SOMETHING WRONG

Our educational system is rapidly coming into the classification in which Mark Twain once placed the weather—everyone talks about it but no one does anything. The practice of forcing all the great variety of intellect, character and personality found in any group of children into the one mould cannot expect to obtain satisfactory results; the wonder is that the poor kids do so well, when probably three-quarters of them will never make any practical use of the knowledge forced on them. The boy with a bent for machinery, the high-minded youth with a zeal for public service, the young man whose mental equipment qualifies him for a profession, and the Tom, Dick or Harry who will be a clerk or a factory worker—all take the one standardized dose of the three R's without the slightest consideration, much less attention, being given to individual talent.

Perhaps the day is coming soon—let's hope it will—when public opinion will demand serious study of this question so that something can be done in the way of classifying pupils according to choice of vocation and the particular talent of each one, as nearly as the latter can be ascertained by tests and questioning. The cost of launching an entire program at present is prohibitive, but at least a start might be made in attempting to give young people practical knowledge by which they can help earn their living.—Saint Croix Courier.

POPULAR DELUSIONS

South Sea Bubbles, Ponzis and other agencies have left their trail as conjurers of popular delusions that something may be procured for nothing, and now the province of Alberta has joined the immortals in electing a legislature almost entirely composed of deluded souls who plan a straight gift of $225 a month to the citizens who may need it, or who may convince the bursars that they should have it. It is reported that 400,000 are eligible to provincial largess, requiring $10,000,000 a month. The theorists blandly plan to fix prices, wage conditions, doles and set up a Utopia that would make the Dr. Townsends green with envy.

The hitches, however, are twin; first, the estimated money requirements far exceed the revenue of the province; and secondly, the Canadian government controls banking and currency, in tight laws that no province can flout.

The awakening will come quickly, in Alberta, as the enthusiastic and expectant hordes learn that wealth and prosperity and comfort cannot be created by ukase, however kindly meant.

The ancient Scottish doctrine holds in Alberta, as on every spot of the earth — "Nothing for nothing, and precious little for a ha'penny."

Mob mind, mass delusion is natural phenomena; like measles, popular madness must run its course.

YOUTHFUL ENTHUSIASM

A police judge in Chicago, hearing the cases of two girls charged with picketing a relief station and finding that the University of Chicago, threatens to subpoena President Hutchins "to find out what they're teaching these girls out there".

Political jurists are swift to learn that the uses of publicity are sweet, particularly in fields as available as the suspected nursing of the Red viper in our schools—an issue lately aired in Chicago to no very clear conclusion. The assumption on which these hunts proceeds is that a school subscribes to every political philosophy it attempts to deal with. It is never suggested that the impressionable student may adopt the new gospel without persuasion on the faculty's part.

It comes to us that in our own time, many an undergraduate was sold on Socialism for the period of his college term, and preached it in dormitory and dining room and from the front steps—Socialism being the nearest equivalent to Communism then at hand to capture the rebellious fancy. As a rule the compromise of these early convictions with the existing order was complete in ten years, and at the age of 32 he had either gone to Russia — which happened now and then—or joined the ruling classes.

It is important to know what the schools are teaching, but there is a difference between describing a political creed and prescribing it. In the latter instance, some students will still succumb to its charm, as some do to measles. By 1945, it is safe to predict, the majority of this year's crop of patients will have been cured of both.

NO PARLIAMENT

It is pointed out by an Exchange that in the event of a war it would be necessary for Dominion Parliament to endorse any measure by which Canada could take part. Dominion Parliament is now dissolved and there can be no Parliament until after October 14.

SNAPSHOTS

Some one delivered a lecture locally a few months ago on the Einstein theory. There was not a person in the audience at the University who understood what it was all about. It is probable that the lecturer himself may have some idea.

The summer visitors are beginning to return to their homes.

There are a number of young men watching for the Normal School girls but they are not half anxious about "the trainers" as were we youths of the "Gay Nineties".

Tom Doherty used to always have a good-looking girl in those old days. So did Thaw, Doherty and Billy Walsh.

Speaking of the Gay Nineties, who remembers when Billy Two Saw used to stand on Dibblee's Corner with a long pole.

