Two humorous readings were given, one in anticipation of Christmas by Miss Mabel Holder, and a French-Canadian poem by Miss Phyllis Peters. One of the most enjoyable presentations that the Society has witnessed was the readings and songs by Barry Allen of this city. Mr. Allen gave a variety of recitations ranging from humor to considerable power, and also sang "My Grandfather's Clock" with two verses of parody. The topic for the programme was music. Several members gave lovely readings on music in all its phases. Rev. Mr. Harwood gave a very lovely address, comparing the soul of the violin to the soul of a human being. He told how the different parts of the violin contributed to the fine music it issues forth. The vice-president Mr. Skeene conducted the business meeting. Group meetings were held, after which games were played under the direction of Mr. Pond, the music being supplied by Miss Herbert and Fraser MacKay. The National Anthem brought an evening to a close that was enjoyed by all.

Remembrance Day so you see, Is a sad and happy day to thee. The war is ended, I hope, Though I can not see it, I can hope.

Maritime Transport. Commission Council Answers Ontario

Maritime Freight Rates Act had been of great benefit to Maritime shippers. Concerning the price of potatoes in central Canada, Mr. Matheson stated that the farmer in central Canada received more for his potatoes than Maritime producers. He felt the request of the Maritimes was a conservative request.

Ontario Potato Grower

After Mr. Matheson had concluded his review of the exhibits, Mr. Sedgwick called C. T. Casson as his first witness. Mr. Casson said he was a potato grower in the Alliston district of Ontario.

He has been a member of the Eastern Potato Marketing Board and was now field man for the department of agriculture for the province of Ontario.

Concerning road conditions in Ontario during the winter months and stated that he believed generally highways from the principal potato growing sections were open to the markets in Ontario all winter, therefore the movement of potatoes by motor truck in that province was practically constant.

His opinion was that the railway's share of potato movement in Ontario during last year was about five per cent, the trucks getting the other traffic.

"My own product compares with P. E. I. potatoes," witness stated, "and if I go to some trouble can get the same price, although generally P. E. I. potatoes demand a premium."

The price in the central market of Ontario was virtually set by the Maritime supply in Ontario, he said, and a reduction in freight rates from the Maritimes would, he felt, cause a lower price in Ontario.

Mr. Burchell questioned witness concerning his duties as a member of the Eastern Marketing Board. Function of the board was looking after the producers' end and attempting to work price equalization, witness said.

Price of potatoes in Ontario, at the present time was good, witness said, and he had been told Maritime shippers were "stiffening" the price due to a shortage in the United States crop.

He stated that some years Ontario needed Maritime potatoes and that it the Maritimes shipped potatoes to the United States in a reciprocal arrangement, the price of potatoes to the consumer in Ontario would be considerably raised.
