WANT HOCKEY RULES CHANGED

Revised Code Needed to Produce Open Game Says Manager of Hawks

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—“Some of the rules will have to be changed.” That is the answer Clem Loughlin, manager of the Chicago Black Hawks, gives when questioned about defensive hockey. Loughlin admits that there has been too much defensive hockey around this year, but at the same time refuses to acknowledge that the Hawks have been any more serious offenders than some of the other teams.

“I’d say that the managers finally have caught up with the rules,” continued Loughlin. “Rules have been put in to prevent too much defensive work but the managers have found ways to get around them, so more changes will have to be made if the game is to be opened up. It’s like preparing for war. As soon as one nation invents a poisonous gas another devises a mask as protection.”

“Of course I do think there has been too much talk about defensive hockey. The situation isn’t as bad as some would lead you to believe.”

“Then don’t forget, too, that it would be suicide for certain teams to play a wide open game. Take the New York Americans of a few years ago. Their defensive tactics were booed every time they appeared on the ice but the team was so constructed that using any other methods they probably wouldn’t have won five games all season.”

REDS GOT A “RAW” DEAL SAYS OWNER CROSBY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 18.—Powell Crosby, Jr., owner and President of the Cincinnati Reds, conferred tonight with Frankie Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Although both claimed their meeting was “mere coincidence,” the subject of the conversation reportedly was “Dizzy” Dean, star pitcher of the Cards, who is on the auction block.

Pleasure boats of Crosby and Frisch occupied the same dock as the former “Fordham Flash” and the Cincinnati owner went into a huddle aboard Frisch’s boat, “The Cardinal.” Frisch’s 33-foot boat docked here yesterday and Crosby’s “Sea Owl” came in late today.

“We sure would like to have ‘Dizzy’ Dean,” said Crosby, “but this meeting here tonight is just mere coincidence. ‘I didn’t know Frisch was here,’” he added.

Frisch, here to supervise preliminary arrangements for establishment of the Card training camp at Daytona Beach, had little to say about the meeting, except to add that he was “surprised” to see Crosby.

Their talk immediately shifted to “Dizzy” Dean, however, as both agreed he was a great pitcher. But neither would go further than to admit that the great Dean is a highly-desirable baseball property.

Crosby was bitter at the recent ruling of Judge K. M. Landis, baseball’s czar. Asked about the Handley and Peacock case, in which Landis ruled both players free agents, Crosby said:

“I think that in view of the Feller decision, Cincinnati got a pretty raw deal, and I intend to investigate the Landis matter when I return to Cincinnati.”

“Don’t forget, too, that teams do not have to score a lot of goals to provide an exciting, entertaining game. Too much emphasis, too, has been put on the need of more goals and devising some way to make it easier to score.”

“In big cities where everything travels at a mad pace anyway, they want action, furious action. But up in Canada where lives are lived more leisurely they appreciate the skill and strategy of a 0 to 0 game.”

“I don’t see why there should be any objection to a team checking closely. That in my opinion adds to the excitement.”

“When a team sits back and waits for the breaks that produces the dull sort of a game and something should be done to stop the practice. But when the rules are there you hardly can blame a manager for taking advantage of them.”

In the days just before the expansion of the National Hockey League Loughlin was regarded as one of the best defense players in the game. He was outstanding, and so it was most surprising when he pronounced the present crop of players better than the oldtimers.

“I know I’m going to be ridden plenty about this,” he said, “but I think the hockey player of today is better than the one of say twenty years ago. He can do more, he’s more versatile and, considering how many more games he plays in a season, more durable.”

“Years ago a player was outstanding at one particular phase of the game. In these days a forward like Schirmer can do about everything.”

That Amateur Split

Says the Toronto Globe: “Hockey and the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada are at the parting of the ways, and perhaps it is just as well, both for the A.A.U. of C. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.”

“These associations have been in double harness for a long time, but no longer can they pull together. Their views of the modern requirements of amateurism do not coincide, which, being the case, it is better that they should cease to be a team.”

