THE FREDERICTON EXHIBITION

The Fredericton Exhibition officially opens this evening. Year after year since the first exhibition that was ever held in the Capital people from all over the province have looked forward to the coming of the exhibition and have flocked to the Capital during exhibition days. To visit the various exhibits is to acquire much valuable information. The people from the rural districts and the people of cities and towns have the advantage of exchanging of ideas and of their wares. To visit the exhibition properly requires several hours. Each booth and exhibit represents thought and labor on the part of the exhibitor which are well worthy of notice. The intelligent citizen should learn something of the various departments which contain something of interest to young and old. Parents and teachers are given an opportunity of giving their children and pupils many an object lesson. The directors have for months been giving of their best to make the affair a success so that the annual exhibition has become a national event in the province.

SALT HIGHWAYS

In 1927, A. R. Chambers of New Glasgow, N. S., sought a solution to the dust problem of highways in that district. He knew that, for many years the ceramic industry had made use of common salt to improve the drying properties of clay and that the practice of salt-glazing at high temperatures was known to the ancient potters of Egypt and Arabia. As far as he could learn no effort had been made to apply the chemical reaction between salt and clay to other fields. As the Nova Scotia highways were, in most cases, of clay and macadam, Mr. Chambers suggested that the common salt principle might be applied in the construction of inexpensive roads.

In 1928 and 1929, he actually constructed short stretches of highway near Truro and Elmsdale which proved to his satisfaction that the application of salt did much to solve the dust problem. His discovery eventually caught the attention of United States highway experts.

The State of Michigan and the United States government as well as highway construction experts from Ontario have been looking into the practical application of the salt highways, and it has been made known that the salt industry in Canada has decided to continue research and tests in this country. Thus eight years after his original tests, and with Sir Malcolm Campbell paying tribute to the surface qualities of the old Salt Lake bed in Utah, Mr. Chambers gains recognition as a contributor to highway science, with his work proving a boon to road builders and road-users alike.

BLUEBERRY CULTURE

Considerable interest is being evinced in the possibilities of the introduction of the commercial culture of blueberries into the Dominion. In the United States blueberry culture is a new and thriving industry. At the present time in Canada there are three experimental plantings in Nova Scotia and a small planting of cultivated varieties at the Central Experimental Farm Ottawa. Form the work done in Nova Scotia particularly at the Dominion Experimental Station at Kentville during the past few years, it would appear that blueberry culture in Canada offers considerable possibilities to the grower. Most of the varieties grown are hardy, comparatively free from disease and pests, and properly handled may be depended upon to give a good yield of large berries. It has also been reported from Yarmouth, N. S., that a small consignment of cultivated blueberries shipped from one of the plantings there brought 45 cents per quart during the past year. There are certain conditions to successful culture, of course. The soil for blueberries, for example, is important, and it is necessary to have rigorous new wood produced every year. The drainage must be good and to the same time retain a liberal moisture supply. How these main points are best dealt with, together with the latest knowledge on planting, preparation for planting, cultivation, fertilizers, pruning and propagation, usefully explained in a booklet "Blueberry Culture," just issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SNAPSHOTS

What about the lady who exchanged the silk stockings yesterday at a local store. She did not like the shade but that was a bad give away on the man friend.

The clerks are not so dumb.

We hope that the Exhibition authorities will keep a sharp lookout on the faker's row this year. It is up to the police to give these chaps the run.

The live stock exhibited this year will be welcome. Their absence last year made the Exhibition as flat as a pancake.

Last year entire strangers from outside points went to the Exhibition on complimentary tickets and those who helped to boost the fair got the small end of the stick.

We will bet on Earl MacDonald as the candidate for the Stevens party. He will be selected tonight.

According to The Daily Mail resident correspondent at Ottawa the Liberal party will not fall for the Union Government scheme. They have a sure thing as it is.

