

HON. G. H. I. COCKBURN AND R. J. GILL CONTINUE DEBATE

Hon. Mr. Cockburn Reviews Accomplishments of Present Administration, and Mr. Gill Asks For Aid Towards Rayon Plant on the Miramichi.

Official Report

Mr. Perry presented a petition for a bill to authorize the Bath, Bristol and Florenceville Electric Commission to borrow money.

Hon. Mr. Smith, on behalf of Hon. Mr. Reilly, presented a petition for a bill to authorize the Moncton School Board to issue debentures under certain conditions.

Mr. Colpitts gave Notice of Inquiry.

Hon. Mr. Cockburn, continuing the Debate on the Address, first extended his congratulations to the mover and seconder and said he concurred in the complimentary remarks so well made, referring to the retiring Chief Justice, Sir Douglas Hazen, and the retiring Lieutenant Governor, Major General H. H. McLean, whose names would stand in history among the greatest of N. B.'s distinguished sons. To the distinguished gentlemen who had taken over the duties of those high offices, Hon. Dr. McLaren and Mr. Justice Baxter, he was sure the congratulations and best wishes of their fellow citizens went with them as they assumed the responsibilities of the proud positions for which they were so admirably fitted. This Chamber would miss the members who had left it since the last Session to go to responsible positions in the public service and the best wishes of all members would go with them for many years of usefulness in their respective communities.

The Province had been honored during the past summer by a visit from the Governor General of Canada and his charming and gracious lady the Earl and Countess of Pessborough and this province then and at all times was glad to welcome the personal representative of His Majesty the King.

During the past five years Great Britain and the whole British Empire, with its four hundred millions of people paying allegiance to the same King and under the same flag, had, in common with all other countries, been passing through a most difficult period, from which were just now emerging under new conditions. Verily, he said, the old order changeth giving place to new.

This generation was living in a wonderful age. During the past half century science had invention had made great progress, the telephone, the automobile, the aeroplane and radio had all come within the recollection of the present generation.

The Great War had come and gone in our day and those privileged to play some small part in it had witnessed sights and had experiences never to be forgotten. And so during those years of depression, unrest and chaos it had been our privilege, or our misfortune to live through a time never before experienced. Unusual situations, new perplexing problems had been met by those in authority in all lands and statesmen had been worried, perplexed and troubled to the limit of human endurance to find remedies to restore the pulse and the temperature of the sick patient to normal.

Different remedies and different methods had been tried in various countries, some partially effective and some failing to do good. Through it all he felt that as British subjects and Canadians we could look with justifiable pride on the way the Great British Empire had weathered the storm. Britain herself was leading the world in return to prosperity and had won the respect and admiration of the world in pointing the way back to normal. The Rt. Honourable Ramsay MacDonald, the great Prime Minister of Great Britain, who honored our province during the past summer with a brief visit had nevertheless strengthened the ties that bound us to the mother country. It was because of such statesmen, because of the British people, that England enjoyed her proud position among the nations of the world. For them, where the honor of their country was at stake, no sacrifice was too great they willingly and cheerfully carried burdens and submitted to taxation that would cause a revolution in most countries, and England the country that gave, sacrificed and suffered so much from the World War still carried on with the same dauntless spirit as in the days of Drake, Nelson and Wellington.

Canada had also weathered the storm and met every obligation according to contract, in spite of the unCanadian, unpatriotic prattlings of those who even in these tense days would belittle their country's efforts towards recovery with a selfish hope of gaining some petty political advantage. There was, however, much encouragement, in that employment was increasing, trade was expanding and the national revenues were greater. And among all the provinces of the Dominion none had come through in better shape than N. B. Her credit was unimpaired, her bonds were selling at a high figure, her financial condition was sound and with conditions surely and steadily improving her people would give credit to those men who had so successfully guided the Ship of State through troubled waters.

Good Showin'g

While conditions were not yet all that could be wished for, he thought the Tilley Government had made a highly creditable showing and had nothing to be ashamed of. He believed that the serious minded people of the province were coming to realize and appreciate that fact and were inclined to sympathize with, rather than condemn, the men entrusted with the grave and serious responsibility of Government.

Much had been heard about the deficit, but thinking men would realize that under existing conditions the maintenance of the public services and the relief measures necessary, with the tremendously falling revenues, it was impossible to balance the budget. The only way it could have been done would have been to cut down on services and would the people have approved that? What Department could have eliminated, would it have been the Department of Health? the Department of Agriculture? the Public Works Department or the Attorney General? He ventured to say that the people would not have agreed to the elimination of a single one. The costs of administering these various Departments had been cut to the bone, members of the Government had spent days and weeks and sleepless nights figuring and refiguring cutting down every where to make a saving.

