It is understood that several of the teachers who some years ago had their salaries reduced and who made application to have these salaries reinstated are feeling kind of sore at the board because it was understood that raises were to be given last year. And instead of the raises being given a substantial raise was handed to one teacher, who, the others claim, was not as much entitled to it as they were. They also claim that money was spent in a lot of useless gadgets, when it should have been given to the teachers.

At least one citizen has called the attention of The Daily Mail to the overcrowded condition of the High School building, and the question is asked: "Are the children attending this overcrowded building properly drilled in regard to fire emergency?" It is said that whenever a fire drill is to be given, the pupils and teachers are notified an hour or two ahead. It would seem that the proper way to give the fire drill was for someone to give the alarm without any prearranged plan.

It is said that a large number of out of town pupils have been allowed into the High School to attend the commercial, vocational and other departments, while certain city pupils were not allowed to register on the grounds that the classes were overcrowded.

Bridal Pageant

At the bridal pageant which was recently put on at St. Paul's church under the efficient direction of Mrs. E. R. Blackmer, it is worthy of special notice that three wedding anniversaries were featured in the city on the day of the pageant. There included the 33rd anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Walker, whose wedding gown was worn by her daughter Miss Grace Walker. Miss Jean Smith wore her mother's wedding gown, the day of the pageant being the 28th anniversary of her wedding. The small twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Graham were flower girls at several of the wedding scenes on the 17th anniversary of their parents' wedding.

Other gowns shown included Mrs. J. H. Ramsay, bride of 1916, whose wedding gown was worn by her daughter, Miss Millicent Ramsay. Mrs. J. B. Crocker, bride of 1907, gown worn by Miss Patricia Clark. Mrs. H. S. Wright, 1909, gown worn by Mrs. Douglas Terry. Mrs. Kenneth Scott, 1924, gown worn by Miss Nancy McCunn. Mrs. Robert Scott's gown, 1925, worn by Miss Burla Todd. Mrs. E. C. Armstrong's gown, 1926, was worn by her niece, Miss Marion Morrison. 1928 weddings were represented by the bridal gown of Mrs. Byard Manzer of Woodstock, 1931 by the gown of Mrs. Austin Jonah of Moncton; 1933, 1934, 1935 and 1936 were represented by Mrs. Emerson Skene, Mrs. Arthur McLagan, Mrs. Robert Forbes and Mrs. D. Nichols, who were present and wore their own bridal gowns. Confederation year 1867 was represented by Mrs. W. J. West, who wore the gown of Mrs. Clerk, who was married in Boston in 1867.

In the audience were preesent brides of several years ago, Mrs. H. A. Watson, Mrs. Howard Young, and Mrs. Harold Walker. Miss Marion Gibson and Edwin J. Blackmer of this city were married in 1923 by Rev. Dr. F. H. Holmer. Mrs. Blackmer, who was the efficient director of this the outstanding church social function of the season, was represented in the pageant by her gown, which was one of the most beautiful seen in the pageant, it being worn by Miss Brown. During the evening vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Ruby Miller, Miss Ann Sypher, Mrs. Charles Fleet, Mrs. Nita McKiel of Saint John, E. Douglas Terry, Robt. VanDine and Charles Bolden.

Miss Carrie Porter was a bride in a Korean scene, the beautiful gowns which were made of a native silk in pale shades in bolero style and which had been loaned for the occasion by Mrs. A. H. Barker, Korean missionary. Other gowns included those of Mrs. Grant Locheed and Mrs. Everett Mitchell.

Mrs. E. M. Griffiths, Mrs. Charles Robinson and Mrs. John D. Cameron are the three only brides in the 1800's living.

Mrs. Bruce Robb, bride of 1908; Mrs. Percy Smith, bride of 1908; Mrs. Everett Mitchell, Mrs. Harry Watson, Mrs. J. H. Ramsay, Mrs. Grant Locheed, Mrs. E. R. Blackmer, Mrs. Kenneth Scott, Mrs. Robert Scott, Mrs. E. C. Armstrong, Mrs. Bayard Manzer, Woodstock; Mrs. Austin Jonah, Mrs. Arthur McLagan and Mrs. Robert Forbes.

Miss Margaret Scott wore the gown of her mother's cousin Mrs. Charles Robinson of Harvey, who was married in 1895. Mrs. Guy Pond wore the gown of Mrs. John D. Cameron, a bride of 1896. Miss Mary Irvine, the wedding gowns of her mother, a bride of 1900, and of her grandmother, Mrs. John Fairley of 1873. Others taking part included Mrs. Barry, Miss Marjorie Matheson, Miss Ruby Johns, Mrs. Harry Grant, Miss Dorothy Thomas, Miss Muriel Fraser, Miss Rhoda Young, Miss Betty Watson, Miss Mary VanWart, Miss Margaret Brown and Miss Burla Todd.

The flower girls were the little Misses Jeanne Corbin, Joan Robinson, Helen Jean Edgecombe, Louise Graham and Elizabeth Graham.

The scene enacted in St. Paul's church on that evening was one of outstanding beauty and impressiveness long to be remembered. It carried a message of romance and contributed much in the revival of the momentousness of Christian marriage. It was also a lesson in the customs and fashions of the day as the years rolled on.

The floral decorations were artistic the central theme being an improvised bridal arch under which "the brides" stood for the view of the interested audience. Much credit is due to those in charge.

Mrs. Earl Brown of Stanley is in the city for a few days.

A debate on the subject, "Resolved That Undergraduates Should Wear Gowns," was the feature of the second of a series of three get-together meetings of the freshmen class held by The Brunswickian, student publication of the University of New Brunswick, last night, in the Memorial Hall. The affirmative, supported by William A. Gibbon, Edinburg, and Byron M. Fisher, Marysville, was awarded the decision by acclamatory vote of the audience over their opponents. Alan A. Glennie, Saint John, and Henry F. Martin, Lake Megantic, Que. The wearing of gowns by undergraduates in the Oxford manner, although still made "compulsory" in the University of New Brunswick calendar, is in practice never followed. Previous to the debate, Alfred A. Dougan, Harvey, president of the Junior class, addressed the new students on the subject, "Athletics at the University of New Brunswick." Horace M. Block, co-editor of The Brunswickian, was chairman. Up to a few years ago the student always wore gowns at lectures.

The U.N.B. Dramatic Society held a meeting today at noon and decided upon a play to be put on the first week in November. The play will be "The Golden Hill." Trials will commence next week. The directors will be William Springford, John Ferris and Miss Margaret Fraser. Mr. Springford, the president of the society, presided at today's meeting.
