

RIVER DROPPING A FOOT EVERY 24 HOURS

St. John River Waters
Receding Rapidly
This Week

Heavy Rains Today

Drives Finished, Mills
Start Season's Cut at
Some Points

The St. John river is receding rapidly from its spring freshet height, and is now falling at the rate of about a foot every twenty four hours. It is generally agreed by the river experts that no further damage will ensue.

Heavy rains in central New Brunswick today will likely cause a rise in the water temporarily.

Yesterday's warm weather and today's rains will conspire to cause some slight gain in the river level. Generally, however, the river is on the drop. The remainder of the snow and ice in the woods will not cause and great added rise in the river level.

Streamdriving along the St. John river and its tributaries, which has been at top flight in recent weeks because of the high waters, is practically completed. At some places mills have commenced their season's cut.

The Reid Brothers mill at Gagetown began cutting operations this week. Crews have been engaged in gathering in stray logs stranded along the Jemseg and area shores to bring them to the mill booms at Gagetown. The water is reported to be leaving the Jemseg Flats rapidly, but the interval road at Lower Jemseg is still covered.

Manuel conducted the service and many attended to pay a last tribute of respect to the deceased. Interment was made in the United Church cemetery. A large delegation from the Fredericton Pythian Sisters attended the service this afternoon.

LATE THOMAS HARRISON

The funeral of the late Thomas Harrison, who passed away quite suddenly on Wednesday night, took place this afternoon from the late home in North Devon, and was very largely attended despite the inclement weather conditions. Deceased had been held in the highest esteem and the largely attended funeral attested to his popularity. Service was conducted at two o'clock by Rev. Mr. Linton and interment was made at Sunnybank cemetery.

Plan Celebration of the 100th Anniversary of
Andrew Carnegie

The Fredericton Society of St. Andrew held their quarterly meeting last evening in the club room on Carleton street with the president, Ald. F. S. Mundle in the chair. There was a good attendance of members and some very interesting talks were given by some of the members. John H. Malcolm who has just returned from a trip to Scotland told of present conditions in that country. He said that the thrift of the Scot was so great that that country felt very little of the depression. He took his listeners on the trip with him, covering the great towns of Kilmarnock the home of Johnnie Walker and also the great Bruce, Burns and Scott. He said that Scotland without Burns would be a country without a history.

Rev. Dr. G. E. Ross told of his trip through Scotland in 1932. He told of the honesty of the Scot—that on one occasion he went into a restaurant and was surprised to find the tables already set and loaded with delicious food which they helped themselves to, as there were no waiters and when he asked the boss at the door what the bill was he said what did you have, and he took our word and at the same time mentioned that he trusted everyone to be honest like himself. Dr. Ross spoke of the Scotch as being the most generous race of people in the world. He told of the late Andrew Carnegie who was a generous Scot, having left not only millions to Scotland but to the whole world.

Anniversary Soon

William Clark spoke of the coming anniversary of the great Scot Andrew Carnegie. He said that November 25th would be the 100th anniversary of Andrew Carnegie and would like to have some celebration of the occasion on St. Andrew's night, November 30th. He said that the life of Andrew Carnegie was like a fairy tale. He came to America when 13 years of age penniless, but at the age of 30 he was rich and as the years rolled on he gave many millions to the different countries of the world with Scotland getting a big share.

K. C. Bishop also gave a short talk of his trip through Aberdeen and other parts of Scotland. He mentioned that the Aberdeensian was a generous Scot. He remembered of having six meals in one day while visiting that country.

President F. S. Mundle spoke of the part played by the Pipe Band in making the parade such a wonderful success. He said that the Society's Pipe Band was developing into one of the finest east of Toronto. There is nothing so sweet as Scotch music said Alderman Mundle. He mentioned "Annie Laurie," "On the Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," "Auld Lang Syne," and "A Wee Dork an' Doris."

Upon the recommendation of J. H. Malcolm it was decided to associate the Society of St. Andrew with the Burns Confederation. It was mentioned that Fredericton had one of the finest Burns Monuments to be found on this side of the Atlantic largely through the efforts of the Fredericton Society of Saint Andrew.
