HON. P. J. VENIOT
The passing from active administrations of affairs of Hon. P. J. Veniot, M.P., who is not included in the ministerial group, removes a man long active in the political affairs of this province, first as a private member of the provincial legislature, then as minister of public works, and later as premier of the province. Then Hon. Mr. Veniot transferred to the Federal field and became Postmaster General. All these offices Hon. Mr. Veniot filled with credit both to himself and to the province.
Hon. Mr. Veniot worked up from a printer in a country office, later to become a reporter, then he edited an Acadian paper at Bathurst. He was Collector of Customs at that port of Bathurst for a time.
Hon. Mr. Veniot in all his business connections as well as in his political work has always been and continues to be energetic. It is to be hoped that, while he is not included in the ministerial group that he will continue for many years to come to serve his country either in the House of Commons, to which he was recently re-elected by a large majority, or in the Senate.
Mr. Veniot's services both to Canada, to his province and to his party deserve recognition. He is entitled to any good gift which is in the power of his party to bestow. There may be a chance for Mr. Veniot to enter the Senate at an early date. He is much better qualified to hold a seat in the Red Chamber than some who have recently been pushed in there. Here's best wishes and good luck, Peter old boy!

HANSON AND STEVENS
Windsor Star: The Hon. R. B. Hanson, who succeeded the Hon. H. H. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Bennett Government, blames Mr. Stevens for having lost his York-Sunbury (New Brunswick) riding in Monday's election.
"Stevens beat me," Mr. Hanson said on his arrival at Ottawa. "would have been elected if it had not been for the third candidate in the field, and I'm going to tell Harry (Stevens) when I see him."
After all, though, Mr. Hanson should remember that, even if Mr. Stevens was the indirect cause of his electoral defeat, it was also Mr. Stevens who was responsible for Mr. Hanson's getting into the Cabinet. Mr. Hanson stepped in when Mr. Stevens stepped out, after the now historic Stevens disagreement with the Prime Minister. Consequently, Mr. Hanson should not be too hard on Mr. Stevens when the two meet.

"ZUT" AGAIN
A few weeks ago we remarked on the difficulties experienced by the French Academy in securing agreement on the admission of the word "zut" to the official French dictionary, which has at last been completed. Another argument has now broken out regarding zut, but this time it is in England.
Zut is an untranslatable word, an interjection that comes from a Frenchman, often in triplicate, when he is surprised by disappointment; as, for instance, when the waiter tells him there are no more brioches. It has no definite meaning, yet everyone knows what it means.
An English etymologist gave in a letter to the London Times his theory of how the word was coined. A defiant Frenchman, he believes, said to another: "Je vous dis ut, re, mi," which is, "I say to you do, re, mi," or in other words, "I don't care a rap for your opinion." The "dis ut" became contracted into "zut."

die of the nineteenth century, by which time "zut" was probably in common use.
Still another gentleman volunteers his belief that "zut" comes from the older word "zeste," which means, among other things, the inner partition of a walnut, or the skin of an orange—hence something of no value.
We trust the French Academy appreciates this British aid, which seems to be in the nature of that entente cordiale which France so greatly desires with England.

He should not walk the floor in his bare feet.
A very excellent lady friend of ours and one with lots of brains is going to tell us why there should not be light wines and beers in the hotels. We hope the reasons are practical ones instead of theories. In the old days prohibition was absolutely right in theory the only trouble being that it did not prohibit in the least.
Some men who are decidedly unpopular and who have little or no brains secure a pull by looking wise and using clap trap. We have these people not far away.
If you can make good clap trap the world will be at a path to your door.
The biggest exhibition of nerve is that shown by a man down town who removed the "no entry" sign from a path across a private field. He walked across the forbidden path and carried the sign away on his back.

No wonder sportsmen took an active part in the election campaign on behalf of Liberal candidates. Observe the beautiful football and golf weather there has been since October 14.

One of the first things to confront Canada's new Governor-General at Quebec will be a ceremonial luncheon. This is the price men in high position must pay for being where they are.

Last year he received $165.

SNOW YESTERDAY
Thanksgiving Day ushered in the first snowfall of the season in various parts of the province. Although only a few flakes were noticed in Fredericton and vicinity, fairly heavy snowfalls were experienced near Centreville, and River du Chute. The hills in those localities were whitened by about half an inch of snow. Northern Maine also had heavy snowfall yesterday.

Liberal Cabinet Is Now in Office At the Capital

As soon as the new cabinet had been sworn in Mr. King issued a statement explaining his views on these matters. He also explained he had asked Premier James G. Gardiner to become minister of agriculture and was awaiting a reply. Apart from this he had consulted no Liberal provincial premiers as to the personnel of the new cabinet.
Immediately after Mr. King and his ministers had been sworn in last night by Sir Lyman Duff, deputy to the Governor-General, a brief cabinet council was called but no statement was given out to indicate what transpired. Some ministers left Ottawa immediately after in order to spend the holiday at home, but it was anticipated there would be a full attendance when the government gets down to business at this afternoon's session.
Early announcement was expected of the decision of Premier James G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan on the matter of his acceptance of the agriculture portfolio. Mr. King said he wished to have Mr. Gardiner for this post and was holding it open pending the Saskatchewan premier's answer. It was the only vacancy in the new government.

NOTHING NEW IN CASE
R. C. M. P. headquarters here today reported nothing new in the alleged assault on John Speedy, aged nineteen which occurred at Harvey N. B. on Wednesday evening. According to Speedy's own story after recovering consciousness from the brutal beating he was left "lying unconscious" in the middle of the road. Speedy told police that the attack occurred when he attempted to start his car after leaving a card party. Speedy was struck over the head by something and knocked out. His injuries while painful, are not believed serious. Police are investigating the alleged assault today. It is reported that four people took part in the attack.

OUR MAIL BAG
A GRIZZLY, PERHAPS

To the Editor of the Mail,
I have been reading a lot in the newspapers about the activities of that maurader, Ursus Americanus, otherwise known as the black bear. I unhesitatingly yield the palm to a correspondent of a Saint John newspaper who tells of a party of hunters killing a specimen near Gagetown, "measuring seven feet, ten inches in length and with a head measuring eleven inches between the ears and ten inches from eye to eye". Then we have the additional information that it was minus three claws, as the result of being caught in a trap sixteen years ago (the old reprobate) and that "the carcass when dressed weighed six hundred pounds". As no bear of that weight was ever before taken in New Brunswick, I presume that this old stager must have been a grizzly which had made its way here from the Rockies. I would suggest that Col. Ritchie, the chief game warden, visit Gagetown and conduct an investigation. If we have grizzly bears ambling about in the woods of Queens County it is a matter that should be exploited in the interests of tourist travel.
Yours etc.,
NIMROD.

NEW INSURANCE MAN
Gordon D. MacDonald has been appointed manager for New Brunswick for the London and Scottish Assurance Corporation taking over the position until recently held by J. L. He has been twelve years with an insurance company. The London and Scottish is a strong old British Company with head offices in Montreal. It is safer and as solid as a rock. RECEIVED TREAT
Mrs. Ernest H. Coy, superintendent of the Children's Home, in conversation with The Daily Mail today, said that she wished to thank those exhibitors through whose generosity the children at the home had been enabled to enjoy a Thanksgiving treat, which was much appreciated. Many of the exhibitors instead of reclaiming their exhibits requesting that it be sent to the Children's Aid for use in the Home. A large basket of delicacies was made up on Wednesday evening at the office of the Maritime Electric Company, Limited, after the conclusion of the weekly judging in The Daily Mail Culinary Contest and delivered to the Children's Home.