There had been unforeseen, uncontrollable expenditures during the past year due to the fire hazard and flood damages to the roads, but at that this province had come through with a smaller deficit than any other in Canada with the single exception of Prince Edward Island. Quebec, the great wealthy Liberal province, to which friends opposite looked for guidance and from which came their strength, had a deficit last year of five millions and a half of dollars and was budgeting this year for deficit of two and a quarter million. Saskatchewan had a deficit of seven millions and a half of dollars and the sister province of Nova Scotia, he was informed, was budgeting for a deficit of about a million, four hundred thousand dollars. Those deficits could not be blamed on the Conservative Government, yet gentlemen opposite would have us believe that the only reason there was a deficit in N. B. was because a Conservative Government was in power despite the fact that right down through the picture, from British Columbia to Quebec and in Nova Scotia, was found a much larger deficit than in N. B. and it was a fact that it was two Conservative provinces in the Dominion that made the best financial showing.

He wondered how much better the Opposition would have done had they had to carry the burden during the years of financial turmoil. Judging from past experience it would have been just too bad for the people of this province. The present Opposition had had their opportunity during the years 1917 to 1925, when there was no depression, when revenues were buoyant, yet then not in any one year did they balance their budget or declare a surplus. They kept piling up deficits year after year and the year that they relinquished power they left a deficit of over seven hundred thousand dollars plus the interest on the Valley Railway and this when times were good. With such a record, what would they have done under immediate past conditions? The answer was obvious. Yet, the hon. leader of the Opposition said last Tuesday that if returned to power he would balance the budget—a good joke—and would be accepted by the people for what it was worth.

GOOD ROADS

A result of the road policy carried on by the Government since 1925, this province is conceded to have the best gravel roads in Canada. Such roads cost money; they could not be widened, straightened and ditched for nothing and the money spent on them went largely into the pockets of the working men of the province.

The public demand was for safer roads than the gravel type afforded. To be safe a road must be dustless, for dust was a menace to health and life and, if the province was to take advantage of the possible tourist trade she could attract, the main trunk roads must be made more safe and pleasant to drive upon.

The Government had started and would carry on a hard surface road policy as the best means of overcoming the dust menace, and because they would be much more economical in the long run than to attempt to maintain gravel roads under heavy traffic. He felt that no matter what might be the opinion of friends opposite regarding hard surface roads that the public as a whole looked with approval on them and consider their construction, a wise, sane, economic, progressive and business-like policy.

He wished to state that, when the accomplishment of the Tilley Government were considered, it had no apologies to make, it was not on the defensive but very much on the offensive, proud of its energetic, capable Premier of its unparalleled accomplishments in the interests of the people of the province during the most difficult times in which any administration had ever been called upon to govern.

The premier had been rightly termed the friend of the laboring man. No previous Premier had ever taken such a friendly, personal interest in labor. The new Mining Act stood in evidence; also the Forest Operation Commission Act under which men were coming out of the woods this spring with a reasonable amount of money in their pockets, where last year they were coming out without money and often in debt to their employers.

The Department of Agriculture had been active during the year and the newly formed Marketing Board had also some accomplishments to its credit and, with the co-operation of the men and securing her "peace and quiet" Minty and her maid, Fanny, are the potato growers of the province. Prices for hay, butter, pork, eggs and Miss Tillington and then by the mysterious actions of Peter and Grace. Near the opening of the play Peter still at distressingly low figures. He is found unconscious in the garden and brought into the house, soon to unpotatoes and that it was beyond the unexplainably disappear. When Miss Tillington discovers his presence in than were actually needed for consumption. Cuba had discovered that it could grow table potatoes for itself Peter and Grace are discovered by the forgetful Mr. Kent as his children,

"UP AT MINTY'S" PUT ON WELL BY H. S. STUDENTS

Under Direction of K. C. Bishop, Comedy Farce Play Proved Entertaining, Successful; Valence Specialty Good.

The students of the Fredericton High School distinguished themselves last evening in putting on a well-chosen comedy-farce, "Up at Minty's" in the auditorium of the high school building which was well attended by students and citizens. The play, which was under the able direction of K. C. Bishop, earned the well-merited applause of the audience.

Besides the main play a specialty number titled "Old Fashioned Valentines", was attractively put on under the direction of Miss Pearl Ross, one of the high school teaching staff. The set of scenery used in the main play was built in the school and under the supervision of F. H. Wetmore, another of the high school staff, and not only was expense saved in this connection, but ingenuity of teacher and students was shown in its construction. The student committee in charge of the evening's entertainment were Fred Flewelling, Harold Tait, Paul Hatt, Bert Burgess, Alden Hay, and George Nason. The proceeds are in aid of school athletics.

"Up at Minty's" as most comedies used in high school and amateur dramatics had its failings and its faults and the usual superficiality of plot; (we have often wondered why better dramas have never been selected for amateur theatricals) but a strikingly good cast, and able direction made last night's high school drama a finely presented one, and it had a lot of uproarious moments, and some of the acting was quite clever.

