TORONTO, Sept. 5-Following a heart to heart talk with Police Inspector Robert Alexander, Rudy Vallee admitted he had 'made a mistake' in shooting a sharp left to the jaw of a bottle-thrower in the Exhibition ballroom Monday night.

Earlier, the youthful victim of Vallee's potent left hook, accompanied by his companions of the previous evening, offered his apologies to the orchestra leader. Rudy said everything was "O.K., as long as it didn't happen again."

According to Inspector Alexander, who investigated the entire incident, it was not thrown, but merely slid work has taken him around the along the orchestra stage, coming to rest at Vallee's feet.

Rushing from the bandstand to the dance floor, Rudy demanded: 'Who threw that bottle?" On receipt of the information, he 'went to work,' and the youth went to the floor. On the youth's claim that he had nothing to do with the affair, Valle immediately
