SALEM, N. H. RACE EVENTS FOR SATURDAY

Stakes and Purses to Value of $10,800; Rosalind a Favorite

SALEM, N. H., July 29—Stakes and purses to the value of $10,800 will be offered for the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting at Rockingham Park next Saturday as the greatest of trotters and pacers in the land meet in the glorified horse-and-buggy races, and thousands will be lured there.

The feature of the opening day will be a fierce battle for the American Stake in three different divisions and for three different money awards—for two-year-old trotters, with a purse of $3000; for two-year-old pacers, with a purse of $1500; and for three-year-old trotters, with a purse of $5000.

The juveniles will be out in front, as New England plays its sport spotlight on a sport which, all around the roaring circuit, is once more challenging the running races in point of popular interest.

And, for the past three days, Ben F. White, who trains and drives for W. N. Reynolds, North Carolina tobacco king, has been putting Rosalind, two-year old queen of the trotters, and Jack Orr, king of the more youthful pacers, through the grind of training.

"They're a great pair of youngsters," he said today, "and they'll take a lot of beating in the American Stake. Rosalind, which just won a race up in Toronto, and Jack Orr have never been beaten, and the Reynolds barn will be out to win both ends of the American Stake for two year olds."

Interest in the meeting is growing day by day, and with legalized pari-mutual betting on at least 10 daily heats, Paul Brower, sponsor of the meeting, is confident that all New England for both attendance and mutual handle will be broken in the seven day meeting.

ALL-NEW YORK SERIES LOOMS AS SEASON WANES

Yanks' Pitching Staff Too Powerful while Giants' Fight Expected to Carry 'em Through.

NEW YORK, July 29—Yankee pitching has the whole American League the pennant possibilities among the league entrants, discovered too many weaknesses and too many question marks in the Yankees set-up to establish the McCarthymen as favorites. Yet, league sentiment today is that the Yanks will finish on top. Despite faults which remain, they are conceded too much pitching.

The work of the Yankee mound corps has forced Jimmy Dykes and Roger Hornsby to revise their early season opinions on how the pennant race would end. Both favored Cleveland when the campaign started. Now both like the Yanks. Pitching has made them change their minds.

The early preferences of Dykes and Hornsby for the Indians are easily understood. Jimmy and the Rajah were not only swayed by the general sentiment in favor of Cleveland, but watched the tribe perform at their best against their own clubs. Cleveland had fattened up on both White Sox and Browns. It has taken seven out of eleven games from Chicago and eight out of ten from St. Louis.

But the abundance of Yankee pitching talent, with the manner in which it is responding now to the demands of a tightened pennant race, has caused Dykes and Hornsby to rank New York—now that Cleveland has apparently passed out of the race altogether—over their original second choices, the Tigers.

Pick U.S. Boat To Meet British Boat In September

LARCHMONT, N. Y., July 27—Frank E. Campbell's Confusion and Clair L. Farrand's Consternation were named tonight as the two American boats that will meet a British dinghy invasion in September, with George E. Ratsey's Tub III as an alternate in case of accident to the two others.

The announcement came from the selection committee, headed by Robert N. Bavier, after a long day in racing in which Confusion won every race but two, and three other boats were gradually eliminated. The races, held in a light easterly breeze, included two contests in which the six boats that survived yesterday's tests raced together, and then seven team races among Confusion, Consternation, Tub and Jack Stuphen's Patty.

Fancy Pants, which at the start of today's racing looked like the most logical contender of the fleet, was the first to be eliminated, through no fault of either the boat or Jack Wood, who sailed her today in the absence of Bill Swan with a clause in the agreement that in case anything went wrong with the rig of Campbell's new boat, Confusion, he was to have the privilege of taking the rig from Fancy Pants.

Roy Miller Plans Comeback

CHICAGO, July 29—Ray Miller, left-hander who cut a wide ath through the lightweight division for years before retiring more than a year ago, is plotting a "Braddock" comeback under the guidance of Joe Gould, in the welterweight division. The husky Ray is 29, but shows little ring wear despite his record of some 200 battles.

SPORT NOTES

Folks who bark about what happens to the dogs and what happens with the dogs, shouldn't receive much consideration. They don't have to bet their money, so why yip about what happens to it? If a dog wants to snuff heroin, that's the dog's business, and anyone having a justifiable complaint to make about heroin, ammonia, and such things should call on the society with the long name.

That was a splendid crowd that witnessed the races at Suffolk last Saturday. There were many complaints after the last race at the inadequate number of payoff windows. Many customers cavilled at having to stand in line so long. Some expressed the opinion that in view of the fact that the ticket sellers were done for the day, their windows should have been open and winning ticket holders should be allowed to cash them there.

Another thing that aroused unfavorable comment was the manner in which the bridge from the clubhouse to the grandstand was blocked. Spectators who should either be in the grand stand or the clubhouse grouped there and gossiped.

