Crisis Passed In Anglo-Italian Relations Indicated

"All Doors not Shut to Peaceful Settlement," Was Hint Thrown Out from Rome.

"Conversations in normal diplomatic channels are proceeding between Paris and Rome and Paris and London," said the communique. "There is nothing specific at the moment, but the fact the conversations are proceeding shows all doors are not shut."

Simultaneously, a government spokesman conceded that a long conversation this afternoon between Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador and Premier Mussolini likely had served to ease the tension.

(An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome said it was rumored the conversations had resulted in an agreement whereby some of Great Britain's additional warships in the Mediterranean would be replaced by French craft in return for reduction of Italian troops in Libya.)

See Crisis Passed
The terse official communique was regarded in Rome generally as an indication the crisis in Anglo-Italian relations has passed.

Italians were gratified to learn Great Britain had indicated to Premier Laval that the British government did not contemplate application of sanctions, singlehandedly against Italy, but would stick to collective action with other members of the League.

There was considerable speculation in informed circles whether a prospective simultaneous withdrawal of British naval reinforcements in the Mediterranean and Italian troops in Libya may have been the subject of conversations today between Mr. Duce and the British ambassador.

It was recalled, however, that only yesterday a government spokesman said Italian troops had been sent to the North African colony because of native unrest on the frontier and that the number of troops could not be reduced without jeopardizing the security of the colony.

MINISTER URGES HUNTERS TO BE CAREFUL IN WOODS

With the hunting season under way in New Brunswick, preventive measures designed to minimize hunting accidents are urged upon all who contemplate entering the woods by Hon. F. W. Pirie, Minister of Lands and Mines.

The primary precaution cited by the Minister today is that of making absolutely sure of your target before shooting. Be sure you are shooting at a game animal and not a human being before pulling the trigger. Even if you let a game animal escape you through being uncertain, it is better than blazing away without being sure. A mistake may cost a human life.

Then there are also a number of protective measures which any hunter may adopt to good advantage. These pertain to the matter of dress and the careful handling of firearms. During open seasons no person should enter the woods unless clad in red shirt or jacket and red cap. Red is a color that cannot be confused with the color of any animal and the long range over which it is visible is a further safeguard to the wearer.

Breeches, trousers or leggings of fawn or other light color are dangerous articles of apparel. In the mind of some excitable hunters not overly endowed with the quality of deliberateness a pair of human legs clad in such colors may easily be identified as those of a deer and the urge to shoot first and investigate afterward may be irresistible.

I. O. D. E. OFFERS TWO PRIZES FOR PRESS CLIPPINGS

Prizes to be Given For Newspaper Clippings Concerning Work of Order.

A prize for the best scrap book dealing with the work of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire for 1935-36, and a prize for the best press clipping telling of any meeting of a primary chapter throughout the year are being offered by the New Brunswick provincial chapter.

For the first competition, it is preferred that the standard I. O. D. E. scrap book be used, and the entries will be judged for originality, clearness, arrangement, conciseness and the value of the information contained. That information may be in the form of any article, clipping, memento or photograph referring to the activity of the order as a whole, exclusive of the activities of other primary chapters.

For the press clipping competition, the report of any chapter meeting except the annual meeting will be acceptable. The clippings will be judged for their literary value and also for the amount of information which they give concerning the work of the order and the chapter's part in it. The clippings should record work done rather than social activities except when they affect the object to be achieved and the funds secured for that object it was stated.

The offering of the two prizes was decided on at the semi-annual meeting of the provincial chapter held recently in St. Andrews.

The scrap book and press clipping which win the provincial awards will be entered in the Canada-wide contest sponsored by the national chapter.

National chapter news received in the province tells of the formation of five new chapters, the opening of four new classrooms and the installation of 30 new desks in the new wing of St. Helena's School, Poona, India; the publication of a new book, "Plays and Pageants", containing I. O. D. E. prize plays for Canadian schools, and arrangements for holding headquarters to receive the red Christmas stockings in which chapters will forward special contributions to the endowment fund. In the last year, more than 3,500 naturalization cards were presented by the order to new Canadians, and recently there were added to the order's advisory board Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, president of the University of Western Ontario; Dr. H. P. Whidden, chancellor of McMaster University; J. Preudhomme, K. C., and Hon. W. J. Major, attorney-general, Winnipeg and Wilfrid Bovey and W. C. Hodgson, Montreal.

For a similar reason all white or light colored handkerchiefs or scarfs are warned against. Display of a white handkerchief in the woods bears a dangerous resemblance to the flag of a deer on the run and here again a fatal shot may result. Only bright or dark colored handkerchiefs should be used on the hunting trips.

A departmental regulation regarding hunting accidents is as follows: "Hunting License shall not be issued for a period of from two to five years to hunters who cause injury to another person."

The Abattoir

The Daily Mail was the first paper to boost the establishment of an abattoir in this locality. This paper pointed out all the advantages both to and for the farmer and for the city dweller that would accrue from the establishment of such a plant in our midst. Others saw the point and the matter was then taken up by both the City and the County Council and endorsed by them. The establishment of this necessary utility was got underway.

Within the last few days the report got about that there was a possibility of the plant being established in the west end of the city well within the city limits and not far from the area embraced by Smythe, Aberdeen, Charlotte and other streets. The residents of these localities immediately began to hear the noise and smell the odors which might possibly emanate from such an establishment. These residents also began to figure out that locating the abattoir in the proposed field would lower the value of residential property and would be unjust and unreasonable to these people.