“This is no hasty move on the part of the C.A.H.A. Hockey’s demands have been presented for discussion at two consecutive annual meetings of the A.A.U. and have not been met. C.A.H.A. heads believe their sport is in need of drastic changes; A.A.U. officials, while making some concessions, are unwilling to adopt the now famous ‘four points’ Obviously many have been tossed out the window and a divorce has become a requirement.”

“Severance of articles of alliance between the two bodies requires thirty days’ notice. That has been given by President Cecil Duncan of the C.A.H.A.—the decree nisi, as it were. In a month, then, the decree becomes absolute.”

“The hockeyists, in addition to the failure to secure adoption of their ‘four points,’ charge that they have found the A.A.U. ‘ineffectual in enforcement of suspensions.’ Altogether, they are dissatisfied and are convinced that they can traverse the path alone to better advantage when linked with the A.A.U. They silence still, or forestall, some possible alarms by pointing out that the breakaway will not affect their international alliances, and they prove that they are not going to make any hasty moves when they announce the decision to make no final decision as to further changes in hockey until their next annual meeting.”

AL MCCOY BEAT SHUCCO N. E. TITLE

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—Al McCoy, stiff-punching French-Canadian, captured Tony Shucco’s New England heavyweight title, tonight with a mighty closing rush in a furious 12-round bout at Mechanics’ Building.

Shucco, after jabbing and hooking into a wide lead, was out on his feet when the final bell sounded.

The decision was divided, two judges voting for McCoy, who scaled 188. The referee pronounced the stirring contest a draw. The unsuccessful fighter weighed 187.

The crafty champion, whose baffling crouching style has enabled him to out-point five titleholders, including Jimmy Braddock, the current heavyweight ruler of the world, held the determined McCoy at bay most of the bout with a snake-like left jab and a perfectly timed right cross.

Wins By a Kayo

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—A modern “Jack the giant killer” turned up tonight when Bob Pastor, former New York University heavyweight star, knocked out the gigantic Ray Impellittere of Cold Springs, N. Y., in the seventh round of their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden. Impellittere rushed 238 to Pastor’s 183 1-4.

Alias Col. Stoopnagle

“If you don’t mind, Mr. Taylor, it’s your turn to read a line.”

This amazing statement came through the nation-wide loudspeakers on a recent Sunday afternoon as Stoopnagle and Budd carried on their tomfoolery.

The real story back of this remark wasn’t on the air. It was only at the conclusion of the broadcast that the truth came out—it marked the first time in eight years that Colonel Stoopnagle’s real name has ever been associated with one of his programmes!

The situation which forced his partner, Budd, to ask Stoopnagle to pay attention to the script, came about in this manner: Joe Cook, the famous comedian who will become chief comic on the “Chateau” programme Jan. 3, was in the audience.

While Budd an announcer Harry “Zeh” monopolized the dialogue, Stoopnagle turned towards the audience and carried on a pantomime conversation with Cook. There was a lapse of several seconds as the Colonel missed his cue. It was then that Budd said:

“If you don’t mind, Mr. Taylor, it’s your turn to read a line.”

Col. Stoopnagle was christened “Chase Taylor.” He had been broadcasting for eight years, but Sunday night marked the first time that his real name has been heard on one of his broadcasts.

New York City

Phil Baker will throw open “The Old Baker Homestead” on pre-Christmas Week broadcast of Dec. 20, via the WABC-Columbia chain. He will entertain Harry “Bottle” McNaughton, Agnes Moorehead, Hal Kemp and his orchestra, and Ed Smalley’s Seven’s with droll tales of his youth and a accordion solo. Kemp’s talented instrumentalists will offer their own interpretation of the new swing raga Papa Tree Top Tall.”

Hollywood

Jack Benny has been offered a leading role in a new film to be produced by Samuel Goldwyn. This new West coast assignment, if Benny accepts, will keep him in California through the winter. Don Wilson, his announcer, is making a series of film short subjects. Kenny Baker has been signed to appear in a new Warner Brothers picture, “The King and the Chorus Girl,” and Phil Harris, Benny’s bandsman, is fulfilling long-term hotel orchestra obligations on the coast. It would seem that Benny’s decision to continue broadcasting from California meets with the approval of his supporting cast.