Miss Ann Howie as "Fanny", and John Duffie as "Mr. Kent" were the touchstones of most of the comic interludes with Miss Dorothy Gilmour and Mac Logan furnishing the youthful romantic interest in very capable performance. Miss Gilmour, dark-haired and winsome, was an enthralling little actress in the feminine lead. Miss Charlotte Montgomery as Miss Tillington was fittingly severe and "efficient" and Miss Mary Barker was responsive and graceful as Peter's (Mac Logan) sister. Miss Mary Neville, who is last named on the cast was far from least and her performance had ease and confidence. As the serene Mrs. Dean, sister-in-law and house-keeper of the eccentric Mr. Kent, Miss Neville played her part flawlessly. On the whole it was a superlative cast.

The story or plot of "Up at Minty's" is concerned chiefly with some melodramatic and exciting incidents which occur at Minty's Cottage, the scene being laid in Meadow Bank in Derbyshire, England. The three acts are all laid in the cottage—a June Morning, early evening and later evening being the times of the acts. "Minty" (Dorothy Gilmour) has come to Meadowbrook from London to seek "peace and quiet" and "to get rid of men", superb comedian, accompanys her. Her maid, Fanny (Ann Howie) is a "Minty's" quiet and peace is disturbed upon the arrival of Miss Tillington (Charlotte Montgomery) who has come to reform her niece and to investigate ugly London rumors about her and her suitors. Subsequently Miss Tillington is conquered in love by the oddly mannered Mr. Kent (John Duffie brought down the house several times with his quaint presentation of his lines) but not before a lot of things happen.

Peter (Mac Logan) does a lot of jumping about and acrobatic manoeuvres in the Minty Cottage, also does his sister (Mary Barker) before both finally turn out to be the children of Mr. Kent. Instead of getting rid of things happen. thereby clearing up that part of the mystery it is also found that the mysterious unconsciousness of Peter in the garden was caused by being hit on the head by one of his father's golf balls, which that forgetful gentleman had finally remembered "driving". Meanwhile Peter has become enamored of Minty and Miss Tillington finds she has a feeling for Mr. Kent. The way is made clear for her marrying the gentleman by Mrs. Dean (Mary Neville) (continued on page three)

THE PARASITE

Many men, women and children sufferers are being treated for other diseases without results, when their real trouble is the tape-worm. Sure signs of it is the passage of small particles of the parasite. Suggestive signs: loss of appetite with occasional greediness, coated tongue, heartburn, pain in stomach and intestines, pain in back and limbs, dizziness, headaches, exhaustion, feeling faint with stomach empty, emaciated, dark rings under the eyes. The process of digestion are usually interfered with. The patient becomes irritable and restless at night. There is much dizziness, raising of constant obstruction in throat, gnawing sensation in stomach with voracious appetite—and at times loathing of sight of food. The breath becomes offensive, the face flushed—at other times very pale; heaving as if something were moving in the bowels; heartburn with palpitation; obscure pains in the limbs; delusions of the senses; defection of the speech; sudden colic, inomia; Melancholia, hysteria and some authors claim epileptic fits and even insanity.

These monster parasites, the size of which, it is claimed, sometimes reach as high as 45-50 feet, must be eliminated from the system—at all costs. Only with the greatest possible precaution and skill can they be removed from the system, however. But to allow a tapeworm to live untampered in the human body is almost akin to taking small doses of poison, increasing same daily—until the patient actually commits suicide—figuratively speaking. The formula of Tanex is used for the elimination of this terrible monster—And most successfully in obstinate cases Tanex is prepared to such manner that it cannot harm any of the sensitive internal parts of the human system, and may be safely given in proportional parts to children. Tanex is not harmful in the sense that it may poison the individual harboring a tapeworm—nor is its effects harmful on those who take it where there is no worm. Tanex does not kill the monster tapeworm, as killing it necessarily means the taking of poisons in sufficient quantities to poison the patient. Tanex renders the worm insensible only, so that it loses its power to grasp on and hold to the intestines. The purgative ingredients in Tanex then quickly eliminate it. Great care must be exercised, however, to permit its passage in accordance with the directions (sent from Tanex), otherwise the head may re-enter the alimentary canal—which means that another dosage will be necessary.

Tanex may be taken any morning and as it leaves no effects at all, will not necessitate the staying away from work. One hour is required for it to attain full effect.

Tanex is not sold in drug stores—to insure absolute freshness to the patient. Nor is it sent C.O.D. The treatment costs 5.00, with full instructions. If you want to be rid of this monster parasite—send for Tanex today. Sold only by the Royal Laboratory, 768 Royal Bldg., Box 104, Windsor, Ont. (Clip this ad out now and put it away, it may come in very handy some day. Show it to some ailing friend—he may become forever grateful to you for doing so).
