

WHYS AND OTHERWISE AS SEEN BY H. L. G.

Unless Minto tightens up in the crises for its pitchers there is very liable to be only one more game of baseball for the Mintoites this season.

Max Schmeling, with a beautiful wife, a sure title ahead, and sitting pretty for 50,000 pounds next time, says he thought of Hitler and that gave him strength. Joe Louis says "in the second round" he hit me a crack on the jaw, and in the fourth another crack on the jaw, and in the seventh another crack on the jaw." That seems to explain that famous scrap, and perhaps Joe only thought of Halle Selassie.

Our contemporary the Moncton Transcript reports that Al Jolson, star of radio and stage, has gone into the cauliflower-business, and has bought the contract of Henry Armstrong, one of California's leading featherweight champs. Although Al is seeking a fight with Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, and says he will guarantee Tony something like $25,000 for a title bout in Los Angeles next month.

Hic! Hic! The flowing bowl does some strange things to a man but did you ever hear of a man so gaily set up that he disliked his own reflection in the looking glass? It's a new form of self effacement. And not very profitable at that. Ben Koldyke, living near Rock Mills in Ontario was arrested in a pool room after he had smashed a mirror trying to "scrap" with himself. For taking a "crack" at himself Koldyke will serve a sentence behind the bars.

United States football's "eternal freshman" Alonzo Stagg is 74 years old. He expects to be coaching football when he's a hundred. The present is the beginning of his 47th year as a coach. He has been at the University of Chicago helm for no fewer than 41 years. What a youth!

To some cynical souls, the highlights of the recent Olympic games in Germany was the storm aroused when Mrs. Jarrett was dropped from the swimming squad of the U. S. team, and Herr Hitler's discourteous and haughty gesture in omitting to congratulate the American Negro champions as he greeted the Nordics on their triumphs.

JESSE OWENS ADMITS HE'S OUT FOR CASH

Still an Amateur Despite Suspension
By A.A.U.

Jesse Owens has returned to the United States to "make as much money as possible," after being "kicked around quite a bit" by A. A. U. Officials in Europe, the Olympic hero said yesterday in a ship-to-shore telephone interview with The United Press.

He said he still considered himself an amateur athlete, but expected to cash in on his athletic glory as soon as possible to support his wife and child.

"I'm not broke," Owens said, "but most of my money is gone. I wasn't able to take much money to Berlin with me because I had to leave it at home for my family. It doesn't make any difference to me what I do as long as I make a lot of money."

Owens and his coach, Larry Snyder, of Ohio State, are traveling together, but Jesse said it was his own idea to return home at once. For that decision the A. A. U. suspended him on the grounds that he failed to keep an engagement to run in a post-Olympic meet at Stockholm.

"I don't know anything about my suspension," said Owens. "I haven't talked to Mr. Brundage or Mr. Ferris. But I never told any one I would go to Stockholm. They told me to go."

Owens readily answered all questions and sounded as if he were enjoying himself aboard the world's newest big ship.

"I'm having a wonderful time," he said. "Every one is very nice to me. I get a big kick out of meeting so many people who say nice things to me. We never have a dull moment, always doing something. I'm in good condition but haven't been in hard training. I play shuffleboard and do a little running to loosen up. It's kind of hard to run on the decks because of the roll of the ship."

Owens laughed heartily when he was asked: "Have you signed many autographs?"

"If I had a penny for every time I've signed my name I wouldn't have to work the rest of my life," he said.

Owens revealed that he was swamped with fan mail while in Berlin, but hadn't been able to read hundreds of letters because they were in German.

The Olympics were one grand thrill for him, Owens said. He didn't have an unpleasant experience until after they were over and the A. A. U. wanted him to barnstorm over Europe, running in every meet they picked for him.

"I was tired out after the Olympics and needed a rest," he said. "I ran in four meets for them and I thought that was enough. They told me I had to go to Stockholm. I didn't tell them I wouldn't, but I never said I would. After the Empire Games I decided I had better come back home because I was tired of running and wanted to get back to see my wife and baby."

