party, and the record is too good to be entirely luck". And that thought is in the back of many a head these days.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta is postponing paying the men and women of that Province $25.00 a month for eighteen months. Hoping no doubt by that time they will forget about it.

A local Scotchman is going to vote for Mr. Bennett because he removed the duty on bagpipes.

Conservatives Hold Many Meetings In Joint Counties

A large and enthusiastic meeting in support of the Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was held last evening at Lower Dumfries, at which the speakers were: William Gibson, Gage Montgomery, of Woodstock, and E. C. Atkinson. The speakers discussed the policies of Mr. King and the Liberal Party during their term of office, and compared it with the policies under Mr. Bennett, showing that the Conservative Party has opened more markets to Canadian people than ever before in the history of Canada.

Mr. Atkinson dealt particularly with Empire Trade Agreements and the beneficial results of these Agreements to the farmers and the Canadian people, and showed that as a result of Mr. Bennett's increase in tariff, 319 new industries have been established in Canada which have given employment to over half a million people. Christopher Murray acted as Chairman of the meeting.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, and Mr. A. D. Taylor, of Minto, addressed the electors of Devon last evening. Mayor A. J. McEvoy acted as Chairman. A capacity audience in St. Anthony's Hall, expressed enthusiastic appreciation of the speakers' remarks.

Mr. Hanson dealt with the railway question, showing how the Conservative parties had stood behind the Canadian National Railways. He referred to Mr. MacKenzie King's opposition and criticism of all reform legislation introduced by the Bennett Government and to Mr. Bennett's legislation to protect the workers of Canada from Japanese competition. Japanese wages, the speaker said, ranged from 3 1/2 cents to 7 cents per hour at the highest. Mr. King would force Canadian workers to compete with Japanese workers. "Mr. King stands for Japan—Mr. Bennett for Canada and work and wages for her people".

Mr. A. D. Taylor addressed the meeting, discussing the principles of Liberalism exemplified in unfulfilled promises.

A very enthusiastic meeting, in the interest of the Hon. R. B. Hanson, Conservative candidate for York-Sunbury, was held last evening at Southampton. The issues of the campaign were ably discussed by W. J. West and Leo F. Cain.

A large meeting that filled the hall was held at Rustiagornish in the interests of Honourable R. B. Hanson, Conservative candidate in the Electoral District of York-Sunbury. John L. Alexander acted as Chairman of the meeting and Alderman C. Hedley Forbes, and C. L. Dougherty were the speakers. The speakers dealt with the various issues in the campaign, and the meeting closed with cheers for the Conservative Candidate.

FINED FOR DRUNKENNESS

A worker at the Sunbury relief range appeared before Police Magistrate Haines in the Devon police court yesterday and was sentenced to a fine for drunkenness. The man was arrested in Devon on Saturday.

Thirteen Nations Condemn Italy

a war-maker, cause Italy to bolt the League, these sources said.

Benito Mussolini, a government spokesman asserted, expressed the nation's will last Wednesday when he told a mobilized nation that economic sanctions would be met with "discipline." But military measures, he warned, would bring military measures and acts of war would be answered by acts of war.

The government spokesman declined an official expression on the Council's action pending receipt of the official text of the decision.

Used to "Lean Times"

The Italian people, officials said, are "used to lean times." The country, they declared, is willing to suffer economic sanctions, if necessary, for the sake of victory in Ethiopia and eventual justification before the world of Italian policy.

On the African front, meanwhile, the Italian armies dug in after their four-day advance, and authorities here declared "our campaign has just started."

The battle of Adowa, where Italy's forces suffered crushing defeat 39 years ago and where a Blackshirt army redeemed that memory only yesterday with capture of the town, was a "real battle," a government spokesman asserted. The Ethiopians fought hard and well, he said.

Today the northern Italian forces spend in consolidating their positions, without further advances. There was no mention of casualties, although the spokesman said unofficial and unconfirmed reports were received of the capture of 65 Ethiopian prisoners at Adowa.

Luigi Vinci-Giglicucci, the Italian Minister at Addis Ababa, awaited a caravan to take himself, his staff and his various consuls to Djibouti, French Somaliland.

President of Guides' Association Urges Vast Development

W. McGregor Grant, Saint John Branch, New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association acted in the absence of President Sidney C. Young. The guides were introduced individually at the conclusion of the second performance of the regular theatre program. Dr. E. H. Cook, St. Stephen, president of the provincial protective body, was asked to speak. H. H. Ritchie, the chief game warden, was also present.

An interesting program of sport-ing movies and talks was featured, arranged by G. E. Golding, chairman of the entertainment committee, local fish and game body.

Commission Suggested

Advocating the establishment of a government fish and game commission, Dr. E. H. Cook of St. Stephen, president of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association, at the afternoon business session outlined the progressive work, which had been done by a government commission established in Maine. After extending the welcome of his association to the guides, he asked them to consider close co-operation in always keeping present the need "for putting back into fishing streams as much as we take out".

H. H. Ritchie

Urging the guides to see that sportsmen "go home satisfied so that they will come back with their friends", H. H. Ritchie, chief game warden of the province, offered the whole-hearted co-operation of the department of lands and mines to the association. Mr. Ritchie pointed out that Hon. F. W. Pirie, minister, had already shown his keen interest in the encouragement of the visits of sportsmen to the province by his recent adoption of special deer and bear licenses. He asked the guides to keep in mind the province as a whole when making recommendations, taking into consideration that one year might find deer or other game or fish scarce in one section and plentiful in another.

Urges Advertising Campaign

D Leo Dolan, director of the Dominion Tourist Bureau illustrated the benefit of advertising with a case of tourist salesmanship in Alberta "In Jasper Park I became acquainted with a small group of guides and outfitters who catered to sportsmen. Each of those men stayed from three to five weeks. They left about $16,000 in general expenditures in the province. We can take lessons from those newly formed groups with regard to advertising and selling our country. It is most important that this be done immediately through your efforts, co-operating with the province and transportation companies, and the Canadian Travel Bureau"

ROTARY MEET

Dr. W. C. Keirstead of the University of New Brunswick faculty, addressed the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Nu-Palms today. He used as his theme "Aspects of Education." Following the address Chairman Ald. I. McKnight tendered a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of the Club.
