A WOMAN'S LIFE

When a woman's been a-workin'
Makin' garden all day long
With chicken scratchin' in it
And everything goes wrong—
When beans a-cookin' on the stove
For a hasty dinner snack
Boil dry, while you're a-workin'
And burn 'til they are black.
When you rush in through the kitchen door,
Your dress snags on a tack,
And then it rips from neck to hem
The whole way down the back.
When you rush to set the table
And drop a dish ker-plup!
The sweat runs down your forehead
And you feel like you will drop.
Then you trip yourself upon the rug
And crash down on the floor,
Of all the troubles that you've had,
You know "there ain't no more."

But for every morn there's evenin',
With the lights a-burnin' low,
And you kiss away a small one's tears,
Or wrap up a stubbed toe.
Then when you tuck 'em into bed
And kiss 'em all "goodnight,"
When all the little prayers are said
You know that things are right.
In the dusk you sit a-thinkin'
When you feel your ole man's hand
A'holdin' tight your fingers,
And you say, "Aint life just grand?"
—Edith Arle.

After a survey of 32 cities covering the four-month period ending July 15, the Department said the principal items purchased by this consumer group 2.7 per cent above their June 1934 cost; and eight per cent above June 1933. Food costs increased in 20 of the 32 cities.

It pays to advertise in The Daily Mail.

Political Meetings Held Last Night

Meetings in the interests of the three federal candidates in the field in the constituency were held last night throughout York and Sunbury Counties.

Hon. R. B. Hanson addressed a large meeting at Marysville last night. Elbridge Harrison was chairman. Ald. C. Hedley Forbes also spoke.

Ald. Forbes spoke briefly on the issues of the campaign and recommended the whole-hearted support of the electors of Marysville be given to the Hon. R. B. Hanson.

Hon. R. B. Hanson turning his attention to Federal issues, pointed out to the electors that "while the Hon. H. H. Stevens had received a great deal of publicity from the Price Spreads Commission, he would point out that his Commission had been set up by the authority of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, as the leader of the Conservative party in Canada, and, as far as was constitutionally possible, on the advice of the best legal talent in Canada, the recommendations of the Royal Commission had been implemented by the Conservative Government. The unfair trade practices which had made this Royal Commission necessary had largely grown up under the regime of King in the years 1921 to 1930". He warned the electors that they must not think that the Government had not been conscious of the fact that there had been unfair trade practices, and twenty-six different Acts of Parliament contain provisions which dealt with unfair trade practices long before Mr. Stevens ever raised his complaint.

Replying to certain criticism levelled against Mr. Bennett, he said that Mr. Bennett had kept every one of his promises except one and that was the promise that he would put all the people of Canada to work. This promise was made in 1930 in relation to the circumstances of those times and no one at that time visualized the depth of the depression. This pledge was made in good faith and has been fulfilled as far as humanly possible.

Dealing with the textile industry in Canada he pointed out that 25,000 textile workers in Canada owe their living to the Conservative policy. This means the livelihood of about 100,000 people. Canadian textiles are in close competition with Japanese goods. Low wages in Japan, ranging from 3 1/2 cents to 7 cents an hour, make it possible for Japan to produce more cheaply than our own industries. As a consequence this Government is faced with the alternative of placing depreciated currency duties and dumping duties in force against that country to protect home industry, or else allowing Japanese cottons to usurp our markets, which would mean the closing down of the industry in Canada. The Government adopted the former course. The Conservative Government, to preserve our cotton industry here, have found it necessary to protect home industry against Lancashire cottons. Mr. King says he is going to wipe that out. He is going to increase the British preference by fifty per cent of the general tariff, which will mean that one-half of the industrial life of Canada will be wiped out. The Liberal Party pussyfoot a good deal about this thing.