MRS. DOLAN CONTINUES FINE GOLFING PLAY

OTTAWA, Aug. 27—A pair of outstanding Montreal golfers, Mrs. A. B. Darling, defending champion from the Whitlock Club, and Mrs. Jos. Dagenais, of Laval-sur-le-Lac, along with a pair from the Capital, today swept impressively into the semi-finals for the Province of Quebec women's golf association championship. Mrs. D. Leo Dolan, formerly of St. John, N. B., and Halifax, N. S., of the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club, where the contests are being waged, and Miss Evelyn Mills, Royal Ottawa, are Ottawa's representatives.

Fredericton Lady Defeated At Halifax

"Youth Must Be Served"

"All I've got to say," remarked Jack Sharkey into the radio microphone in his dressing room after his encounter with Joe Louis, "is that I guess youth must be served. [No wise observation that. Rather, it was an apt description of what has happened to many others down through the ages. One clings to youth forgetting that it is merely a period of transition. Once through the younger years, the individual is on his way to finding a balance that goes to make a fuller and happier life. It is perhaps natural to shed a tear for having to leave one's youth behind. However, it must be remembered that being and acting one's age brings a great deal more satisfaction than many persons realize. There is no turning back the clock. The understanding man will recognize this and advance through the years confidently and without disillusionment, meeting the changes as he goes along.]"

N. Y. GIANTS TAKE FIRST IN NATIONAL

Wes Ferrell Comes Back to Win Brilliant Game 7 to 0 — Browns Beat Yanks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—The third place Cubs bunched their hits at Chicago today to take both ends of a double-header from Philadelphia, 4-2 and 7-4, before 10,067 fans.

In the opener the Cubs combined five of the ten hits off Claude Passeau for all their four runs in the third inning.

An extra base-hit attack, climaxed by consecutive doubles by Billy Herman, Frank Demaree and Stan Hack in the sixth inning, routed Joe Bowman in the nightcap and helped Larry French to his 16th triumph.

New York Giants' winning streak reached 14 straight as they defeated the Reds at Cincinnati 6-5, although Carl Hubbell almost blew the game in the ninth before pulling out the victory. Victory tightened the Giants' grip on first place.

Browns Defeat Yanks
NEW YORK, Aug. 26—A four-run attack in the fifth inning, featured by Beau Bell's triple with the bases loaded, enabled St. Louis to come from behind here today and trounce the league-leading Yankees 5-2.

Wes Ferrell, Red Sox pitching ace, rushed to the mound at the start of the Boston game with Detroit and pitched brilliant ball, shutting out the Tigers 7-0.

His team-mates hit belligerently behind him, giving him staunch support.

Ferrell's success marked his first appearance on the mound since his display of temperament at New York against the Yankees and his subsequent suspension and fine of $1,000.

CAVALRY VETS. ON CAMPAIGN TRIP IN ROCKIES

(Special to The Daily Mail)
BANFF, Alta., Aug. 27—Two veterans of the Cavalry, Lt. Col. W. H. Michelle and R. W. Martin of Bagshot, Eng., have laid themselves out a nine-day riding campaign trip, from Chateau Lake Louise to Jasper.

They hope to visit the Columbia ice fields and several good lakes for writers on their way, as they have just finished a campaign trip in the Banff district during which they caught many fish. They left this morning accompanied by Jack Hooley, a guide, and his assistant, a pack train of nine ponies will carry their equipment.

(Special to The Daily Mail)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—President Roosevelt will confer with the heads of the leading nations of the world in an attempt to form plans for peace and its maintenance was reported today from official authorities.

Four Nova Scotians All That Are Left in Maritime Ladies' Golf Play—Miss Chestnut Ousted

HALIFAX, Aug. 27—Four Nova Scotians were all that were left to-night in the struggle for the women's golfing championship of the Maritime provinces on the hills of Ashburn's links.

First and second round matches today eliminated 12 of the 16 players who qualified yesterday in the annual meet's championship division.

Advancing successfully with the defending champion, Miss Edith Bauld of Halifax, were Miss Babs Creighton of Yarmouth, sensational young leader of the qualifying round and this year's Nova Scotia titleholder; Miss Maisie Howard, brilliant 18-year old Halifax shotmaker; and Mrs. D. A. Campbell of Bridgewater, who unexpectedly eliminated Mrs. S. Goodwin, former Nova Scotia champion, in the second round today.