"Maybe the vast crowd had something to do with the aforementioned blocking, but it seemed to me that the ushers could have kept a passageway open and also bettered the conditions in the aisles.

Joe E. Brown, famous fun maker, informed a friend that he knew the name of a man who would purchase the Braves. Maybe the name of the man was Johnny King, Joe E.'s partner in Kansas City and one time catcher of the Chicago Cubs; catcher and manager of the Braves also. Perhaps Johnny would like to be rid of the Kansas Blues which have given him and Joe E. the blues this season.

THRIFTY SCOT IS USING CANADIAN APPLE BARRELS FOR PACKING POTATOES

Potato merchants in Scotland were formerly wont to use oak barrels for shipping potatoes but within the past few years they have turned to apple barrels used in the first instance for conveying Canadian apples to Scotland and purchased second-hand from fruit merchants and grocers, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. There is a large trade in potatoes in Scotland and tens of thousands of barrels are required each year. The larger potato merchants reinforce the apple barrels with hoops imported from France and add ropes to the top which form a covering for the new potatoes. There is now little demand for coopersage stock in Scotland for packing potatoes.

Progress in First Round Tennis

All of Favorites Survive First Day's Play of New Brunswick Tennis Tournament which began Yesterday—Large Galleries—Miss Dot Rowan Beaten After Stiff Fight

Considerable progress was made in the opening day's play of the New Brunswick Tennis Tournament which opened here yesterday under auspicious weather conditions. Considerable of a gallery watched the play most of which was run off in the afternoon and early evening. The morning was taken up with registration and seeding the players.

Miss Rowan's younger sister Miss Pauline Rowan, a junior, provided the day's upset in turning back Miss Doris McKenna, Rothesay, in straight sets, dropping only one game in the second set as she refused to make errors on Miss McKenna's hard forehand drives.

Most of the favorites survived the day's play and nearly all the Men's Singles were won in straight sets, indicating that players were properly seeded.

Miss Dorothy Rowan was eliminated by Miss E. Dolton by 4-6, and 6-2, but the sets were hard fought and furnished some good tennis.

SCHMELLING WANTS BIG PRICE FOR APPEARANCE

NEW YORK, July 29—The question of who has Max Schmelling, the Twentieth Century Sporting Club for a fight with Joe Louis, or Madison Square Garden for a fight with Max Baer, has finally been settled. Neither has him, and what's more, neither now wants him.

After more than a week of intrigue, baiting, statements and counter statements, the German clarified his position in the matter in a cable to Joe Jacobs, his American manager, yesterday and his demands were so high that both claimants for his fistic services threw in the towel in disgust. All Schmelling wanted from either promoter, according to his cable, was a pre-bout guaranty of $150,000, deposited in his bank at Amsterdam, Holland, or a privilege of 35 per cent of the receipts in addition, he wanted this guaranty free and clear of taxes, which would mean that the promoter would be asked to post the taxes also.

Agreed On Previously

A sum of $5,000 for travelling and training expenses was also included in his demands, but this had been agreed on previously.

Mike Jacobs, impresario of the Twentieth Century Club and sponsor for Joe Louis, didn't hesitate at all. He turned down the offer at once. In his explosive excitement he also forgot his grammar.

"What does he think we're promoting?" he demanded when he had heard the final demand. "I'll go over there with Louis and fight him for half the guaranty. I've thrown the whole blooming Schmelling business overboard."

But Jimmy Johnson, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, hesitated for a while, since a heavyweight fight this

YOUNGSTER IS MAKING GOOD

BIRMINGHAM, July 29—Clyde Shoun, the young southpaw Birmingham sold to the Clubs for $15,000 and two players, took the mound three days after the announcement of his sale, and olanked New Orleans on four hits. It was the second shut-out hurled by a Baron moundsman this season.

Lobster Starts Trek To Ottawa, Kansas

Now while a lobster is a succulent and familiar article of food to people in eastern Canada and his general appearance well known, it is not so down in Kansas, U.S.A. Two fair visitors from Ottawa, Kansas, were in Pictou, Nova Scotia, recently, in the centre of the largest lobster fisheries in the world, and were keen on getting a specimen to show the folks back home. But how to accomplish this without the lobster mellowing in the process was the problem. A local mortician however, came to the aid of the visitors and put a few shots of his embalming fluid into the crustacean and now the lobster is on his way to show the folks back home in Ottawa, Kansas, just what kind of a looking critter he is. Lobsters are native to all three Maritime Provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, in each of which an extensive industry is carried on in both live and canned varieties, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

fall, the winner to meet James J. Braddock for the title, means much to the Graden and would serve to keep boxing in this vicinity in its hands. But he, too, was forced to decline. Johnson hinted, however, that something might still be done. If Schmelling fights at all here, he insisted, it would be under Garden promotion.