Head-on Automobile Accident Takes Life

Four Others Injured

In addition to Miss Peters four others were injured in last night's accident, none of them critically. Fred H. Peters suffered injuries to his hand and leg and received treatment at the Victoria Hospital along with A. E. Davenport, driver of the American car, who suffered a fractured arm; Mrs. Davenport who suffered cuts about the face, and Miss Davenport received minor injuries.

Miss Kathleen Wade, of this city, who was in the Peters' car was uninjured. All received attention at the hospital here last night.

The Davenports were enroute, it is said, to Newcastle, where Mrs. Davenport's mother is critically ill.

A Popular Lady

The late Miss Frances Peters was born in Stanley and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George S. Peters, her father having been a justice of the peace in this city at one time. Miss Peters was very well known and deservedly popular. She taught school for many years in Carleton and York counties and since her retirement had resided with Fred H. Peters, her brother, on Charlotte street.

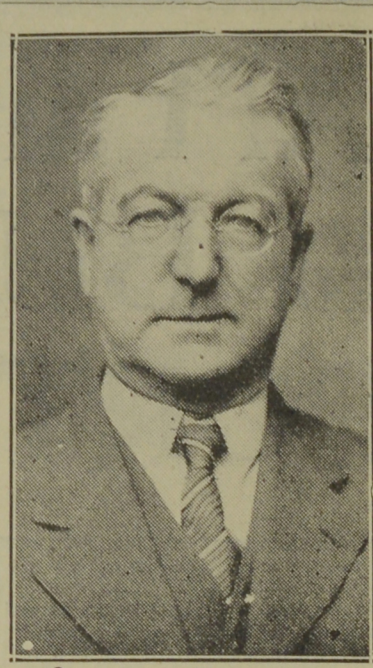

The tragedy which took the life of this well known Fredericton lady is a sad one and the sympathy of friends is being extended to Mr. Peters, and to Miss Annie Peters, a sister, who also resides in this city.

Funeral Monday

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon with service from the late home, 158 Charlotte street at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. G. W. Guion will conduct the service and interment will be made at the Rural cemetery.

At the time of the accident Miss Peters was convalescing from a year's serious illness and her brother, Fred Peters last evening was taking her for a short drive outside the city.

Monday is Children's Day at the Fredericton Exhibition. Don't forget to bring the kiddies!

HIS WORSHIP MAYOR W. G. CLARK, who will deliver an address of welcome at tonight's Exhibition Opening.

Central Kingsclear

CENTRAL KINGSCLEAR, N. B., Sept. 7 — The farmers of this vicinity complain of their early potatoes being very small and a shortage of crop on account of the dry weather all summer.

The funeral of Mrs. Lotty Fox was held here at her home Thursday with a large number in attendance. The Rev. Mr. Corey was in charge, assisted by Harold Rolley.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hues and young son from Portland, Maine, were here for the funeral and Miss Fanny Fox, accompanied Mr. Hues back to his home where she will spend a few weeks.

Mrs. Z. McCarthy who has been spending her vacation with her parents of this place, has returned home.

Mr. F. W. Foster, who has been for the last few weeks holding revival meetings at Lakeville Corner and Mauderville and other parts of that vicinity, has returned and on his way home he visited his old friends, the Kilburns one day this week.

Mrs. H. W. Kilburn was the guest of Miss Anna Cliff one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Owens and young son motored to Portland, Maine to spend a week with Mrs. Owen's brother of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trail, Mr. and Mrs. James Dunphy went on a motor trip to Boston, the White Mountains, and other parts and on their way they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wayman of Portland, Maine, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunphy.

Mr. J. C. True from Miami, Florida, was the guest of Mrs. Hedley Kilburn on Monday of this week. His wife is a cousin of Mrs. Kilburn.

Wheat Price Fixing

Ottawa, Sept. 7—The fixing of wheat price at 87½ cents or 3½ cents above market is taken in the Capital as definitely branding new Canadian wheat board as political.

During operations of wheat pools, working on money borrowed from banks, financial institutions insisted on fifteen cent margin, that pools should not pay out an advance of more than this margin. If market price was 75 cents, the pools were required not to pay out as advance to the farmers more than 60 per cent.