RED SOX SHOW DIFFICULTY OF ALL-STAR TEAMS

TORONTO, Aug. 27—One feature of the almost invincible drive of New York Giants toward the National League leadership—which has not been emphasized—has been some rather sensational mound work by Carl Hubbell, Bill Terry's ace southpaw.

"King" Carl has practically pitched the Giants to a contending position single handed, and on Wednesday, by beating Brooklyn, 3 to 2, he chalked up his eighteenth victory of the campaign, and his eighth in a row.

But Hubbell's effectiveness cannot be judged only by won and lost percentages. The talented southpaw has held the opposition to a grand total of nine runs, earned and unearned, in his last seven games, during which time the best his team-mates could do for him was six runs in one game. On another occasion he was presented with four runs to work on, but in the other five games the Giants could do no better than score three times at the most.

Value Appreciated
It is no wonder then, that Tom Meany, in the World-Telegram, said that Secretary Eddie Brannick and Manager Bill Terry of the Giants took a glimpse around to make certain Carl was in the party as the team left New York after winning nineteen out of twenty-two games. "If he hadn't been, there wouldn't have been much sense in taking the trip," claimed the New York writer. Meany also asserts that had Hubbell faltered the Giants might quite easily have lost their winning touch. While the Polo Grounds tenants were ringing up twenty-nine wins in their last thirty-four games, Hubbell pitched relief ball on three occasions, but only once in eleven mound appearances during that stretch was he batted from the box, and then by Cincinnati Reds, in July.

[Wes Ferrell "Out"]
According to Manager Joe Cronin, Wesley Ferrell has pitched his last game for Boston Red Sox. The temperamental hurler went too far when he left the pitching mound of his own accord, instead of waiting for orders from his boss.

As a matter of fact, Ferrell went too far earlier in the week, when he made a similar leave without instructions, but Cronin was inclined to overlook the incident, in view of Ferrell's value to the team.

When informed of Cronin's attitude on the matter, the egoistical hurler belligerently declared he was going "to punch Cronin on the jaw."

The occurrence will cause sports writers all over the country to type out the familiar "we-told-you-so" phrase. Before the campaign got under way Cronin was the subject of sympathy by scribes who claimed no team of individual stars could co-operate successfully.

Apparently they were right. The costly Red Sox athletes have lost more games than they have won, and, if other reports of unsportsmanlike action by other members of the team are true, it's a wonder Cronin didn't use drastic measures sooner.

Fred Perry Is Just 'Reg'lar Fellar'

TORONTO, Aug. 26—One can't help but like Fred Perry. The smiling young Englishman, idol of tennis fans everywhere, endeared himself to a crowd of shivering Toronto devotees of the game yesterday as he took part in the tournament named in his honor at the Toronto Tennis Club, Price Street.

A refreshing thing about Perry is that there is no pretense about him. Everything he does is so spontaneous and appealing to an audience that there is no hint of the distasteful temperament of some lesser tennis players. His bearing on the courts befits his position as ranking player in the world, and he is ever considerate of his rival.

Yesterday his opponent, Ross Wilson, tumbled and fell while attempting to return a shot, and Perry leaped the net and was at Wilson's side in seconds to ascertain if the Toronto player was hurt. "Take it easy, Ross; no use to wear yourself out, you know," he warned, as he returned to his own side of the net.

Continually throughout the match he complimented his rival on well-placed shots. His little tricks with the racquet, neat but unorthodox returns of hard shots, delighted the crowd, and helped them forget the cold. Perry will oppose Grant McLean this afternoon in the finals of the tournament, and if the weather is warmer, a large crowd should be on hand.

MISS HELEN SPIKE FINALIST IN LADIES' SINGLES

Feature to Today's Play Will Be Men's Singles Final Between George Johnston and "Sid" Bartlett.

Miss Helen Spike of this city by defeating Miss Jean Dickie yesterday 6-3 and 6-4 in the York county tennis tournament earned a finalist spot in the Ladies' singles play. In Ladies' doubles Miss Y. Cormier and Miss M. Crockett defeated Mrs. Robinson and Miss Glen Burt, the scores being 6-3 and 6-4. In the only other match played Miss O. Watts defeated Miss Eileen Keenan in the first set 6-4 but the match had to be postponed after the second set had run to 5-5. The match will be resumed today.

A feature today is the men's singles final between "Sid" Bartlett and George Johnston, which will be played this afternoon at four o'clock.