SEAGULLS-CAPITALS GAME BRINGS OUT RUFFLED FEELINGS

SAINT JOHN, Dec. 19.—The local Seagulls moved into a deadlock with Moncton Maroons for the leadership of the Southern N. B. Hockey League last night, when they edged the Capitals 7-6 in a typical Saint John-Fredericton brawl that went to overtime and brought out good and bad hockey with a couple of fist fights for good measure.

It was a rough, tough battle, one of the most gruelling tussles in the years of warfare between the old rivals.

Heavy checking, slashing and fierce rushes all played their part in a game that was packed with thrills from beginning to end.

The fistfights that turned into a wild melee near the gate leading to the dressing rooms did not come during the game, but after the gong had sounded ending the first period.

The brawl came when a Fredericton player charged Dr. Patterson, who had got away with a shot as the bell went. Livingston then took a poke at the player who made the charge on the Doctor and Burke also took a hand in the proceedings.

Players of both teams had trouble in parting the combatants and when they did Burke was beneath three of the Caps, one of whom was pummeling him about the head.

Livingston suffered a dislocated shoulder when he was heavily checked in the second period by a Fredericton forward left near the boards. He was rushed to the dressing room where the bone was reset and was unable to return for the rest of the game.

In the third “Bun” McLennahan was the victim of a heavy check and suffered a slight injury to his right knee. He went to the players’ box but was able to continue later.

Penalty Shot Called

A penalty shot was called against Fredericton in the third when a forward deliberately attacked Olsen from behind as he was near the goal crease to take a pass for a shot. Olsen failed to make the shot good. Young taking it high on the pads and knocking it away.

Saint John scored three goals in the second to one for the Caps and had a one-goal lead going into the third 5-4.

In the third Fredericton scored twice before Saint John notched the count at 6-6. The Seagulls then went on to win in two minutes and 15 seconds of the overtime when Don Patterson tallied his third goal of the night. From then on Saint John played a defensive game to hold the advantage for a triumph that sent them into a tie with Moncton Maroons for the league lead.

Through the game Young was a standout and turned aside steaming close-in drives. Lynch gave a nice display on several occasions but he was beaten all the way on an easy combination play that he should have smothered.

“Bus” McLennahan gave Fredericton the lead when he banged a shot at Lynch which went into the net off the goalie’s stick as he went to the ice for a save.

The Seagulls went to work in the second and feeling ran high with much slashing and heavy checking resulting.

Three minutes went by before Don Patterson tallied the goal that evened the count with Fredericton. He bagged the goal on a solo rush. The game went to the 10:55 mark in the session when “Bun” McLennahan and Kilburn combined to give the Caps the lead again.

Again Patterson came through when he took Olsen’s pass from in front of the Fredericton cage and fired the heel past Young. Burke bagged a goal following a raid into the Fredericton defence area. Dr. Patterson was given the assist, although Murphy also carried in on the play.

THE SUMMARY

Referees, Payne and Duncan.

The summary:

TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN FOOTBALL IS PAID IN CURRENT COLLIER’S

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A tribute to Canadian football and a prediction that within a few years Canadian teams will be invading college grid-irons in the States, is contained in an article in the current Collier’s written by Quentin Reynolds, sports editor of the Magazine. Turning his ear to the future, Reynolds hears the radio commentator as follows:

“And at the end of the half of this Bosc Bowl game the score stands 14 to 0 in favor of McGill University. The light, fast Canadian team has been bewildering Stanford with its speed and with the deception of its lateral passing attack. Never has such an exhibition of lateral passing been seen in the Rose Bowl. . . .”

The writer states that this possibility is neither impossible nor fantastic to anyone who has watched two good Canadian teams play this year under Canadian rules which differ only in details from the rules under which colleges play in the States. Each year, he says, Canadian football more closely approaches the game as it is known below the border, and it is only a matter of time before it corresponds exactly.

“In some respects,” Reynolds states, “Canadian teams are now the equal or the superior of college teams in the States. Both their lateral passing and kicking are perhaps superior to these aspects of the game as exemplified by our leading teams.”

He quotes Major D. Stuart Forbes, director of athletics at McGill, as follows:

“It may come to pass some day when the rules are made uniform and when we are satisfied that our Canadian teams can compete on equal terms with your college teams that we shall play them.”