There was the devil to pay when the people out there thought that they were to be located, as they said, "Alongside of a slaughter house."

Yesterday afternoon The Daily Mail got busy and pointed out the objectionable features connected with locating the abattoir at the area mentioned. This morning Mr. Neugard, one of the promoters, told us that today he went out to the site suggested and that if there was any objection on the part of the residents of that locality that the plant would not be located uptown at all. Mr. Neugard came to see us and seemed anxious to please the residents. He stated that the abattoir might be located at the lower end of the city.

He said the objection against the abattoir regarding noises and smells were imaginary. There would, he said, be no noises or smell and it would be a place where tourists would like to visit. In fact, it would be as pleasant as a flower garden.

There is one thing about the plant—if there is too much objection about it being located in Fredericton it will be located in Saint John. It would be too bad if Fredericton were to lose this plant on account of imaginary objections on the part of the people who do not know what a real live honest-to-goodness abattoir looks like. On the other hand, no person wants one stuck up along side of his home.

So there you are. We should have the abattoir and it should be away from our front doors even if it was as sweet smelling as the rose.

PREMIER LOOKS FOR IMPROVED CONDITIONS

Premier A. A. Dysart indicated confidence that employment conditions in Northumberland County will be improved following a conference here yesterday with the government and crown land lease holders and lumber operators of that county. It was impressed on the government yesterday by the municipal delegations from Northumberland and Gloucester counties that the unemployment situation in those counties is acute. The delegations urged a stimulation of the lumber industry. The conference lasted over two hours.

The government will ascertain firsthand information on the lumber situation, with prospects for the coming season and it is likely that further meetings of this kind will be held soon. No other announcements were forthcoming after yesterday's meeting.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKS CITIES IN MONTANA

HELENA, Montana, Oct. 19 — A severe earthquake, the sixtieth of a series, shook Helena at 9:47 o'clock last night. Store fronts toppled into the street as citizens, panic-stricken, rushed into the open.

Profiteering To Be Prevented By League Nations

207 TEACHERS ATTEND SUSSEX MEETING

A. T. Patstone, Rothesay, New President of Kings - Queens Institute.

SUSSEX, Oct. 19—With 207 teachers in attendance, the third session of the 51st annual meeting of the Teachers' Institute for the counties of Kings and Queens was held in the school assembly hall here yesterday with the retiring president, Miss Ina V. Brien, in the chair.

Prof. C. A. Krug, of Mount Allison University, addressed the institute on "Mental Hygiene for Teachers."

Some rules for mental health Prof. Krug said, were: First, "know the kind of a person you are; discover the things you can do best and which give you the most satisfaction in doing them and then do them as often as you can." Second, "be a realist. See things only as they are. Do not waste your time and energy day-dreaming of what you would do if you were somebody else. Take no thought of the morrow. Live and act now, doing what you have to do today as well as you can. Learn to accept the inevitable." Third, "be social. Don't withdraw yourself from social life no matter what demands of conduct are imposed on you. Withdrawing from social life is to lose life itself. If you think you are inferior ask yourself in what actual ways you are. Never accept a personal rating of yourself. Realize that most of us are ordinary people and that you are not unlikely to be an exception." Fourth, "finally be the person you want to be today. Mental attitudes are merely habits and habits are merely repeated actions, so begin today by being the self-controlled, persistent and cheerful person you want to be and you will bring joy to others and enduring happiness to yourself."

The changes made by the Board of Education in the curriculum were unanimously endorsed, particularly those introducing new text books in spelling and physiology. The policies of the New Brunswick Teachers' Association were endorsed and all teachers were urged to loyally support this body in all its actions, especially toward the continuation and improvement of the Minimum Salary Act.

The following officers were elected: President, A. T. Patstone, Rothesay Consolidated School; vice-president, Miss Lesley Parlee, Corn Hill School; secretary-treasurer, Wm. D. Robinson, Sussex School; additional members of the executive, Inspector C. T. Wetmore, Hampton; Harold F. Stairs, Apohaqui Superior School; and Mrs. Winnifred Dixon, Hampton Consolidated School.

Sanction Plans to be Tightened to Protect Favor of Countries Participating.

GENEVA, Oct. 19—Automatic machinery to prevent "sanctions profiteering" was set up by a League of Nations committee tonight. This was one of the protective measures approved by the League's sub-committee on mutual aid.

The set-up is aimed both at non-League countries likely to build up a swollen war trade with Italy and the League member states, failing to participate, or participating half-heartedly in economic sanctions against Italy.

These economic sanctions—the "buy nothing" boycott and the key products embargo plan—will go before the League committee of 18 tomorrow morning and are expected to be finally approved by the "big committee" of 52 nations tomorrow night.

Number Swelled
Formal acceptance by the Irish Free State, Lithuania and Uruguay swelled to 16 the number of nations announcing enforcement of an arms embargo against Italy and the lifting of such an embargo from the shoulders of little Ethiopia. The others are Great Britain, France, Russia, Poland, Greece, Cuba, Latvia, Colombia, Finland, India Australia Sweden and Norway.

The purpose of the anti-profiteering machinery arranged today is to equalize trade currents likely to be damaged by the non-participation of certain states in sanctions.

For instance, if the permanent vigilance committee which will be created to watch over the enforcement of sanctions find Germany shipping vastly increased quantities of coal to Italy as a result of Italy's exclusion from British coal supplies, League states participating in sanctions would reduce their coal imports from Germany and increase them from Britain.

For Mutual Aid
The mutual aid sub-committee also adopted provisions for a general in-