Two Fredericton lawyers met accidentally on a New York street a few days. That's the way lawyers will meet in heaven—accidentally.

At midnight tonight we will be back on the old time. Too bad.

On Monday next all roads will lead to the Liberal picnic.

Everybody and everybody else are going.

We have heard little of Dr. Einstein since he and the space-is-the-same-as-matter theory went aground on that sand bar.

We bet it was for more rain that Halie Selassie was praying.

Moncton mosquitoes had a great harvest this week feeding on Fredericton golfers. Visitors to Moncton say that there was not a single mosquito there. They were all married and had large families.

Dr. A. G. Bailey Appointed Member of Museum Staff

Friends here will learn with pleasure of the appointment of Dr. Alfred Goldsworthy Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Bailey, formerly of this city, as a member of the museum staff at Saint John, assisting Dr. William MacIntosh, the director of the historical department.

Dr. Bailey will give assistance in the field of history. He has made a special study of the early history of the Maritimes and it is hoped that his assignment to the museum staff will make possible a considerable extension of the educational work.

Dr. Bailey's parents are now residing in Quebec and his father has resumed the use of the hereditary family title of Baron d'Avray. His grandfather, the late Professor L. W. Bailey was for 47 years an active member of the faculty of the University of New Brunswick. Dr. Bailey himself holds the degree of B. A. from the U. N. B., and also has studied at Toronto University.

Dr. Bailey has been appointed by the committee administering the Canadian Educational Fund of the Carnegie Corporation to work in the museum's historical department so that it will be more readily available for teaching purposes. From the Carnegie Corporation the museum has received the very generous grant of $3,800 a year for three years to devote to educational work. During the past year, through the operation of this grant, schools in every county of the province have received helpful educational material.

Big Liberal Picnic On Labor Day

1.30 p.m., from Rowley Manzer's store and Percy Long's drug store. In Devon, the cars will leave at 1.30 p.m., from Art's Service Station and P. S. Watson's store. From Nashwaaksis, the cars will leave at 1.30 p.m., from J. V. Johnston's store and from Hanson's Corner at Barker's Point at 1.30 o'clock.

The Women's Liberal Club held a meeting last night at which arrangements were made for the picnic and committees appointed to look after the various items for the picnic.

Each ceremony is carefully planned and intelligently administered. And each service is a fair-minded business arrangement. We believe that no tribute should be exacted from those who grieve.

Albertans Confused Over Fin. Condition

and Premier-elect, stated that there was no need for alarm.

"The financial position of the province is sound and any unrest that has led to a drop in bond prices or abnormal demand for payment of provincial savings certificates is entirely unwarranted. We are here to give Alberta a strong, sound and stable government and to maintain the credit of the country.

"That is our chief concern." He scouted the idea that the Government would be unable to cope with the situation when it assumes power and urged that patience be exercised by the people.

"It is too early yet for me to make any statement on the finances of the province. I will have to wait until I am acquainted myself with these matters after September 3," he concluded.

EDMONTON, Aug. 30—After a day spent inspecting the offices where he will draft his Social Credit legislation, William Aberhart headed back for Calgary today where he will devote the weekend to consider the Cabinet slate. He will return on Tuesday when he will be sworn in as Premier of Alberta and leader of the first Social Credit Government in the world.

From early morning until late at night Aberhart was busy yesterday interviewing all sorts of people, ranging from Lieutenant-Governor Walsh and Premier Reid to newsboys and unemployed who rushed up to him on the street. He was scheduled today to meet some of his supporters from the north end of the province, then to drive back to Calgary.

It was learned definitely last night that Premier Bennett will be opposed in his federal constituency of West Calgary by a Social Credit candidate. The party, flushed by success provincially, will contest each of the 17 federal seats in Alberta. If local associations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan ask for assistance, organizers will be sent into those provinces and candidates endorsed.

Walter N. London, with his two young sons, Walter, Jr., and Charles arrived from Boston today and is visiting his cousin, Roland Wheeler at Springhill. Mr. London who is buyer for the well-known firm of Jordan Marsh, Limited, is an annual visitor to his old home here and is being warmly welcomed by many old friends.
