YOUNG STARS

BOSTON, Sept. 10-When the Red Sox foregather next spring at Saratoga, there will be a goodly gathering of young fellows, in addition to the more mature veterans, judged by the wholesale manner in which General Manager Eddie Collins is plucking embryo stars from here and there. Several of these youngsters had the good fortune to be at Saratoga this spring, but due to lack of experience and one thing and another they were tagged to the various Red Sox farms or clubs with whom the Yankees have a working agreement.

One of these youngsters, whose purchase was announced yesterday, is hailed as a budding star. He is John Kroner, who held down third base for the Syracuse club this season and defied the rough, tough boys of the loop to get around him. In fact, most of those who did get by him were forced to fight every inch of the way. John, according to General Manager Collins, who saw him in action, has what it takes. He's big, strong, and rugged. He's much on the Pepper Mar- DR. J. C. McMULLEN tin style. When he plays ball he gets right down to the fundamentals. He believes in getting close to the ground.
